MESSAGE

OF THE

GOVERNOR OF INDIANA,

TO THE

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

JANUARY 9th, 1863.

INDIANAPOLIS:
JOSEPH J. BINGHAM, STATE PRINTER.

MESSAGE.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Indiana:

In the Message which I am about to read in your hearing, I will endeavor to present, a brief but comprehensive and intelligent outline of the operations of the State Government for the past two years, and the present condition of the State.

NUMBER OF TROOPS.

The following statement will show as near as the data in the Adjutant General's office will enable me, the number of troops Indiana has furnished to the United States in the prosecution of this war.

Under the call for 75,000, April 1861.

6 regiments of Infantry—3 months' service.

Under the call for 500,000, July 1861.

2 regiments of Infantry—		12 months'	service.
47 "	"	3 years'	"
4 Companies	"	3 "	"
3 Regiments of Cavalry—		3 "	"
18 Batteries of Artillery—		3 "	"

Under the calls of July 1862.

1 Regiment of Infantry—		12 months'	service.
30 "	"	3 years'	"
6 Companies	"	3 "	"
2 Regiments	"	3 months'	"
1 Regiment	"	30 days'	"

1 Regiment	"	60 days' service.
2 Reg'ts Indiana Legion—		3 months' "
2 " of Cavalry,		3 years' "
9 Batteries of Artillery,		3 years' "

In all 98 Regiments of Infantry and Cavalry and 27 Batteries of Artillery, and comprising ninety-five thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven officers and men.

To this number are to be added 6,831 recruits, who joined old regiments and batteries in the field, making in all 102,698 men. The above does not embrace all who are enrolled, or who left the State and joined regiments and batteries in other States, but only such as were actually mustered into the service in the State of Indiana.

THE DRAFT.

On the 7th day of July, 1862, the President of the United States called for 300,000 additional volunteers. On the 5th day of August, 1862, he called for a second 300,000, to be raised by a draft, if enough volunteers could not be procured. Under each call the quota of Indiana was fixed by the War Department at 21,250 men, making 42,500 men. By the 20th of September both of these calls had been filled by volunteers, except 6,060, for which number it became necessary to draft. The number of men to be drafted, was apportioned among the townships, giving credit to each township for all the volunteers previously furnished. When the enrollment was completed it was found that 635 townships had furnished the number required of them, leaving the deficiency to be supplied by the remaining 334 townships. The quota of each township was assigned on the 20th of September, and the draft took place on the 6th day of October. The privilege of volunteering to supply the deficiency was continued up to the time of the draft, at which time the number required by draft was reduced to 3,003. for which number the draft was made. The draft was conducted throughout the State without interruption or disturbance, except in a single instance, and at the time fixed the drafted men, with few exceptions, reported themselves in camp for service.

It affords me pleasure to state these facts as evidence of the prompt and quiet obedience with which the people of Indiana submit to law and the demands of the Government.

The Constitution of Indiana provides that no person conscientiously opposed to bearing arms shall be compelled to do militia duty, but such person shall pay an equivalent for exemption. As the draft was upon the militia of the State, all persons included in the Constitutional provision were entitled to its benefit. The Legislature had omitted to prescribe any amount for the equivalent, and Assistant Adjutant General Buckingham, of the War Department, under whose supervision the draft was conducted throughout the U. S., fixed the sum at $200, which was supposed to be the ordinary amount required at that time to hire a substitute. The draft was made under the 1st section of the act of Congress of July 17th, 1862, which authorized the Secretary of War, where there is no State law, or where the State law is deficient, to adopt such rules and regulations in regard to calling out the militia as he may deem best.

The whole number who established their claims to the benefit of the Constitutional provision was 3,169, as is shown by the report of the Commissioner. A portion of these took exceptions to the plan adopted by Mr. Siddall, the Commissioner of drafting, by which it was determined how many, and by whom, the equivalent should be paid, and to the amount of the equivalent itself. An appeal was taken from his action in the premises. As the Constitution and laws of Indiana make no provision beyond the fact that persons conscientiously opposed to bearing arms, shall not be compelled to do military duty, and as the authority by which the draft was made was derived solely from the act of Congress, and the action of the War Department, I referred the questions involved at once to the decision of Assistant Adjutant General Buckingham. After mature deliberation, he decided that as the exemption was made by virtue of the Constitution of the State only, the War Department had no authority and could confer none upon the Executive of the State to enforce the collection of the equivalent, or determine its amount.

In the correctness of this decision I fully concur, and therefore refer the whole matter to the Legislature as a proper subject for its consideration.

I appointed J. P. Siddall, Esq., a Commissioner, under whose direction and supervision the draft was made. His duties were novel and difficult, but were performed with great promptness and ability. His report is herewith submitted.

SIX REGIMENTS.

At the extra session of the Legislature, an act was passed authorizing the organization of six regiments of State troops, enlisting for the period of twelve months. These regiments were raised, and shortly after their organization four of them were permitted to reorganize and enter the service of the United States, for three years or during the war; the remaining two were subsequently transferred to the service of the United States, under a provision in the act authorizing such transfer to fill the requisition for troops made by the President of the United States, the general Government assuming all expenses incurred in their organization and support.

SUPPLIES.

During the first five months of the war there was no Federal Quartermaster in this State, and the General Government furnished no supplies of any kind for the equipment of Indiana troops, but all necessary supplies were furnished by the State.

The State has also furnished large supplies from time to time, since that, where they were required for the health and prompt equipment of our troops, and where the Government had failed or was unable to furnish them in time.

STATE ARMS.

When the war began the stock of arms on hand belonging to the Government, was small and generally of a very inferior quality. It was due to the lives and honor of the brave men who went to the field; to the character of the State and the success of our cause, that our troops should be furnished with the best arms that could be procured. Accordingly, I sent my agents into the market from time to time, and purchased the best arms that could be obtained upon fair terms, and this I continued to do until such time as the Federal Government requested the States to desist from the further purchase of arms, alleging that it increased the competition and raised the prices, and declaring that it would supply all troops, and would pay for no more arms purchased by the State. With the exception of a few thousand, all the first class arms in the hands of Indiana troops were purchased by the State; but it has been a source of great trouble and mortification that a large portion of our troops, despite of all efforts made, have been supplied with arms of an inferior quality.

In the months of August and September last, the rebel army entered Kentucky and the war was brought to our very border; the Ohio river was low, and could be forded in many places by cavalry, and even infantry, and the peace of the State was seriously threatened. In this emergency, I believed it to be my duty to purchase 10,000 superior arms for the use of Indiana troops, and I sent an agent to New York, who succeeded in purchasing that number of the first quality at fair prices. Mr. D. R. Martin, President of the Ocean Bank, without requiring any security, and upon the credit of the State, advanced the money to pay for them, in all $237,269 30. Shortly after the purchase of the arms, the rebel forces were driven from Kentucky, the tide of war flowed back from our borders, and the danger so seriously threatening the State passed away. At that time, we had in the State about 8000 troops preparing for service, but who were unarmed, and no arms had been provided for them at all proper to be taken to the field. I therefore put these arms in their hands upon a special agreement of the Government, to pay for them at once. There was a delay of a few weeks in getting the warrant through the Departments at Washington, but the Government has now paid the principal, but not the interest; the officers of the Treasury alleging the want of authority to pay the interest.

ARSENAL.

When our first regiments were ready to take the field, they were unprovided with ammunition, and as none could be readily procured, it became necessary to have it prepared. Mr. Sturm, now the Lieut. Colonel of the 54th regiment, was engaged for that purpose. He had studied the art in Europe, and was thoroughly instructed in all its details. He succeeded well in the enterprise from the beginning, and his ammunition was pronounced the very best in use. Thus was the Arsenal established, and as the demand for ammunition daily increased, and the necessity so far from passing away became constantly greater as the war progressed, what was first intended as a temporary convenience, became a large and permanent establishment. Lieut. Col. Sturm continued at the head of the establishment, managing it with great success and ability, preparing ammunition of every description for artillery and small arms, not only supplying our own troops when going to the field, but sending immense quantities to the armies in the West and South. In several emergencies, the armies in the West and South were supplied from here, when they could not procure it in time from other Arsenals, and serious disasters thereby avoided.

Shortly after the Arsenal was fully established, it was brought to the attention of the War Department, and the ammunition having been thouroughly tested, the Government agreed to pay for what had already been issued, and to receive and pay for what should be prepared thereafter, at prices which were mutually satisfactory to both parties. These prices were generally below what the Government paid for ammunition, but such as it was believed would fairly indemnify the State for all costs and expenses incurred on that account. Every effort was made to conduct the operations of the Arsenal with great economy, while paying a fair price to the many operatives employed. Persons have been employed sometimes to the number of five hundred, and profitable occupation has thus been furnished to many who otherwise would have wanted the means of support. My direction to Col. Sturm was, to give the preference to those whose relatives and supporters were in the field.

Up to the 1st day of January, 1862, there has been prepared at the Arsenal 92,000 rounds of artillery ammunition, and 21,915,500 rounds of ammunition for small arms.

The report of Lieut. Col. Sturm, herewith submitted, will show the extent and the result of the operations in the Arsenal.

An examination of the Arsenal account will show that the State has not lost a dollar by it. The prices fixed for the ammunition were intended merely to cover all costs and expenses incurred in its preparation, but by economy and successful management, a balance will be found in favor of the State.

QUARTERMASTER AND COMMISSARY GENERAL.

The first Quartermaster General I appointed after the beginning of the war, was General Thomas A. Morris. He held the office but a short time, when he resigned, and was succeeded by Gen. John H. Vajen, who remained in office till March 12th, 1862, when he resigned and was succeeded by Gen. John C. New, on the 13th day of October, 1862, Gen. New resigned and Gen. Asahel Stone, the present acting Quartermaster General, was appointed. The reports of these several officers are herewith submitted.

Gen. Isaiah Mansur, the first Commissary General, resigned on the 29th day of May, 1861, and was succeeded by Gen. Asahel Stone, who has held the office since. Their reports are herewith submitted.

The operations in the Quartermaster and Commmissary Departments have been large, involving many contracts, and the disbursement of large sums of money. They are a proper subject for legislative investigation, to ascertain whether they have been well and faithfully performed.

CARE OF THE SICK AND WOUNDED.

Shortly after the war began, it became apparent that our sick and wounded soldiers, when all had been done for them that could be, by Regimental and Hospital Surgeons, under the regulations, must in very many cases, suffer greatly from want of attention, and necessary supplies. Accordingly, I very early adopted the plan of sending agents to look after the condition, and as far as possible supply the wants of the Indiana troops. These agents had their instructions to follow in the track of our armies, to pick up the sick and the wounded who may have fallen by the wayside, visit the Hospitals, report the names of the sick, wounded and dead, afford relief wherever it could be afforded, inform the State authorities what kind of supplies were needed and where, visit the troops in the field and ascertain their wants and condition, and aid in having their requisitions for supplies promptly filled. These agents have generally performed their duty well, and I believe, have been the instruments of saving the lives of hundreds of our gallant soldiers, and of relieving a vast amount of suffering and destitution. Many of their reports, all of which are herewith submitted, are descriptive of sufferings, sorrows and death, that would melt the stoutest heart, and show better than can be learned in any other way, the dreadful horrors of war. The labors of these agents were not confined to any particular duties, but extended to every kind of relief that soldiers might need. They aided in procuring furloughs for the sick and wounded, discharges for such as would not be able to serve again, in furnishing transportation at the expense of the State, for such as had not the means of travel, and getting home; receiving the soldier's money and distributing it to their families, hunting up the descriptive rolls for such as had been long confined in Hospitals, but for want of their rolls could not be paid or discharged, visiting battle-fields, bringing home the wounded, and distributing sanitary stores. In some cases I directed the chartering of steamboats for the transportation of the sick and wounded, and in general, instructed my agents to incur such expenses as were absolutely necessary to enable them to execute their mission. But notwithstanding all that has been done, I have to lament that the efforts have come far short of the mighty demand; that much suffering has gone unrelieved, and that many of our brave sons have languished and died among strangers, in destitution and neglect, with no friend present to soothe their last hours, or mark the spot where their ashes sleep.

I have employed and sent to the field many additional Assistant Surgeons, to remain until the emergency they were sent to relieve had passed. After severe battles, the Regimental Surgeons, worn down by fatigue and exposure, were found to be inadequate to the care of the wounded, and additional aid became indispensable.

Many times all the Surgeons of a regiment were either sick or absent on detached duty, and their places had to be supplied by temporary appointments. They have generally discharged their duty with ability, and to the satisfaction of those to whom they were sent, and for the promptitude with which they left their business and responded to these sudden calls, are entitled to the thanks of the State.

After the battle of Shiloh, and in anticipation of the conflict to come off at Corinth, I applied to the Secretary of War for permission to appoint two additional Assistant Surgeons to each regiment in the Grand Army of Major General Halleck. The permission was granted, under which I sent about seventy Surgeons to that Army, and I am gratified to believe that this movement led to the amendment of the law by which a third Surgeon was added to each regiment, a measure greatly needed.

I have also established at Washington, Louisville, Nashville, Memphis, Cairo and Columbus, Ky., permanent agents, who have rented houses and keep public offices, where sanitary goods are deposited for distribution, and to which soldiers can resort for relief. These agencies are found to work well, and are accomplishing a great deal of good. Permanent agents have been employed at Philadelphia, St. Louis, Keokuk and New York, for the relief of such Indiana soldiers as may be carried to those points.

The number of soldiers passing through this city, to and from the Army, or coming here to procure discharges and furloughs, made it necessary to provide quarters where they could receive lodging and subsistence during their stay. Accordingly I procured the erection of a "Soldier's Home" which has been, in the main, well managed, and has been the source of relief and comfort to thousands.

While upon this subject, it is with great pleasure that I lay before you the report of Dr. Hannaman and Alfred Harrison, Esq., the President and Secretary of the Sanitary Commission.

The Commission began its operations regularly on the 1st of March, 1862, and up to the 1st of January, 1863, had received from various sources in goods and money, the sum of $66,088 51. During the same period they have supplied to sick and wounded Indiana soldiers $60,379 31, in such articles as were best suited to their wants and condition, leaving a balance in their hands of $2,942 80 in goods, and $2,768 40 in money.

I avail myself of this opportunity to tender on behalf of the State, to the officers of the Commission, and the gentlemen associated with them, my sincere thanks for the unremitting industry and devotion with which they have labored without reward or the hope thereof, in this great work of patrictic benevolence.

The above statement only embraces those supplies of stores and money which have passed through the hands of the Commission, and does not include those large but irregular contributions which flowed through so many other channels for the relief of our sick and wounded soldiers.

The greater part of all the stores, in whatever manner sent, have been contributed by the noble and patriotic women of Indiana. Not only have they contributed most liberally of their money, but they have labored unceasingly with their hands, in preparing those articles so necessary to the comfort and recovery of the sick and wounded.

They have their reward in the inexpressible gratitude that swells the hearts of the brave men who are the recipients of their deeds of mercy. On this subject I quote a brief extract from the report of the Commission. "The committee desire to express in the strongest terms, their gratitude to the women of Indiana who have responded, with all the enthusiasm and generosity of their sex, to the calls of the committee; they have in fact done the work, by their labors, their contributions and their example; the committee have been merely their agents in receiving and dispensing the fruits of their unbounded liberality. The same work and labor of love is still before them, and the same spirit which has so far actuated them will no doubt continue to furnish occupation for the Commission so long as the occasion requires it."

Immediately upon the first establishment of camps in this city, the treatment of the sick was committed to the care of Drs. Kitchen and Jameson. I subsequently authorized the establishment of a Hospital here, known as the "City Hospital," under the care and direction of the same gentlemen.

Their administration has been highly successful and satisfactory, and the Hospital is justly regarded as one of the very best in the United States. The whole number of patients treated at this Hospital, from May 1, 1861, to January 1, 1863, was 5,495.

Your attention is invited to the report of Drs. Kitchen and Jameson, and to the just acknowledgment therein made of the services of the "Sisters of Providence."

WAR LOAN.

By an act of the Legislature, approved May 13, 1861, the Governor was authorized to issue bonds to the amount of $2,000,000, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, and falling due 20 years after date, and Hugh McCullough, James M. Ray and John H. O'Boyle, Esqs., were appointed a Board of Loan Commissioners to negotiate their sale.

Hugh McCullough, Esq., having failed to accept the position, I appointed Jesse J. Brown, Esq., to fill the vacancy. The report of the operations of the board is herewith submitted, from which it will appear that the bonds were sold on terms favorable to the State, in view of the then depressed condition of the money market, and when compared with the sale of other Western securities. Of the whole amount sold $1,225,500.00 remains outstanding, and are a debt against the State. The remainder having been redeemed at the same price at which they were sold, adding only interest for the time they were outstanding. To provide for the payment of this debt, a tax was levied, the proceeds of which, it is estimated, will extinguish it in four years.

NATIONAL DIRECT TAX.

By the 6th section of an Act of Congress approved August 6th, 1861, a direct annual tax of twenty millions of dollars was levied upon the United States, and apportioned among the several States.

The apportionment devolved the payment of $904,875 33 on the State of Indiana.

By the 53d section of the Act it was provided that any State might assume, assess and collect its portion of the tax and pay the same into the Treasury, and if thus paid on or before the last day of June of the year for which it was levied, should entitle such State to a deduction of fifteen per cent. of the gross amount to be paid by such State. The section further provides that notice of the intention of the State to assume and pay her portion of the tax, without the intervention of the Federal officers, must be given to the Secretary of the Treasury by the Governor, or other proper officer, on or before the second Tuesday of February of each year in which the tax is to be paid. The section also contains this proviso: That the amount of direct tax apportioned to any State shall be liable to be paid or satisfied in whole or in part by the release of such State, duly executed to the United States, of any liquidated and determined claim of any such State, of equal amount against the United States; Provided, that in case of such release, such State shall be allowed the same abatement of the amount of such tax as would be allowed in case of the payment of the same in money.

From the very beginning of the war, the State was compelled to advance large sums of money to equip and supply our volunteers, and, in fact, furnished supplies of every kind until the Fall of 1861, and it was believed shortly after the passage of that act, that our advances, over and above all reimbursements, would soon be sufficient in amount to set-off the amount of tax apportioned against the State. Accordingly I opened a correspondence with the Secretary of the Treasury on the subject, and ascertained from him that the advances made by the State on behalf of our troops would be regarded as a "claim" within the spirit and meaning of the Act, and would be admitted in payment of the tax to an amount which should be found due on settlement. After consultation with the Auditor, Treasurer and Secretary of State, and in conjunction with them on the —— day of December, 1861, I filed in the office of the Secretary of the Treasury at Washington, a paper officially signed, of which a copy is herewith transmitted, in which we assumed that the State would pay her portion of the direct tax without the intervention of Federal officers, and proposing to set-off against the same a like sum due to the State for advances made in furnishing our troops, and to release the United States from further liability for the sum thus set-off and advanced against the tax. This paper was accepted by the Secretary of the Treasury, who thereupon declined to appoint the officers provided by the law to collect the tax within this State. On the —— day of Jan., 1862, Mr. Lange, the Auditor of State, proceeded to Washington with the papers and vouchers embracing our claims against the Government up to that time, for the purpose of making settlement. He found, however, that the mode of settlement with the several States had not been determined upon, by the Treasury Department, and that the press of business in the Department was such as to prevent the taking up of our accounts. He was directed to file them in the Department to be taken up for adjustment whenever they could be reached. It then became obvious that our accounts would not be settled and adjusted by the last day of June, 1861, so as to be "liquidated and determined" within the meaning of the Act of Congress, as before quoted, and that, after all, our set-off against the tax was about to fail.

Accordingly, I brought the matter to the attention of our Congressional delegation, and asked them to procure, if possible, such legislation as would facilitate the settlement of our accounts, and if that could not be done, to procure an extension of the time in which accounts could be filed and settlements made, so that the advantage of the set-off need not be lost. After much trouble and delay, they procured the passage of an Act, which was approved on the 13th day of May, 1862, the concluding part of which is as follows: "Provided, that in case of such release, such State, Territory or District shall be allowed the same abatement of the amount of such Tax as would be allowed in case of the payment of the same in money," shall be construed as applying to such claims of States for reimbursement of expenses incurred by them in enrolling, subsisting, clothing, supplying, arming, equipping, paying and transporting its troops employed in aiding to suppress the present insurrection against the United States, as shall be filed with the proper officers of the United States before the thirtieth of July next. And in such cases the abatement of fifteen per centum shall be made on such portion of said tax as may be paid by the allowance of such claims, in whole or in part, the same as if the final settlement and liquidation thereof had been made before the thirtieth of June."

This act healed the difficulty, and under it we have filed with the proper officers, anterior to the 30th of July last, claims against the United States, due to the State, more than enough to cover the amount of tax due from the State, after deducting the fifteen per cent. from the gross amount.

By this operation, the State has saved fifteen per cent. of the original amount which is $135,731 30, reducing the amount from $904,875 33 to $765,144 03, and the latter sum is set-off and paid by our advances. The arrangement is mutually advantageous to the State and General Government. It would do the Government no good to draw a large amount of money from the people of the State for taxes, while she was debtor to the State to a still larger amount, which indebtedness must sometime be paid by money raised by taxation. Besides this, the Government was in no condition to re-imburse the State in the full amount of her advances, and if these advances were not used to pay the direct tax, the tax must have been collected from the people of Indiana immediately, while the advances would, in all probability, remain as a suspended debt for years to come, on which the Government, if it followed former precedents, would pay no interest. I respectfully recommend that the Legislature approve my action, and that of the State Officers, in the premises.

At the last session of Congress, the operation of the act levying the direct tax upon the States was suspended for three years.

WAR EXPENSES.

The whole amount of expenses incurred on account of the war, by the State, is one million nine hundred and sixty-nine thousand two hundred and forty-eight dollars and thirty-six cents, ($1,969,248.36.) The whole amount paid is one million eight hundred and twenty-two thousand nine hundred and sixty-eight dollars and forty-nine cents, ($1,822,968.49.) Leaving unpaid and outstanding on the 1st day of January, 1863, claims amounting to one hundred and forty-six thousand two hundred and seventy-nine dollars and eighty-seven cents, ($146,279.87) all of which have been duly audited and certified by the Military Auditing Committee.

The account of the State against the United States for expenses incurred for war purposes, to January 1, 1863, stands as follows:

Total amount of expenses incurred	$1,969,248 36
Government draft returned to U. S. Treasury	68,701 60
Total	$2,037.949 96

On this account, the United States are entitled to the following credits:

Proceeds of $450,000 Treasury Notes	$432,639 30
Paid by U. S. Quartermaster	196,728 16
Paid on account of Ammunition	279,803 71
Direct tax of 1861, deducting 15 per cent.	769,144 03
		$1,678,315 20
Leaving due from the U. S. Jan. 1, 1863		$359,634 75

In the account against the United States, are included expenditures to the amount of $43,160.62, for which the State could not claim to be reimbursed under existing laws, but which are an equitable debt against the United States, and to cover which I have no doubt an act of Congress will yet be passed.

PUBLIC DEBT.

The indebtedness of the State up to the first day of January, 1863, has been increased by the war as follows:

Due on War Bonds	$1,225,500 00
Due on Military Claims	146,279 87
Increase	$1,371,779 87

The entire public debt of the State now stands as follows:

Five per cent. stocks growing out of adjustment with creditors in 1846	$5,325,500 00
Two and a half per cent. stocks having the same origin	2,058,173 50
War debt as above stated	1,371,779 87
In all	$8,745,453 37

This statement, however, does not include 391 old Internal Improvement Bonds of $1,000 each, said to be outstanding, the holders of which failed to comply with the adjustment made in 1846.

GENERAL RECEIPTS AND DISBURSEMENTS.

The following statement exhibits the Receipts and Expenditures by the Treasury during the fiscal years ending October 31, 1861 and 1862, as shown by the reports of the Auditor of State:

Balance in the Treasury Nov. 1, 1860.....	$134,660 39
Receipts for year ending Oct. 31, 1861.....	2,669,264 93
Disbursements for the year ending Oct. 31, 1861.....	3,442,510 57
Balance in Treasury Nov. 1, 1861.....	$361,414 75
Receipts for the year ending Oct. 31, 1862.....	$3,486,304 55
Disbursements for the year ending Oct. 31, 1862.....	2,974,976 46

GALLANTRY OF INDIANA TROOPS.

While we rejoice in the bravery displayed by all the armies of the United States, it is a subject of profound congratulation that the Indiana troops have behaved with uniform and distinguished gallantry in every action in which they have been engaged. They form a part of every army in the field, and have been among the foremost in deeds of daring, while their blood has hallowed every soil.

The American Annual Cyclopedia justly declares that "the Indiana troops have been perhaps more widely scattered through the different corps d'armee than those of any other State." The same high authority, in another place, speaks of the conduct of Indiana troops in the field as follows: "Whenever they have been engaged in battle they have been eager to advance, steady in the fight, and utterly averse to retreating."

Our troops, hitherto engaged in the peaceful pursuits of trade and agriculture, have manifested that lofty courage and high-toned chivalry of which others have talked so much and possessed so little, and which belongs only to the intelligent patriot, who understands well the sacred cause in which he draws his sword.

Indiana has already made a large investment of her best blood in the cause of this Union, and will never consent to its dismemberment, or to a dishonorable peace. The bones of her sons mingle with the soil from Virginia and Missouri to Louisiana, and she will not confess that the sacrifice has been made in vain, or acknowledge that it was in an unholy cause. Gen. Hackleman, Cols. Brown, Bass, Link, Lieut. Cols. Hendricks, Bachman, Keith, Gerber, Kirkpatrick, Cross-wait, Topping and Wolf; Majors Tanner, Gavitt, May, Arn, Abbett and Conklin—and many others, of lower rank, but with valor not less distinguished, have yielded up their lives upon the field that our country might be preserved. Thousands of our private soldiers, with with equal courage and patriotism, have fallen, the victims of this unnatural rebellion. They were fighting from deep convictions of duty and the love they bore their country. Their unlettered graves mark an hundred battle-fields, and our country can never discharge to their memory and their posterity the debt of gratitude it owes. Our gratitude should be testified by the tender care we take of their families and dependent ones whom they left behind, by the education of their children, and by the honor we pay to their memory.

Nor should we forget those who have perished by disease in the camp or hospital. They were denied the soldier's privilege of dying in battle, but their sacrifice was none the less. To die in the field, amid the clash of contending armies and the roar of battle, fighting in a holy cause, is glorious; but when death comes slowly on, in the loneliness and desolation of the hospital, with no mother or sister present to soothe the passing spirit and minister as love only can minister; with none but the rough hand of a comrade to press the clammy brow and perform the last offices to the dying, it is terrible.

SOLDIER'S FAMILIES.

Notwithstanding all that was being done by public and private benevolence, toward supporting the families of soldiers, the evidence came to me from every part of the State, that many families were destitute, and that great suffering must ensue during this winter, unless active steps were taken to raise contributions and provide for the needy.

Accordingly, I issued an appeal to the people of the State, a copy of which is herewith filed, stating the necessity and calling upon all who were able to contribute of their means. I am gratified to be able to report, that a very generous response has been made to the appeal, that active measures have been initiated in many counties in the State, to relieve the necessities and provide for the comfort of the families of our soldiers who have abandoned home and all its endearments to fight the battles of our country. The clergy of the State were especially called upon to engage in the work of visitation and collecting contributions and have, as I am informed, generally responded with zeal and energy.

It is, however, manifest that all efforts will fall short of meeting the necessities of the case and that Legislative aid will be required

The circumstances by which we are surrounded are novel and extraordinary, and should be met by prompt and extraordinary measures.

I therefore earnestly invite the early and favorable consideration of this subject by the Legislature.

LEGION.

At the Extra Session of the Legislature a Militia Law was passed, providing for the organization of the Indiana Legion.

Although this law was defective in many respects, and should be amended, yet it provided the frame-work of an organization which has rendered most valuable service during the war. To the officers and men of the Indiana Legion, the State chiefly owes the immunity she has enjoyed from invasion, plunder and murder, by the guerrilla and marauding bands which infested many of the adjoining counties in Kentucky. Not only so, their aid and protection has been cheerfully and successfully extended to the loyal citizens of Kentucky, when it has been called for. On several occasions they met the enemy in battle, when they ably maintained the credit of the State, and behaved with that distinguished courage which has characterized the soldiers of Indiana throughout this war. Some have fallen in battle, and I earnestly recommend that their families be provided for, and placed on a footing at least equal to the families of those who fall in the Federal service. They also rendered prompt and efficient service in guarding rebel prisoners when the Federal forces performing that duty were called into the field. Although the organization and operation of the Legion have been chiefly confined to the counties bordering on the Ohio river, yet much has been done in some of the interior counties, and among them I would especially notice the counties of Jennings, Decatur, Shelby, Tippecanoe, Putnam, Parke and Vigo. The response which was made from those counties, on sudden calls for military force, was of the most energetic and satisfactory character. For a full account of the operation of the Legion, I refer you to the able and interesting report of Major General Love. Your attention is also specially called to the recommendations contained in his report relative to the amendment of the Militia Law. It is very important that provision be made presenting inducements to join the Legion, by proper exemptions and payment, and conferring the authority and pointing out the manner, by which the members of companies shall be compelled to attend meetings for drill and respond to calls for service. Such authority is doubtless contained in the Law now, but its mode of exercise is not determined. The Legislature appropriated, for the support of the Legion, $70,000 for the year 1861, and $70,000 for the year 1862. As will appear from the Auditor's report, only the sum of $7,352 23 has been expended on these appropriations up to the 31st day of October last. The distribution of the Fund among the counties and regiments, as required by the act was never made by the Adjutant General, because of insuperable difficulties growing out of defects in the Law, and the organization of the companies. I trust the Legislature will make prompt provision for the payment of all claims growing out of the operations of the Legion, and for a proper distribution of the Fund.

Strongly impressed how much the peace and security of the State depended on the efficiency of the Legion, in the month of October, I summoned the officers to this city to receive military instruction in a school temporarily organized and conducted by Major General Love. Some 400 gentlemen were in attendance, and the spirit and devotion manifested by them, and their progress in military knowledge, were of the most encouraging and satisfactory character.

PROCLAMATION CALLING OUT THE MILITIA.

At the time of the invasion of Kentucky by Kirby Smith, the guerillas infested the Kentucky side of the Ohio River, from Lawrenceburg to Mount Vernon, and at several points large bodies of rebel cavalry were assembled, and seemed to be awaiting an opportunity to cross the river and invade the State. The river was very low, in many places fordable, and much alarm prevailed in our border counties.

Accordingly, I issued a Proclamation, of which a copy is herewith filed, requiring all the able-bodied men, subject to military service, between the ages of 18 and 45, in the counties bordering on the Ohio River, to assemble at stated periods, with whatever arms they could command, to organize themselves into companies and be instructed in military tactics. This Proclamation was very generally acquiesced in, and carried into execution by the people, and was continued as long as the emergency seemed to require. The preparations thus made, in connection with the Legion, for repelling and punishing invasion, deterred the guerilla and marauding parties, who were plundering and murdering the Union men on the other side of the river, and protected the lives and property of our citizens.

ADJUTANT GENERAL.

I lay before you the able and interesting report of Adjutant General Noble.

It contains a brief history of the operations of the State in furnishing troops for the prosecution of the war and much most valuable information. I have instructed him to prepare another report, to contain the name of every officer and private soldier who has entered the army from Indiana, with the number of the regiment, company or battery to which he belonged. Such a report would be invaluable hereafter as a work of history.

STATE AGENCY.

The report of Hon. R. N. Hudson, the Agent of State, is herewith laid before you, and your attention invited to the recommendations contained in it, to change the form of indebtedness, by substituting coupon bonds for certificates of stock, and abolish the office of Agent of State, as at present organized. By the terms of the compromise with the bond-holders, made in 1846, the State is required to keep an office in New York for the transfer of our stocks and the payment of the interest on them. But this agreement can be complied with fully by selecting some responsible bank, in such manner as may be determined upon by the Legislature, to perform the duties that are now devolved upon the Agent of State. Under the present system the risk attending the solvency of a Bank has to be incurred, for the Agent having no means of safe-keeping the money remitted to him by the Treasurer of State, deposits it in bank, and in payment of interest to the holders of our stocks gives his checks upon the bank.

So much of the business, therefore, being necessarily done through the bank, I am of the opinion that the rest of it could be devolved upon the bank, with increased safety and economy to the State.

In 1846 the State of Indiana made an adjustment with her creditors, under which the former State Bonds were to be surrendered and cancelled upon certain conditions, and new stocks issued in exchange. Out of this adjustment sprung the Indiana Five per cent. Stocks, as known in the New York market.

One of the conditions of the adjustment was, that the State should establish an agency in the city of New York for the transfer of these stocks and the payment of the interest upon them.

By express enactment of the Legislature, it was provided that these new certificates of stocks should be transferable only at the agency in the city of New York, on books provided for that purpose. When stock was transferred the old certificate was taken up and cancelled, and a new one issued, made payable to the person to whom the transfer was made. These certificates were not payable to bearer, did not pass by delivery from hand to hand, and were not negotiable in the sense of the law merchant. It was expressly intended they should not be. At and before the time of the adjustment spoken of it was claimed by the State that numbers of her bonds, which had been deposited in New York, or hypothecated for small sums of money, and for which the State had received little or no consideration, had been improperly and fradulently put into circulation. But as they were genuine, made payable to bearer, and the property in them passed by mere delivery, she could not do otherwise than recognize them as valid obligations. These circumstances led to the peculiar provisions in regard to the new stocks. To carry out the new arrangement, printed forms of the certificates of stocks, signed by the Auditor and Treasurer of the State of Indiana, were deposited with the State Agent, in the City of New York, to be by him countersigned and filled up as to dates, amounts, names of parties, and registered in books provided by the State for that purpose. It is not improper to state here that this form and mode of transfer, before being enacted into a law, was submitted to and received the approval of Charles Butler, Esq., the agent and representative of the bond-holders, at the time of the adjustment referred to, as I am informed and believe.

Fears were entertained, however, that by the fraud or connivance of the State Agent, false certificates might be issued and frauds perpetrated. Accordingly, the State Legislature, by an act which took effect on the 11th day of March, 1859, changed the mode and place of issue of certificates of stock.

By this act it was provided, that thereafter no certificates of stock should be issued by the Agent of State, but that on the presentation to him of certificates for transfer, he should receipt for them, and immediately transmit them to the Auditor of State, at Indianapolis; that the Auditor should cancel them and file them in his office, for preservation and reference, and issue, in the name of the person to whom the transfer was to be made, new certificates of stock, to be signed by him and the Treasurer of State, and after registering them in a book to be provided by the Auditor for that purpose, send them to the Agent of State, to be by him registered and delivered to the proper person, upon presentation of the receipt. The fourth section of this act declares that any certificate of stock issued or transferred in violation of the provisions of the act shall be deemed fraudulent and void as against the State of Indiana. It will be perceived that this act throws additional and, in my opinion, abundant safeguards around the issue of the stock. To avoid the dangers and temptations which this change in the law was designed to guard against, as soon as the new law went into operation, the blank certificates, signed by the officers of State, in the hands of the State Agent, should have been promptly withdrawn by the officers of State and destroyed. This was not done.

When Col. Hudson, the present State Agent, came into office, early in February, 1861, he found in the office in New York three bound volumes of the forms, which he immediately cancelled, by punching a hole through the signature of each form.

STOVER FRAUD.

In this connection I invite your attention to the gigantic forgeries of Indiana five per cent. stocks which have been committed in New York.

The Hon. James A. Cravens was elected State Agent in February, 1859. He held the office about nine months, during which time D. C. Stover acted as his clerk. He then resigned, and Mr. Stover was appointed by Gov. Willard, to fill the vacancy. He continued in office under this appointment until February, 1861, when he was succeeded by Col. Hudson, the present incumbent, who had been duly elected by the Legislature. The forged certificates of stock were executed upon the blank forms left in the office of the Agent of State, which had been signed by W. R. Norsinger as State Treasurer and H. E. Talbott as State Auditor. These gentlemen came into office early in 1855, and went out early in 1857, having served two years. The forgery consisted in falsely filling up the blanks as to dates, names of payees and amounts, and signing the name of James A. Cravens as Agent of State. The forged certificates, so far as I am advised, bear date in March, April and June, 1859, thus purporting to be executed during the period in which Mr. Cravens was State Agent, though I believe they were executed and issued at a later date. I am informed by Col. Hudson, that the forged certificates were all made payable to Samuel Hallett except about $100,000 payable to a person by the name of Deschaux. He further informs me that the whole amount issued, so far as he has been able to discover, is $2,538,000, of which amount $1,295,000 has been retired and destroyed. Col. Hudson states, that he discovered the existence of this spurious stock in a few weeks after he came into office, and immediately charged the matter upon Mr. Stover, who confessed it all, but said there was only about $200,000 out, and that if the matter were kept secret, he, and those operating with him, would take up and destroy them, so that nobody should lose anything by them. Col. Hudson further says, not knowing what might be the liability of the State upon these certificates, he deemed it highly important for her interest that they should be gotten off the market and destroyed, and, for that purpose, agreed with them, for the time, to communicate the matter to nobody, without however, giving them any assurance that they should not be ultimately exposed and prosecuted.

The knowledge of this forgery was first communicated to me about the latter part of January last, by Messrs. James M. Ray and Jesse J. Brown, two of the Loan Commissioners, appointed by the State to negotiate her War Loan.

They had learned it from Mr. Lanier, of the firm of Winslow, Lanier & Co., who had discovered it in some way about the first of December previous. I immediately repaired to New York, and in company with the Hon. John P. Usher, then the Attorney General of Indiana, and Jesse J. Brown, Esq. endeavored to investigate the affair. In the opinion and confidence entertained by Col. Hudson, and some other gentlemen who had been consulted, that Mr. Stover and those acting with him, would retire the fraudulent stocks I did not share, and was not for that or any other reason in favor of delaying their exposure and prosecution a single hour.

Accordingly, I proceeded at once to place all the facts of which I had any knowledge, in the possession of Mr. Hall, the District Attorney prosecuting the pleas of the State, for the city of New York.

The crime had been committed in New York, and to the laws and authorities of that State its punishment belonged.

Mr. Hall, after deliberation, and such investigation as he could make, determined that an exposure and prosecution of the parties at that time would be highly inexpedient, and informed me that he took the responsibility of deferring any public disclosure and prosecution until such time as in his judgment it was proper to make them.

Matters thus stood from February until about the 27th day of May, when learning that the affair had become public in New York, and believing that no reason could exist for further delay in the prosecution, I caused the arrest of Mr. Stover, who was then in this State, and sent him to New York. On his arrest he freely consented to go, and waived all process or formal authority. The Hon. John F. Kibbey, then acting Attorney General, by my direction proceeded to New York, and under the instructions of Mr. Hall, filed a complaint before the grand jury, in the name of the State of Indiana, and demanded an investigation.

The grand jury returned bills of indictment against Stover and Hallett. At the September Term of the Court in which the bills were pending, the Court quashed the indictments against Hallett, on the ground that it was no crime against the laws of New York to forge certificates or obligations purporting on their face to be executed by the State of Indiana. From this decision Mr. Hall has prosecuted a writ of error to the Court of Appeals, but no decision thereon has been had.

The indictments against Stover are still pending. When this forgery was first made public, Indiana securities were suddenly depressed in the market from ten to twenty per cent., but soon after rallied to nearly or quite their former rates.

To avoid all embarrassment in the future, which might arise from the existence of the forged certificates, I recommend that the Auditor of State be authorized to procure a new plate, differing in form and appearance from the old, upon which new certificates shall be printed, and that the holders of all genuine stocks be requested to surrender them and receive instead, certificates of the new impression.

JULY INTEREST ON STOCKS.

Many of the Western States, among them Ohio and Illinois, were making provision in New York, to pay the interest on their debt, in coin; in order to maintain the credit of their stocks.

As the credit of Indiana had received a shock by the development of forgeries of her stocks, and as the circulation of many of the Free Banks of Indiana was based upon Indiana stocks, it seemed to me especially important, that she should take the same course, in order to assure her creditors and the public, that her ability and disposition to pay her debts, were in no wise disturbed or impaired by this assault upon her credit. Accordingly, I instructed Mr. Harvey, Treasurer of State, to provide, if he could upon reasonable terms, the coin with which to pay the July interest upon our stocks. This he did, upon the terms, and in the manner stated in his report. The announcement of the purpose of the State to pay her interest in coin, had an immediate and salutary effect in restoring confidence and bringing back the value of our stocks to its former standard.

At the time, I directed the payment of the July interest in coin, the premium on coin was very small, but has since increased so greatly as to forbid the like arrangement for the January interest.

COMMON SCHOOLS.

The operations of the common school system for the past two years have been quite successful. The amendments made to the School Law at the last regular session, so far as I can learn, have worked well, and meet with general approval. The report of Prof. Miles J. Fletcher, Superintendent of Public Instruction, for the year 1861, is laid before you, but the report of the present Superintendent, Samuel L. Rugg, for the year 1862, has not been completed. The Rev. Sam'l K. Hoshour was appointed to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Mr. Fletcher, who held the office until his successor was duly elected and qualified.

DEATH OF MILES J. FLETCHER.

The death of Miles J. Fletcher was a misfortune to the State. Possessed of fine talents, highly educated, endowed with every accomplishment that can make a man attractive in society, with a heart full of the warmest affections and the most generous impulses, he united with all these an indomitable energy of character that gave no rest, and ever pressed him forward in the path of duty. His industry was a marvel, and the amount of labor he accomplished wonderful.—The duties of his office he discharged, not scantily as a task, but with a devotion and pleasure that were satisfied only with a full performance. The cause of education he regarded of the first importance, and the vocation and calling of the educator the most honorable and dignified, next to that of the Christian Minister. The misfortunes of his country deeply afflicted him, and notwithstanding the delight he took in the performance of his official duties, and his untiring devotion to the education of youth, he would have resigned his office and gone to the field, had he not been dissuaded by his friends, who urged that he could serve his country better in the position he then held. He devoted much time, labor and money to the care of the sick and wounded soldiers. He visited the hospitals and the field of battle to hunt up and minister to the neglected and the dying, and in carrying a wounded man upon a steamboat at Pittsburg Landing, shortly after the battle of Shiloh, suffered a bodily injury, from which most likely he could never recover. When he was killed, he had started upon another mission of mercy to the army. I was standing by his side at the moment of his death, and never before did I have brought home to me in full force that passage of Scripture which declares, "That in the midst of life we are in death." Had I been asked a moment before who, among all the young men of Indiana, bade fairest for a life of great usefulness and fame, I would have answered, Miles J. Fletcher.

BENEVOLENT INSTITUTIONS.

The reports of the Boards of Trustees of the Asylum for the Blind, Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and Hospital for the Insane are herewith submitted. The management of these Institutions for the past two years has been eminently successful and satisfactory. The Superintendents have displayed ability and fidelity, as well as the subordinate officers and teachers, and I commend the reports to your especial consideration, and the Institutions to your fostering care and attention.

PRISONS NORTH AND SOUTH.

At the regular session of the Legislature in 1861, the sum of 10,000 dollars was appropriated for the purchase of materials and construction of the Northern Prison, located at Michigan City, for the year 1861, and a like sum for the year 1862. At the extra session in 1861, the sum of 30,000 dollars was appropriated for materials and construction of the Northern Prison, and for the support of convicts, and the payment of the expenses incurred for the month of January, 1861.

At the same session a law was passed for the transfer of 200 convicts from the Southern Prisons, at Jeffersonville, to the Northern Prison, but no provision was made for their return in case their labor should not be required. At the same session an act was passed providing that all persons sent to the penitentiary from counties north of the National Road should be confined in the Northern Prison. The work in the construction of the prison was vigorously pressed in the summer and fall of 1861, and it was found necessary, by the Board of Directors, in order to keep the convict labor employed, to anticipate, and draw upon the appropriation made for the construction of the prison in 1862; so that when the work for the year 1861 was closed up, there remained unexpended of the fund appropriated for the construction of the prison in 1862, but about 3,000 dollars. It was apparent, then, that the labor of the convicts could not be employed in the construction of the prison during the year 1862, for the want of means with which to purchase the necessary materials. The labor of the convicts could not be leased or hired out to contrators for the want of shops in the prison in which they could be employed. To work the convicts out of the prison and about the town, would be so expensive, in the employment of guards, as to make their labor unprofitable, beside there was no authority for doing so, except as connected with the construction of the prison.

As the matter stood, it was inevitable that the convict labor should be almost wholly unemployed throughout the year 1862, and must so continue until the prison shops were constructed, when the labor might be hired to contractors, as in other prisons. If the shops were constructed in 1862, this labor could be made remunerative through the year 1863, but if not constructed until 1863, this could not happen until 1864. It was evident that the State would sustain a great loss by the delay in the construction of the shops, and accordingly the Board of Directors convened in this city in February last, and myself and other State officers invited to be present for consultation; and after full consideration of the subject, it was believed by all to be clearly to the interest of the State that the work of construction of the shops should be commenced at the earliest moment, provided the contract could be let at fair prices, and the contractor, being fully advised of the condition of affairs, should be willing to await the action of the Legislature for his pay. The Board of Directors then proceeded to advertise for proposals for the work, and a public letting was had. I directed Mr. John B. Stumph, of this city, reputed to be an honest and capable builder, to be present at the letting, and see that the contract was properly made, and in accordance with the plans and specifications before that time adopted by the State for the construction of the shops. The contract, I have every reason to believe, was fairly made, upon terms, as I am informed, fifteen per cent. below the original contract for the same work, and at least twenty per cent. below what the same work could now be let for in cash. The shops have been completed, and Mr. Stumph was again directed to examine and measure the work; his report of the letting, quality and measurement of the work is herewith submitted. In view of the early completion of the shops, the Board of Directors were able to lease the labor of the convicts upon terms highly favorable to the State. This business is a proper subject for Legislative investigation, which I hope will be promptly made, and that means will be speedily provided to pay the contractor the amount which shall be found to be honestly due.

The report of the Board of Directors, together with that of the Warden and Superintendent, are herewith submitted. The general administration of the affairs of the prison have been satisfactory, and the Board of Directors have manifested much zeal and ability in the discharge of the important duties entrusted to them.

The report of the Board of Directors and Warden of the Southern Prison, at Jeffersonville, is herewith submitted. The affairs of this Prison, I believe, have been well managed, and I know of no just grounds for complaint. I recommend, however, that the management, condition and wants of both Prisons receive the early and thorough consideration of the Legislature.

UNITED STATES ARSENAL AND ARMORY.

At the last session of Congress an act was passed, appropriating $100,000 for the purchase of grounds and construction of buildings, and necessary machinery for an Arsenal and Armory to be located in this city.

The grounds have been purchased and the construction of the buildings will be commenced, as soon as the Legislature shall have relinquished the jurisdiction over such grounds, so far as required by the laws of the United States.

CONGRESSIONAL DONATION.

On the 2d day of July, 1862, the Congress of the United States passed an act donating to each of the States not in rebellion against the Government, an amount of public lands equal to 30,000 acres for each Senator and Representative in Congress, to which the States are respectively entitled by the apportionment under the census of 1860. This entitles Indiana to 390,000 acres. Whenever there are public lands in the State, subject to sale at private entry at $1.25 per acre, the quantity to which the State is entitled shall be selected from such lands, but if there are no such lands in the State. or not enough the Secretary of the Interior is to issue to the State land scrip for the requisite number of acres. This scrip cannot be located by the State to which it is issued, but must be sold; but the purchasers may locate it upon any of the unappropriated lands of the United States subject to sale at private entry at $1.25 or less per acre.

There being no public lands in this State for sale at private entry, held by the Government at $1.25 per acre, Indiana is entitled to receive her donation in scrip.

This donatoin is made upon the following conditions: First—That all moneys derived from the sale of lands or scrip shall be invested in stocks of the United States, or of the States, or some other safe stocks yielding not less than five per centum per annum, on the par value.

Second—That the monies so invested shall constitute a perpetual fund, the capital of which shall never be diminished, except as hereinafter stated.

Third—The interest on the stocks to be inviolably appropriated by the State, to the endowment and support of at least one College in which the leading object shall be, without excluding scientific and other classical studies, and including Military Tactics, to teach such branches of learning as are related to Agriculture and the Mechanic arts.

Fourth—If any portion of the fund thus invested shall by any contingency be lost, it shall be fully restored by the State.

Fifth—That no portion of the said fund shall be applied to the purchase, repair, or erection of any building, but that a sum not exceeding ten per cent. of the original amount may be expended for the purchase of sites or experimental farms.

Sixth—No State shall be entitled to the donation, unless the Legislature shall express its acceptance thereof, within two years from the date of the approval of the Act by the President.

I recommend that the Legislature promptly express its acceptance of the grant, pledging the faith of the State for the performance of the conditions upon which it is made.

The necessity for scientific instruction in agriculture, is generally acknowledged, and Congress intended by this magnificent donation to provide means for the permanent establishment of at least one efficient Agricultural College in each State.

The question presents itself as to the disposition which shall be made of the grant. Shall it be given to the State University, or apportioned among all the Colleges in the State, upon such terms and conditions as the Legislature may prescribe; or shall a new Institution be created expressly designed to carry out the will of Congress? It may be difficult now to determine the question from the fact that we cannot know how much may be realized from the sale of scrip. If an amount should be realized large enough to endow respectable and successful Professorships in each of the Colleges now in the State, attaching to them experimental farms, it would perhaps be the best disposition of it that could be made. But if it should not be large enough for such division, which I apprehend will be the case, then I recommend that it be applied to the establishment of an Institution for Agricultural and Military instruction, to which the children of soldiers who shall die in the service during this war, shall be admitted free of charge.

ATTORNEY GENERAL.

On the 10th day of October, 1861, the Hon. James G. Jones, Attorney General, resigned and accepted a commission in the military service. I immediately appointed the Hon. John P. Usher to fill the vacancy, who served until the 17th day of March, 1862, when he resigned, having been called to the Department of the Interior as Assistant Secretary. The vacancy thus created I filled by the appointment of Hon. John F. Kibbey, who served until his successor was elected and qualified. These officers discharged their duties with ability.

WEALTH OF THE STATE.

The mineral resources of Indiana are but imperfectly understood. Nearly one-fourth of the whole area of the State is a coal-field, a large part of which is of the finest quality. Excellent iron ore is found in vast quantities in many counties, and although but little worked as yet will be the source of great wealth and prosperity in the future. Throughout the State, excepting a few small localities, the soil is rich and fertile, capable of producing all the grains and grasses in the greatest abundance. The State abounds in fine timber and living streams of water, and in every respect presents the facilities for an easy and profitable agriculture, while an abundance of coal and water power furnishes the means for manufacturing on the largest scale and cheapest terms. From surveys, geological examinations, and every source of knowledge open, in reference to the topography and soil of Indiana, I think it safe to say that no State in the Union having an equal number of square miles has less land not susceptible of cultivation. The State is traversed in every direction by lines of Railroad well managed and in successful operation. In 1860 there was in the State 2,125 miles of Railroad in operation, the construction of which is estimated to have cost $70,295,148; and it may not be improper to remark that all these roads were built without the aid of grants of land by the Federal Government. Yet these roads do not furnish sufficient facilities for the accommodation of the traveling public and the transportation of the immense productions of the State. Some conception may be obtained of the magnitude of these productions by giving the statistics of a few leading articles as shown by the last census. In 1860 there were produced in the State:

69,641,591 bushels of corn.	2,466,264 pounds of wool.
15,219,120 bushels of wheat.	3,873,130 bush. of Irish potatoes.
5,028,755 bushels of oats.	635,322 tons of hay.
7,246,132 pounds of tobacco.

Although the population of Indiana has doubled in the last twenty years, and the general growth of the State in material wealth has been in a like ratio, yet we cannot doubt that the increase would have been far greater but for the operation of certain causes. In 1836 the State embarked in an extravagant and reckless system of internal improvements. To prosecute it large sums of money were required, and borrowed at heavy rates of interest, and the bonds of the State were in many cases squandered and passed into circulation without any adequate consideration having been received. Many canals, railroads, and turnpikes were surveyed and the construction commenced. But a bad system in the beginning, its prosecution was badly managed, and the result was that in 1846 the State found itself in debt to the amount of $11,090,000, and not a single work completed, the interest on the debt unpaid, and the credit of the the State utterly prostrated. In the mean time many of our citizens, seeing that the money of the State had been squandered while but little had been accomplished, believing that public improvements had been indefinitely postponed, that a cloud was resting upon her reputation, and anticipating high taxes for many years to come, left the State and sought new homes elsewhere. The financial character of the State abroad had suffered greatly. Some supposed the State had repudiated her debts; others that she was hopelessly bankrupt; and others that to recover from her embarrassments her people must be heavily taxed for generations to come. By these notions, and the general bad impressions prevailing, the current of emigration was turned aside in great part, or swept over us to the States in the West.

In 1846 an arrangement was made with our creditors upon terms proposed by themselves, by which nearly one-half of the debt was liquidated by the transfer of the Wabash and Erie Canal, and the State resumed payment of the interest on the other half; but it was not until many years of faithful discharge of her pecuniary obligations the credit of the State was entirely restored.

At the battle of Buena Vista an event occurred which exercised an important and pernicious influence on the growth and prosperity of the State. The Second Indiana Regiment, by the cowardice or incompetency of a single officer, was led into a false movement which resulted in a confused and disorderly retreat. The regiment was composed of as good and brave men as any other, but through the malice of the arch traitor, Jeff. Davis, who reported them to General Taylor as cowards, or the indifference and stupidity of those who should have vindicated them, they were publicly disgraced and with them the State to which they belonged. For years the Second Indiana Regiment was a by-word, and the valor of the State sneered at by the ignorant and thoughtless.

This affair, combined with the bad financial character of the State, led the uninformed abroad to regard her with aversion or contempt, and the emigrant was discouraged from coming within her borders to seek a home. When a man is about to seek a new home, very small causes will determine him to go to one State or another. The general good impression he has of one, or bad impression of another, fixes his choice.

If one State is charged with bankruptcy, or a heavy debt, or suspected of heavy taxes, or the valor of the people spoken of lightly, he will go around it, or rapidly across it without stopping, to seek his new home in one beyond. It is worth while to pause a moment and reflect upon what trifling and irrelevant causes the progress and prosperity of a State will sometimes depend.

The disaster at Buena Vista, which should have disgraced but a single man, retarded the progress of a great State; and I am of opinion that but for the causes I have been considering the population of Indiana in 1860 would have been quite 2,000,000, instead of 1,339,000. Our disaster at Buena Vista has happened to others during this war, but the frequency of the occurrence seems to have diminished its importance. We are taught by this passage in our history, that the honor of a State should be jealously preserved. Whatever it may cost to preserve its faith, it will cost more if it be suffered to tarnish. The folly of the system of 1837 was only exceeded by that which subsequently permitted the interest on the Public Debt to remain unpaid for six years.

But now, through the progress of wealth and population, and the faithful performance of all obligations for many years, the credit of the State is entirely restored and placed upon a high and secure basis, while the valor of her sons has been vindicated upon an hundred battle fields, and may now justly challenge the admiration of the world.

THE WAR—PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION.

A number of States are in rebellion against the Government, endeavoring to dissolve the Union, and establish a new Confederacy; they have large armies in the field, and are making war upon a grand scale. It is said by some that we can compromise, and make peace. But what is meant by compromise? Would consenting to a dissolution of the Union, dismemberment of our territory and establishment of an Independent Confederacy be regarded as a compromise? If so, we can compromise. Have the rebels ever intimated, or held out proposals for peace on any other terms? If they have, I have no knowledge of it. On the contrary, they have, in every form, and on every occasion, declared their unalterable purpose to accept only of disunion and independence.

Some two weeks ago, Wm. L. Yancey, one of the most able and influential men in the rebel States, was invited to address the Legislature of Alabama. In the course of his speech, he reviewed in the most scornful and contemptuous language, the proposals for compromise and peace, which had come from the North, and spit upon the men who offered them, declaring that they would prove as false to the South as they had recreant to the North. He expressed, however, a hope that the South would receive great benefit from dissensions in the North, and upon that subject used the following language:

"We have something to hope, however, from this division of the councils of our enemies—from their fierce party strife and jealousies. Upon this hope let us build our own unity—upon their jealousies let us build our own harmony—upon these clashings of party interests let us bind together our own patriotic energies—upon their selfishness and folly let us base a prayer to God that he would enable us to exhibit, in behalf of our beloved country, a self-sacrificing wisdom, both in opinion and action, in all matters appertaining to our defense."

Why then should the people of the North be deluded with the idea that compromise is possible, and thus induced to abandon their efforts to suppress the rebellion? Why should they be divided among themselves, and weakened by the proclamation of a hope so utterly fallacious? Some there are who profess to believe that all we have to do to bring about peace and a restoration of the Union, is to lay down our arms and withdraw from the conflict. Peace, temporary and hollow, might be had upon such terms, but not a restoration of the Union. It would be a dishonorable and shameful surrender, forever tarnishing the character of the Nation, and History would write down as infamous the instruments by which it was accomplished.

Others say that we should re-construct the Union, in doing which the New England States should be left out. But what have the New England States done that they should be left out? It is said we are paying heavy duties on imports to sustain their manufactures, and are in that way oppressed. If so, let us repeal them. The New England States are but six, while the States of the North-West alone are nine, with the prospect of an indefinite increase. That, however, is not the real objection. It is that their political principles are offensive, and the men who would turn them out, desire to construct a Republic in which they can hold the power. Such a project would be criminal to the last degree, if it were not insane. The fortunes of parties are variable. The party in power to-day is down to-morrow, and the victors are, in turn, overwhelmed, and so it goes from year to year. The scheme of constructing a Republic, taking in such States as are favorable, and turning out such as are not, presents the last stage of partisan insanity. It would be forming a Republic for the party, and not the party for the Republic. A government founded upon such ignoble purposes could not stand, and would not deserve to.

In every point of view, the scheme just considered, is full of dishonor and ruin. Our Union once dissolved, and our present relations broken up, all that is traditional and sacred would be lost, and any future alliances that States might form with each other would be regarded as mere arrangements of convenience, possessing no tie beyond the interests of the hour, and liable to dissolve at the first outbreak of faction.

The President has issued his proclamation offering freedom to slaves held in certain of the rebellious States. It remains to be seen what effect this proclamation will have in suppressing the rebellion; but whether it be effectual or not, for the purpose for which it was intended, the authority upon which it was issued is beyond question.

If the rebels do not desire the Government of the United States to interfere with their slaves, let them cease to employ them in the prosecution of the war. They should not use them to build fortifications, manage their baggage trains, perform all the labor of the camp and the march, and above all to raise provisions upon which to subsist their armies. If they employ the institution of slavery as an instrument of war, like other instruments of war, it is subject to destruction. Deprive them of slave labor, and three fourths of the men composing their armies would be compelled to return home to raise food upon which to subsist themselves and families. If they are permitted to retain slave labor, they are enabled to maintain their armies in great force, and to destroy that force we are compelled to shed much of our best blood. Let us not be more tender of their property, than we are of our blood.

But it is said the emancipation of the slaves will lead to insurrection, and the sacrifice of innocent women and children. Such an event would be greatly deplored. But it is not, in my judgment, a necessary result, or one likely to occur. The history of insurrections shows that they spring not from emancipation, but from despair. But if it were, I should say to the rebels, that if they were unwilling to incur the dangers of insurrection, and do not wish the Government to meddle with their slaves, they must cease to employ them in the prosecution of the war. With what propriety can they employ the institution of slavery as a means of our destruction, and at the same time ask us to let it alone? As well might they place their women and children in the front of their ranks, fire over their heads at us, and then call upon us not to fire back for fear of hurting them.

The madness which would inaugurate civil war in the North, and set neighbors and brothers to cutting each others throats, because the President has proclaimed freedom to slaves in States which have attempted to secede from the Union—have utterly rejected the authority of the Constitution of the United States—have formed for themselves a new Constitution—made a new flag, and to maintain these are waging an unnatural and blooody war, is beyond human comprehension.

That we should fall upon and devour each other, to protect the Constitutional rights of those who declare to the world that they have forever renounced and abjured all allegiance to the Constitution and Government of the United States, would be a spectacle so monstrous that no parallel could be found in history.

There is but one salvation for this people, and that is the suppression of the rebellion and the restoration of the Union; and this can surely be accomplished if we are but united; and I pray God that the storms of party and passion, which now obscure the heavens, may speedily pass uway, and again discover us to the world a united people, unalterably resolved to vindicate our honor, and preserve the Union which our fathers gave.

I believe that the masses of men of all parties are loyal, and are united in their determination to maintain our Government, however much they may differ upon other points; and I do sincerely hope that men of all parties will be willing to abate much of their peculiar opinions in subordination to the great cause of preserving our national honor and existence. And in conclusion, allow me to express my confidence that your deliberations will be animated only by an ardent desire to foster the honor and interests of our beloved State, and to cherish and protect, at whatever cost, the power and the glory of the government of our common country.

OLIVER P. MORTON,
Governor of Indiana.

On the 1st day of June, 1861, in answer to a resolution of the Senate, inquiring what disbursements had been made under the Military Contingent Fund, I reported to that body that I had examined and passed vouchers to the amount of $133,177 78 for the subsistence, clothing, equipment and transportation of troops raised in this State for State and Federal purposes, from which it would appear that the Military Contingent Fund was exhausted. This report was made from my own books, and not from those of the Auditor of State. Sometime afterward I was notified by the Auditor of State, Mr. Lange, that my statement that the fund was exhausted was an error, inasmuch as the vouchers composing the above amount of $133,177 78 had been by him charged to the Military and other proper funds, all of which appeared by an examination of his books, excepting the sum of $20,000, of which sum I had drawn from the Treasury $10,000 as the Governor of the State.

Of this latter amount $6,000 was paid to John H. Vajen, as Quartermaster General of the State, for which he properly accounted by filing in the Auditor's office vouchers and receipts. The remaining $4,000 I deposited in bank in my official character for a special purpose, but it not having been required, I returned the money to the Treasury, with the interest which had accrued upon it in bank. The sum of $616 63, alluded to in my former report as having been paid for telegraphing, was paid by a check, and turned out to have been charged to my private account in bank, leaving the official deposit of $4,000 unbroken. This sum of $616 63 was repaid to me from the Military Fund.

The account herewith presented of disbursements made under the appropriation of $100,000 as a Military Contingent Fund, is a transcript of the Auditor's account charged against that fund, as will appear by reference to the books and vouchers in his office.

I have also the honor to furnish herewith a detailed statement of the disbursements made under the appropriation at the Extra Session, 1861, of $1,500, for incidental expenses of the Governor's office.

THIRD ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

BOARD OF CONTROL

OF

The Northern Indiana State Prison.

FOR THE YEAR 1862.

TO THE GOVERNOR.

JOSEPH J. BINGHAM, STATE PRINTER.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF CONTROL.

Office Board of Control, Northern Indiana State Prison, Michigan City, December 15, 1862.

To His Excellency, O. P. Morton,
Governor of the State of Indiana:

The undersigned Commissioners and acting Board of Control of the Northern Indiana State Prison located at Michigan City, Indiana, beg leave respectively to present this their third Annual Report, as provided by law, of the condition of said Prison, together with a statement of the expenses of construction during the fiscal year ending December 15, 1862, as well as the expenses incurred in its general management and operation.

We commenced the work of construction, this year, under peculiar difficulties—in fact, we might add, without means at command to accomplish little if anything in the construction of buildings. The appropriation for 1862, provided that ten thousand dollars of said sum should be expended in the purchase of materials to be used in the construction of prison buildings, and the residue, $15,000, to support account and payment of salaries of officers. During the summer and fall of 1861, the work of construction was rapidly and vigorously prosecuted, and it become necessary, in order to continue the work and employ the convict labor, to anticipate the appropriation for materials for 1862, or to divert a part of the construction funds for 1862 to the purchase of materials; so that, when we closed up the work for the year 1861, there remained but about three thousand dollars of the material fund on hand, not anticipated during the year 1861. With this small sum, and the certainty of a large deficiency to meet the current expenses of the Prison for the year 1862, the question presented two alternatives: either to exhaust the small sum of material fund and then discontinue the work, leaving it in no condition to be productive or beneficial to the State, as well as to incur no inconsiderable debt during the year for the support of the Prison; or, to suggest some other plan, by which workshops could be completed during the summer, to enable us to make the convict labor a source of income during the winter of 1862 and the summer following.

No money could be drawn from the State Treasury, other than specifically appropriated, the same being entirely insufficient for the ordinary expenses of the Prison. To have remained without construction of workshops during the present summer, would have found us indebted, at the close of the present fiscal year, to the amount of at least fifteen or twenty thousand dollars; without any workshops in which to employ prison labor until the fall of 1863; increasing, necessarily, the amount of indebtedness by that period, to the sum of thirty-five or forty thousand dollars.

The Legislature, at the Extra Session, authorized and required the transfer of two hundred convicts from the Jeffersonville Prison to this, to be employed in construction; but, the Act itself did not provide for their return in case no employment could be found for them at this Prison; consequently, these convicts, as well as those then in the Prison, had to be provided for and supported until further legislation. The same Act making the transfer also provided that this Prison should be a Receiving Prison; and, we had good reason to infer that the number of convicts during the year would be largely increased. And the expense to the State for the maintenance of so large a number of convicts, unemployed for the want of suitable workshops, was one of importance, and had to be met to the best of our judgment and ability.

Under the circumstances thus presented, it was determined to call a meeting of our Board at Indianapolis on the 12th day of March last, with a view to a conference with your Excellency and the State officers, as to the best mode to proceed in the premises. After the consultation held there, it was agreed upon and determined that if a contractor could be found who would construct the necessary workshops during the summer, taking the material on hand and such other personal property as the State had on hand, not essential for it to retain, including engine and mill fixtures which were useless to the State; and, who should advance the cash means to complete the same, waiting for the residue until the Legislature made provision for its liquidation; that we would let such of the buildings as were essential and important for the present.

Doubts were entertained whether it was probable that a contractor could be found who would take the contract to erect the necessary buildings and advance the cash means necessary to their completion, and await the action of the Legislature for its reimbursement and payment.

To test the matter, the requisite notice was given inviting sealed proposals for the construction of the workshops deemed the most important to be constructed during the summer, the payments to be made in such material as the State had on hand. The engine and mill fixtures purchased by our predecessors, and not in use by the State, and such other personal property as the State might wish to dispose of, and the residue over and above what the State could pay out of the articles above enumerated, await the action of the Legislature this winter to appropriate the amount to cover the deficiency, or to take the proper evidence of indebtedness on the scrip issued due February 1, 1863.

On the 10th day of April, the time fixed for the letting, and the examination of proposals, propositions were submitted by three different parties, for the construction of the buildings. Not being aware of the usual and customary prices charged for work of that character, and at your suggestion, Mr. Stumph, of Indianapolis, a mechanic of acknowledged reputation as a builder, was present, to assist us in determining correctly the character of the bids presented as to the price of the different kind of work required. The bid of Mr. David J. Silvers, of Fort Wayne, was the only one which was specific in detail, and the prices considered by Mr. Stumph as about the usual average cost of work of a similar character at the city of Indianapolis. The other bids were such as could not for a moment be entertained. We accordingly accepted the proposal of Mr. Silvers, and entered into contract with him, taking bond and security for the faithful performance of the same.

The contractor at once commenced the work, and vigorously prosecuted the same to completion on the 14th instant, all of which has been accepted by us, and is now ready for occupancy.

The buildings thus completed consist of one workshop 40 by 150 feet, two stories and stone basement; also, one workshop 40 by 132 feet, two stories and stone basement; one blacksmith shop 40 by 76 feet, one story, iron roof; one engine house 40 by 60 feet, one story—all of which are built of brick and Joliett stone of the best quality; also the foundation of offices and stone gate-way on the east side, and the east main wall completed to the height of nineteen feet.

Of the character of the work done by Mr. Silvers under his contract, we feel no hesitation in saying that no other prison in the Western States can excell it. Visitors who have examined it from the State Prisons of Joliett, Jackson and Columbus, pronounce the work and capacity of the shops superior to any in either of those prisons. We are under obligations to our energetic Superintendent, Mr. Richard Epperson, for the faithful vigilence exercised during their construction, to make every portion of the work conform to the express terms of the contract, both in material and workmanship. He has faithfully devoted his time and energy to accomplish that end.

The work completed under this contract has all been done according to the original plan and specifications approved by our predecessors, and adopted by the Legislature of the State, with the exception of the substitution of slate roofing on three of the buildings, instead of corrugated iron. Having tested the corrugated iron roofing on one of the buildings, we deemed the slate roofing preferable.

Of the personal property sold to the contractor, amounting to five thousand eight hundred and eighteen dollars, was included one steam engine and mill fixtures, appraised by two disinterested machinists—Messrs. Aldrich and Condon, of Michigan City—at two thousand dollars, although the original cost to the State was much larger when purchased by our predecessors, and for any purpose of utility connected with the Prison was of but little value to the State, the contractor since having sold the same at a loss of five hundred dollars.

The total amount of work done under this contract amounts to the sum of $39,242 17, as will appear fully in detail, in the Report of the Superintendent herewith published, and to which you are respectfully referred.

There is still due to the contractor, from the State, the sum of $24,650 25, for which sum we have issued to him evidence of indebtedness in the shape of Prison scrip, maturing February 1, 1863, and for which amount we ask the Legislature to make the necessary appropriation to meet it at maturity. The work is now completed; the contractor has invested his own cash means for the benefit of the State. The work could not be done during next summer with the present high price of materials, without an advanced cost of at least 20 per cent. The income which will be derived from convict labor, by having good and sufficient buildings in which to work them, will bring to the State at least ten thousand dollars, before the time could arrive for their completion, if left until the following summer.

The number of workshops now completed will accommodate, without inconvenience, from three to four hundred convict laborers, which will be, in all probability, as large a number as will be received at this Prison for some time to come. When the walls shall be completed and one cell-house finished (the foundations already being laid) and offices built, the convenience and capacity of the Prison will meet the wants of the State for no inconsiderable period of time; and we would again, in this Report, urge upon the attention of the Legislature the importance of an appropriation sufficient the coming winter to enable our successors to complete them at an early day.

It will be seen, by an examination of the Report of the Warden, hereto appended, that we are indebted for the supplies of prison clothing and salaries of officers at the close of the fiscal year, in the sum of $22,403 82, for which amount we have issued scrip or approved evidence of indebtedness, to the several parties entitled thereto, maturing February 1, 1863, and for which we ask the Legislature to make an appropriation sufficient for their payment and liquidation. These sums are principally due to persons who have furnished supplies necessary for the comfort and support of convicts, and to guards of Prison.

The current expenses of the past year are larger than we could desire, but the enhanced price of all kinds of prison clothing, and provisions of every kind, have tended largely to make an increased expense of the institution.

It will appear by an examination of the proper reports, that the entire indebtedness of the Prison for the present fiscal year will only exceed by $7,811 90 the value of the permanent buildings erected and built during the year.

Another question somewhat complicated presented itself for action, in reference to the disposition to be made of the convict labor for the future. No parties felt disposed to hire or lease the convicts during the winter, there being few of the convicts skilled in any of the mechanical branches. The shops being now ready for occupancy, it was important that the prison labor should be employed, and, with a view to make the same productive to the State, we invited proposals for letting the entire able-bodied convicts in said Prison, for the period of two years. We received several propositions for a part of said convict labor; and one proposal to take all the able-bodied convicts for the period of two years, from May 1, 1863, at the sum of forty-five cents per day, without motive power. This being the largest sum offered, the same was accepted by us, and the contract executed, to take effect the 15th instant. This, we think, is a larger sum than is paid for convict labor in any of the prisons in the adjoining States, we believe, with motive power included, and will yield an income to the State of about one thousand dollars per month, when all able-bodied men have employment constantly, showing at a glance the importance of completing the workshops this summer, for without suitable buildings none of the convicts could be employed during the winter months, and but a limited number during this summer. Thus, by October 1, 1863, as early a period as the shops could be constructed, if left until the coming spring, the amount realized to the State as the legitimate result of their construction the present summer, will not fall far short of ten thousand dollars, and will increase in the proportion to the accession of convicts during that period.

Not knowing but the State might desire to employ the convict labor in the further construction of prison buildings before the expiration of said lease, there was a provision made that the lease should be cancelled, and contract terminated upon thirty day's notice being given on the part of the State; the contractor being reimbursed for any motive power or machinery used in the working of said convicts.

For a more full and detailed statement of the entire expenses during the fiscal year, we refer you to the several reports, herewith appended, of the several officers, which show fully and in detail, all the several items making the entire total of expenses for the current year, as well as the parties of whom purchases were made for materials and supplies.

This system of making out reports of all the items of expenditure in detail, requires a great amount of labor upon the part of the officer having the same in charge; but it is believed, that in public institutions of this character, in which the whole people of the State are interested, it is calculated to render more general satisfaction, than in the usual form.

The number of convicts has decreased materially since our last report, the number now being only 131; this arises from various causes, two of the principal reasons will appear by the large number of cases reversed by the Supreme Court, and those discharged by expiration of time of imprisonment. The amount paid out for convicts thus discharged during the fiscal year being $1,785 00.

To the Warden, Clerk, and all the officers of the Prison, we feel under many obligations for their uniform kindness and courtesy extended to us during the past year, and for the faithful discharge of all the duties connected with their respective positions.

We refer you also to the Reports of the Chaplain and Physician, herewith appended, showing the moral and sanitary condition of the convicts during the year.

The total amount required to meet the entire indebtedness of the Prison up to the 15th of December, is $47,054 07. This amount we ask the Legislature to provide for at the earliest day practicable. A large portion of the indebtedness is to men of limited means, and some with large families who are pressed to some extent and embarrassed with the high prices of all the commodities entering into family consumption. Others, in better circumstances, have generously furnished supplies to clothe and feed the convicts, and at prices for which they could obtain cash in the market. Good faith and honest integrity to them require their payment. The amount due to the contractor for the construction of workshops, should be provided; for the buildings are of the best quality, and could not well be dispensed with without detriment to the State; and we believe that the facts will warrant us in saying that the completion of the workshops during this summer, is a saving to the State of at least fifteen thousand dollars, if the same had been deferred to be constructed next summer, taking the advance cost of all building materials and the income which will be derived from convict labor by October 1, 1863, resulting only from the construction of the buildings referred to, and the employment of all able-bodied convicts for that period.

The number of convicts in the Prison at the time of letting the contract was 202. Of this number, a part was employed by Messrs. Haywood & DeWolf in coopering, and a part by the contractor after commencement of work; some were employed on the prison farm, and the remaining number yielded but little or no income to the State, for the reason that we had no suitable shops in which to work them. This difficulty is now obviated, and we trust that our action in constructing the workshops in advance of the necessary appropriation by the Legislature for that purpose, is shown to have been the best for the interests of the State under the circumstances in which we were placed. And to an intelligent Legislature, we submit the facts and ask them to appropriate the amount necessary to adjust at an early day the liabilities against the Prison.

We are not insensible to the fact, that in the midst of the civil war in which our country is engaged to maintain our flag and constitutional liberty, the loyal patriot is called upon to respond financially to the wants of the Government to maintain the large army in the field, who have left the domestic quietude of home and gone forth at their country's call to maintain the priceless heritage our fathers gave us. It becomes equally our duty to provide a place of security for the criminal who, in the absence of our fathers and sons, would apply the incendiary torch to our dwellings, or plunge the assassin's knife to the heart of his unsuspecting victim.

Having thus, at some length, presented the principal matters of interest in connection with the operation and management of said Prison for the last fiscal year, we respectfully submit the same, together with the reports of the several officers connected with the institution, which, we believe, are full, accurate and complete, and embody all the information that could be deemed necessary for the people of the State.

Respectfully yours,

HUGH HANNA,
JONAS VOTAW,
W. WILLIAMS,
Commissioners.

WARDEN'S REPORT.

WARDEN'S OFFICE, MICHIGAN CITY,
December 15, 1862.

To Hon. HUGH HANNA, WILLIAM WILLIAMS, and JONAS VOTAW:

GENTLEMEN:—I have the honor to submit the following annual statement of the general affairs of this State Prison.

During the year closing to-day, nothing has transpired calculated to seriously disturb the quietness of ordinary prison life. Courtesy has marked the intercourse between officers, promptness and efficiency distinguished the guards, and general good feeling and satisfaction characterized the convicts.

The financial condition of the Prison has not been satisfactory, as you are well aware. In order to render the prosecution of the work upon construction profitable to the State, the expenditures for the year 1861 exceeded the amounts appropriated for that year by at least $10,000, and at the commencement of the present fiscal year, there was an indebtedness of that amount to pay from the limited appropriation for 1862 ($25,000), leaving but about $15,000 for the current expenses. From this small sum $3,000 was set aside for the contractor, rendering our available means, aside from income, about $12,000.

The appropriation of the Regular Session of the Legislature for expense at this Prison for support and construction, was $25,000 per annum. The Extra Session passed an act removing 200 convicts from Jeffersonville to this Prison, and appropriated $30,000 as necessary additional expense for 1861, but failed to make additional appropriation for 1862. Hence, the commencement of this year found us with 253 convicts, at the beginning of a severe season, with no buildings in which to render their labor available, and but about $12,000 available funds for the coming year. Every effort was made to relieve the embarrassment under which we labored, and make the labor as profitable as possible, under the circumstances.

By the issue of "certificates of indebtedness," we have succeeded in keeping starvation and nakedness from the door; but to any one who will reflect for a moment, the difficulty of carrying forward an institution of this kind, for the better part of a year, upon an order basis, will be apparent. It has not only placed the responsible officers of the institution in a difficult situation, but has seriously embarrassed all employees, and resulted in much pecuniary sacrifice to obtain the necessaries of life.

The supplies for the Prison have been purchased with a due regard to economy, and in view of the derangement and general distrust in public securities, perhaps upon as fair terms as could be expected. The bills can be reviewed as they appear in detail in the Clerk's Report, appended.

To every candid mind, the necessity of a prompt appropriation to meet and liquidate the indebtedness accrued and accruing, must be apparent. The indebtedness was necessary, imperative and unavoidable, and in every way a debt of honor, and I trust your honorable Board will make such representations to the Legislature as may lead to prompt action and relief.

The exhibit, as made in the tabular recapitulation, for support account, shows at a glance the monthly and total amount to each account.

The bedding account, major part of the hospital, lime and cement, part of the meat, lumber, part of clothing, fuel, railroad track, clay, iron, stone, and some other accounts were deferred from 1861.

The discharged convict account is very large, showing a discharge of 119 convicts, each of whom drew $15. About one-third of this number were remanded by order of the Supreme Court. It seems very strange that courts should be thus loose in their judicial proceedings; fully 33 per cent. of men convicted of crime being turned out upon the community through some radical error in proceeding or information, their guilt being unquestionable. It has been a serious detriment to the institution, keeping the inmates in a state of mind far from satisfactory, as regards labor or discipline.

During the month of May last, a rebellion was planned, and came very nearly being successful, during which 17 convicts escaped, 15 were recaptured. The trouble was quieted with but little bloodshed, but it involved, in the search for the escaped, a heavy cash expenditure, as will be seen by reference to the escaped convict account.

Of the telegraph and transportation account, but a small amount is properly chargeable to support, it being to the amount of $2,431 88, for freights on stone, lime, &c., to D. J. Silvers, contractor, which is charged to him and deducted from his account, as will be seen by reference to the Supplemental Report rendered your honorable Board by the clerk.

The total expenditure of the Prison, in support, has been

$49,838 87, including last year's indebtedness, &c., while there have been received from all sources, and applied to support account $27,435 05, of which amount there have been received from

State of Indiana	$21,999 99
Visitors' fund	29 15
Provision sales	875 49
Convict labor	3,843 07
U. S. convict keeping	687 35

Leaving an indebtedness of $22,403 82, to be provided for. For details, see table.

The total expenditure incurred at this Prison is:

For support	$49,838 87
For contract	39,242 17
		$89,081 04

And receipts deducted therefrom:

From State of Indiana	$24,999 99
Convict labor	7,005 67
Contract sales	8,429 32
U. S. convicts	687 35
Provision sales	875 49
Visiters' fund	29 15
		$42,026 97
Leaving total indebtedness		47,054 07

During the past summer, the work on construction has been in progress, under the contract with Mr. Silvers, and every facility afforded him by the officers of the Prison, consistent with the interest of the State. The buildings erected, and which were so much needed, are of the most substantial character, and will furnish workshops for a long time to come. Under the contract for the labor of the prisoners just made by D. J. Silvers, with your honorable Board, with ample room, and the known energy of the contractor, every person in the Prison can be employed profitably. Coopering and the manufacture of tobacco, will probably become the main business of the convicts.

The gross proceeds of the labor of convicts for the past year, outside of those employed about the Prison, are:

For the State, under the Superintendent	$2,500 00
On contracts	7,005 67
Proceeds of farm, including potatoes, and vegetables entering into daily use of Prison	1,000 00
Clearing land under contract of Board of Control, off which the State had taken the wood in payment	300 00
Wood chopped for and consumed by the State and on hand	900 00
		$11,705 67

The invoice of property belonging to the State of Indiana at this point, December 15, 1862, is nearly as follows:

Real estate at Prison	$10,000 00
do do clay pit	1,000 00
Buildings, foundations and wall	117,262 26
Invoice of moveable property	17,256 10
	$145,518 36

I again may be pardoned for urging upon you, gentlemen, the necessity of an early arrangement to meet the liabilities of the Prison.

Allow me, here, to express to yourselves, the officers of the Prison, and the guards, one and all, my hearty thanks for the earnest co-operation which I have received in promoting the moral, physical, disciplinary and financial condition of my charge.

I remain, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

HIRAM IDDINGS, Warden.

REPORT

OF THE

SUPERINTENDENT OF CONSTRUCTION.

MESSRS. HANNA, WILLIAMS, and VOTAW,

Commissioners, &c.:

GENTLEMEN:—I beg herewith to submit to your Honorable Board, a report of the operations on Construction at this Prison for the year ending December 15, 1862.

At the close of the building season, one year since, it was deemed best to continue the work by the State, with a view to further prosecution of construction during the past season. A large amount of stone was purchased, suitable for coping for main walls, dentals, &c., and a stone shop built. As many convicts as could conveniently be worked, were employed cutting stone during the winter. This work was continued to about the first of April, with the results shown below.

On the opening of spring, it was found that the finances of the Prison would not admit of the prosecution of the work by the State, for any length of time; hence your Honorable Board contracted the work to David J. Silvers, and requested me to continue my superintendence of the same. The contract has been prosecuted with vigor, and the work shows, for itself, its quality; and I feel full confidence in stating that it comes up to the standard of work in other State institutions, and in accordance with the plans and specifications and orders of your Honorable Board. I have made monthly estimates on the work, and at the close of the season, in connection with Messrs. Hodgson and Stumph, of Indianapolis, appointed by Governor Morton, and Mr. McElfatrick of Fort Wayne, of the part of Mr. Silvers, completed a full and final estimate of the contract work; which is herewith submitted:

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT,
Northern Indiana State Prison.

To Messrs. HANNA, WILLIAMS and VOTAW:

GENTLEMEN:—For the last year, ending December 15, 1862, I have to report, that the health of the convicts confined in this Prison, has been better than could well be expected, under all the circumstances. Taking into consideration the exposed condition of the men, as out-door laborers—the heavy work of constructing the Prison, and the prisoners being confined (when not at work) and sleeping all together in one cell house, the air of which from necessity was very impure—I think their health has been remarkably good. Of the fevers that have occurred, not one case has lasted over three days—convalescence being speedily and permanently established. My rule has been to treat the disease at the outset, and, by preventives, ward off the impending evil. The prisoners being healthy, have been cheerful and contented, and I may say, have worked more like free men than convicts. This I say of a large majority. Instances of feigned sickness are common, but their frequency and number have diminished very much in this Prison.

Notwithstanding the general good health of the Prison, we have had a variety of diseases—injuries requiring minor surgical operations—gunshot wounds, inflicted while the convict was trying to make his escape; venereal diseases and their consequences, such as strictures of the urethra, orchitis and secondary syphilis. The latter diseases have been confined to those recently received into this Prison. But one death has occurred during the year—caused by conjestion of the lungs, resulting in sanguineous infiltration, as revealed by post mortem examination. The whole number of patients prescribed for during the year, has been three hundred; of this number, only 160 were admitted to the Hospital. The number of patients admitted to the Hospital, and those excused from labor, form an average of 7 per day. The number of patients admitted to the Hospital for the last year, with the diseases with which they were afflicted, may be seen by a reference to the exhibit below:

List of Cases admitted to the Hospital, from December 15, 1861, to December 15, 1862.

REPORT OF THE MORAL INSTRUCTOR.

To the Board of Control of Northern Indiana State Prison:

GENTLEMEN:—The close of another official year reminds me that my annual report is required.

When my last report was submitted, we had just closed a series of religious meetings which resulted in the conversion and reformation, as we believe, of a large number of the convicts. A church was organized—a thing, I believe, unheard of in prison history. We thought then that it would be of great advantage to those who composed it, by stimulating them in their efforts of reformation, and also form a nucleus around which might be concentrated the moral and religious influence of the Prison. And we have not been disappointed. It has formed a bond of union to those who have belonged to it, and a centre from which has gone out influences to reform and save others; for, the effect of religion is to make every one who embraces it, a minister of grace to all around him. And, as our revival or reformation was very materially promoted by social meetings for prayer and religious conversation, we have concluded that our success in a great measure, under God, may have been attributable to this cause. Not that the mere machinery of such meetings would of itself avail any thing, but that it afforded an opportunity of bringing many, during the week, under the influence of religious truth and feeling, and in contact with warm Christian hearts. The Gospel is the great lever by which man is raised from degradation and sin to renewed manhood and virtue; and to make it effective, it must be brought to bear upon the heart of man, and of course the more frequently it is brought to his attention, so as to arouse his conscience and stir his feelings, the more likely will he be to embrace it. The experiment of a prison church may have seemed to some a Utopian scheme; but if there is no hope of making convicts virtuous and reforming them, why have religious teachers to instruct them—for all reformation has its root in religion. It is the acknowledged means of reformation in our land, and indeed there is little, if any, true morality without it. But experience and observation have taught us that men can live

Christian lives in prison, as well as out of it. They have peculiar temptations and trials, it is true, but they are free from others quite as trying The cares and anxieties of business, and the various temptations that beset men outside of prison walls, do not affect them. And we ought not to expect them to be any more perfect than other Christians. There are few men, even confessedly pious, in whom some defects of character—some deviations from the path of rectitude—might not, with the magnifying glass of censoriousness and uncharitableness, and sometimes without them, be discovered. And shall we be disappointed if we find the same true of those who have trod the fearful road of sin and crime. Is it not rather to be expected that old habits will sometimes overcome them, and that they will sometimes yield to temptation. But we must, in justice to them, say that they have conducted themselves generally with Christian propriety and consistency.

Public preaching has been regularly observed on the Sabbath, in which I have been assisted by the Rev. Mr. Buckles, up to the 1st of August, when I entered upon the full discharge of the duties of "Moral Instructor." Since then, I have also conducted a Sabbath school and a religious service during the week. A number have united with the church during the year, and more will doubtless connect themselves with us at the next communion season. For several months past, there has been considerable religious interest among the convicts—not startling by the number of inquirers, but at first "gently distilling as the dew," but gradually increasing in power, until we now have the promise of a refreshing shower of divine grace. And never, since my acquaintance with this institution, have its moral and religious interests appeared so promising. Religion is established; and the fact that a convict can be a Christian, and a christian church be sustained within the walls of a prison, gives us a vantage ground we did not before possess, and gives us great encouragement for renewed effort in our work.

We have heretofore labored under the disadvantages of a suitable place for a chapel, having used the dining-room, which was liable to frequent interruption; that difficulty is now obviated, as a room free from interruption has been provided for all our religious exercises. The same room is also to be used for school purposes, where all can have an opportunity of learning, as far as the circumstances of the institution will admit. Some have made considerable proficiency during the year, with the limited opportunities at hand; and with the facilities now afforded, many may acquire a range of knowledge that will be of great service to them in after years.

During the year, the prisoners have enjoyed the advantages of the library procured for them by the late, lamented Superintendent of Public Instruction, Miles J. Fletcher, Esq., and it has been a great source of pleasure and profit to them. They have also been furnished with religious newspapers and tracts, as far as I have been able to procure them. And I would repeat the suggestion made in my last report, that a small sum judiciously invested for religious papers, tracts and books, would be a great help in my work, and very materially aid—as all religious improvement will aid—in the discipline of the Prison and the reformation of the convicts; for the great object of reforming as well as punishing the criminal, should ever be held in view. One criminal saved from future crime, will be a great saving, physically and morally, to society; his salvation and reformation is not merely a saving of dollars and cents, but of misery and sorrow in his own heart, in his immediate friends and all who feel the influence of his crime; and, not merely is it measured on the dial of time, but on that of eternity.

In conclusion, I would say that I have received the most cordial co-operation from the Warden and the other officers of the institution, and feel grateful to them for the kind and courteous manner with which I have been treated by them. And I am also under many obligations to your honorable Board, for the respect and consideration that has ever been shown me.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN SAILOR,

Moral Instructor.

REPORT OF PRISON NORTH.

His Excellency GOVERNOR O. P. MORTON:

The undersigned respectfully reports, that in pursuance of your order, I proceeded again to Michigan City, and with the assistance of Mr. Epperson, the Superintendent, measured up the work done by David J. Silvers, of Fort Wayne, under his contract with the Board of Control, to superintend the construction of the Northern Indiana State Prison, at Michigan City, a copy of the result of my labor is herewith submitted, marked A.

In several matters, arising out of the construction of the contract and proper mode of measuring, the Superintendent differed from me: to reconcile our differences, Mr. Hodgson, Architect, of this city, was commissioned by you.

When we arrived at Michigan City, we found Mr. Silvers, the Contractor, and Mr. McElfatrick, Architect, of Fort Wayne, as the friend of Mr. Silvers, already there.

All matters of difference were submitted to Mr. Hodgson, and by him decided, and a new account made out accordingly; a copy of which is also herewith submitted, marked B., showing the amount due to the Contractor to be $38,199 93

According to the report of Superintendent Epperson, to the Board of Control, (a copy of which I also submit, marked C.,) the Contractor was allowed the sum of..... $41,520 01

To which should be added, for 19 doors, at $8 152 00

Total $41,672 01

Difference in favor of the State $3,472 08

From this sum should be deducted for flagging unfinished, which the Superintendent estimated as completed in his report, but not excluded in our measurement..... 980 00

Showing that by your intervention, the State has been saved the sum of $2,492 08

This amount is the result of measurement only, and does not include any deduction for inferior material or workmanship.

I should have made considerable deduction on the work and material, but was overruled by Mr. Hodgson, who decided that we could not do it, for, according to the contract between Mr. Silvers and the Board of Control, Mr. Epperson, the Superintendent, is made the judge of the work and material, and he (Epperson) having given his approval, which would bind the State.

January 6, 1863. JOHN B. STUMPH.

REPORT.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION,
OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT,
Indianapolis, January 1, 1862.

To His Excellency, O. P. MORTON,

Governor of the State of Indiana:

SIR:—The 127th section of the School Law provides that "In the month of January, in each year in which there is no regular session of the General Assembly, he (the Superintendent of Public Instruction,) shall make a brief report in writing to the Governor, indicating in general terms the enumeration of the children of the State for Common School purposes, the additions to the permanent School Fund within the year, the amount of school revenue collected within the year, and the amount apportioned and distributed to the schools."

The voluminous annual reports heretofore made, at great expense to the State, have too often furnished the winters' kindling in our Auditors' offices. Through the carelessness of county officials, and a disinclination to study tabular statements, these reports have hardly filled a mission justifying the cost of publication. Hence we think the action of the Legislature wise in requiring only a biennial report for general distribution.

Though for the present year only statistics are required, we can not refrain from making a few remarks in regard to the present condition of our school system, and the practical operation of the "new law."

THE PAST YEAR.

When we entered upon the performance of the duties connected with this most responsible office, we anticipated great and sacrificing labor, and innumerable embarrassments. Yet we went forth cheerfully and hopefully, passing from county to county, examining Auditors' books, meeting with township officers and teachers, lecturing publicly, and visiting schools. Every thing for a time seemed to indicate a successful year's labor. But the booming of the cannon at the bombardment of Fort Sumter was the loud and mournful tocsin sounding its alarm through every township and district in Indiana. With an alacrity and patriotism unequaled in any sister State, our people flew to the rescue—the preservation of the Union as it was. For a few months, men, women and children had but one thought. Their earnestness seemed too sacred to allow an intrusion of any kind. But when the rebellion became a reality, and our hundreds of thousands were in the field, then those who were at home began in time of war to prepare for peace. They clearly understood that a cultivated generation could better appreciate the principles which their fathers and brothers were fighting and bleeding to make permanent, and that ignorance was the cause of vacillation and rebellion in governments. Hence public attention was turned with unusual interest to the great work we have in charge. The Superintendent ceased to be the fifth wheel of the "wagon of State." His coming was generously hailed by the people, and every where full houses greeted his efforts. It was the result of a general determination on their part that Indiana should be redeemed educationally. There is a better feeling, a more earnest spirit to-day in favor of our public school system than we have ever had before. Without any increase of the tax, we have been enabled to apportion $111,000 more to the counties than has ever been distributed in any previous year. Yet perhaps one-fourth of our districts have been without free schools. This, however, was the result of their anticipation of the revenue; many districts having used in 1860 that which they were to receive in 1861. This course having led to endless difficulty, the Legislature wisely forbade the use of the revenue prior to its receipt by the township trustee. By the advice of the Attorney General the Superintendent directed the trustees to pay their back indebtedness with the spring apportionment of 1861. They did so, and consequently those districts have no schools this winter. The difficulty is now remedied, and though it caused a temporary dissatisfaction, we are confident that all in future will be truly grateful for the change. We are happy, however, to state that in almost every instance the patrons in these districts came cheerfully and nobly forward and supported subscription schools.

In the general commotion, our educational interests have not suffered as seriously as some others. Those counties which have been most forward in furnishing volunteers for our country's defense, have generally increased their special school tax, thus showing that there is a vital connection between intelligence and true patriotism. There appears to be an instinctive coming forward of the people to meet the demands of our country for brain and heart, as well as for muscle and money.

INCREASE OF SCHOOL FUND.

Our school fund ought to be greatly increased each year by the amounts received from forfeited recognizances. We believe that your Excellency will exercise great prudence in remitting such recognizances, and that those who have made fortunes by becoming surety for scoundrels whom they have persuaded to run away, will find that your Excellency is not engaged in the business of "compounding felonies."

TOWNSHIP TRUSTEES.

The new law requires the township trustee to employ the teacher, he himself determining the price to be paid, and the length of the school. The school meeting designate the teacher whom they desire employed, and when the school shall begin. When a township trustee is elected, the sufferages of the people are given to one whom they believe to have the ability to exercise wisely the functions of his office. Yet it is lamentable that in so many instances school meetings attempt to dictate as to what price shall be paid teachers, and how long the schools shall be taught. They would override all law and cling to the employment of an indifferent teacher, that they may have school double the length of time. But we are glad to know that our trustees, as a general thing, are men of nerve, and have firmly said to the school meetings: "As far as the law allows you to come you may come, but no further." They are having the schools taught an equal length of time, and paying a uniform price for the same grade of educated labor, whether performed by males or females.

COUNTY EXAMINER.

The office of County Examiner, which is virtually that of a County Superintendent, has proved a most beneficial provision in our school system. Under the old law there were three examiners to each county. In such a case there could not possibly be any uniform standard in the examinations. The examiners themselves were generally persons of different degrees of attainment and experience. He who was most lenient and superficial, was most patronized. A teacher failing to pass with one examiner, frequently applied to another and received a license. This officer should be selected with great care. He should be recognized by his fellow-citizens as a public spirited, well educated and experienced man, and one deeply interested in educational affairs. He should reside permanently in or near the county seat, as his examinations will generally be held there. If possible, a practical teacher should be appointed.

But few lawyers, doctors, or preachers, keep up with the times in educational matters, and their examinations have, as a general thing, in our State, been mere farces. Above all, the Commissioners should never be influenced by political considerations in making appointments.

The change from three examiners to one has certainly resulted in elevating the standard of scholarship upon the part of the teachers of the State at least fifty per cent. Yet this higher standard, cutting off as it has many sons, daughters and friends, has not been secured without considerable feeling and opposition. While the people have been complaining of poor teachers, they seemed to forget that the entire trouble was the result of their own acts. Let the citizens of Indiana but once rise to a just appreciation of educated labor in the school room, and we will soon find the present generation of teachers actively employed in the cultivation of their minds, or they will quickly vanish, giving place to immigrations already prepared for the work. Whenever there is a demand for a certain kind of labor, the force required will immediately flow in to supply that demand. The moment Indiana calls for a higher grade of scholarship on the part of her teachers, that moment such a grade will promptly answer the summons.

INDIANA STATE UNIVERSITY.

A high degree of prosperity has attended the State University during the past year, notwithstanding the troublous condition of the country. The last commencement witnessed the graduation of the largest class which has gone forth from the halls of the University.

The present year opened with a much larger attendance of students than was anticipated during the present financial and political crisis which has caused little or no diminution of their number.

Tuition in the State University, by the action of the Trustees, is now FREE for all who desire to attend. Under this benevolent provision the greatest facilities are afforded to poor young men wishing to obtain a thorough classical or scientific education.

The Law Department is in successful operation, under the charge of Hon. Judge G. A. Bicknell, one of the most accomplished jurists in the State.

The entire faculty are men of ceaseless energy and generous culture. We have high hopes for the University, and shall be pleased in our report to the Legislature to suggest some changes that may be beneficial.

INSTITUTIONS FOR THE EDUCATION OF THE DEAF AND DUMB AND BLIND.

These Institutions are essentially a part of the Common School System of the State, furnishing the means of culture to a most interesting portion of the rising generations.

We have been pleased, in our visits to these Institutions, to find that those having them in charge are laboring successfully, not as "time servers," but as benefactors and philanthropists.

OUR SEMINARIES AND COLLEGES.

Every where over the State are springing up numerous Seminaries and Academies. They are of a high standard, and are doing a good work, and will furnish to our Colleges a class of students rendering unnecessary, ere long, preparatory departments.

We have some half dozen Colleges in the State. Most of these have suffered but little from the loss of students during the past year. The Professors seem alive to the work they have in hand. By their assiduous efforts they have raised the standard of scholarship till we can claim that the opportunities we offer for a Collegiate education can not be surpassed in the older States. In our next report we shall speak of these institutions individually.

MILITARY TRAINING IN OUR INSTITUTIONS OF LEARNING.

The communications received by your Excellency, in regard to military training in schools and colleges, and referred to this department, have been considered. So far as the introduction of this kind of gymnastics is concerned, we approve of the suggestions. But we do not indorse them because there is any peculiar necessity in the present demanding any such thing. Military organizations, in boys' schools, have long since become popular, not only in the Eastern States, but in many other parts of the country. It has been proved by experiment, in some of our best model schools, that the advantages arising from its adoption are many and real. The mind, the heart, the body, are all from God. It is a blessed trinity in a unity. The development of one is absolutely essential to the development of the others. Hence educators, long since, set to work to find out that system of gymnastics that should be most successful in physical culture, and at the same time have the best effect upon the mind. They found that the discipline laid down in the tactics was the most engaging; the best adapted to bring every muscle into play, and producing a uniformity in action and grace in movement, that brought order in the school room, and gave symmetry to thought, through that mysterious sympathy which exists between mind and body. For these reasons we shall rejoice to see every teacher in the land turning his attention to this subject. But we can not agree, as suggested in the communications, that this exercise should be introduced for the purpose of rearing a race of soldiers. We are aware that we have heard so often that "in time of peace we should prepare for war," we have come to the conclusion that this should be an object in peace. But not so. Peace, and its legitimate pursuits, are the great objects of every civilized nation. By these pursuits we become strong, and if the emergency arises, we are powerful in war; yet this was not the object to which we looked in our years of quiet and prosperity. We claim to be an enlightened government. Now the life of a commonwealth, like that of an individual, has two parts; it is partly external, and partly internal. The external life of a State is seen in little else than its wars. A State acting out of itself is, mostly, either repelling violence, or exercising it upon others; the friendly intercourse between nation and nation is, for the most part, negative. But a nation has its inward life, and from this its outward life is characterized. For what does a nation effect by war, but either securing the principles at the foundation of its existence, or the increasing of its power?

We honor the heroism and patriotism of our fathers and brothers in the present struggle; but power, even existence, are not ultimate ends; the question may be asked of every created being why he should live at all, and no satisfactory answer can be given, if his life does not, by doing God's will consciously or unconsciously, tend to God's glory and the good of his brethren. And if a nation's annals contain the records of deeds ever so heroic, done in defence of the national freedom or existence, still we may require that the freedom or the life so bravely maintained, should be also employed for worthy purposes; or else "even the names of Thermopylæ and of Morgarten become in after years a reproach, rather than a glory." The external life of a nation is subordinate to the internal. When we are in the midst of war, a civilized people feel that their object is peace. When we are in the midst of peace, we look to a more perfect fruition of the results of peace. The internal life of a nation is manifest by its institutions and its laws. Of these prominently are all such institutions or laws as relate to public instruction in its widest sense; such, namely, as bear more or less immediately upon intellectual and moral culture. Let us ever, in time of war, prepare for peace; but never, in time of peace, make it an object to prepare for war. Let us rather prevent war, by the elevation of all that makes up the internal life of the State. Let there every where be the best gymnastic exercise, that the more perfect physical development may secure the more perfect mental development; and the best gymnastic exercise is military gymnastics. But we most decidedly protest against introducing this exercise into our public or private institutions of learning, having as an object the making of soldiers, or of acquiring the ability to be good soldiers. The best guarantee against war is the education of the masses. The educator of the youth is, then, equally patriotic with that one who dies upon the field of battle.

THE COMING YEAR.

Though we are now in the midst of that tension of suspense that looks momentarily for great battles, and a change in the status of the country, we yet hope that peace will soon come, and our valiant soldiers return to the pleasant pursuits of home life. Under such circumstances we ought to anticipate an agreeable and successful year's labor among the people. Yet, for various reasons, the coming year will be even more unfavorable than the past. The condition and position of our armies all portend some immediate action—some more general engagement than we have yet experienced. When it comes, be it upon the Potomac, in Western Virginia, Kentucky, or Missouri, Indiana will bleed from every school district, and hundreds of families will be mourning, and will not be comforted, because husbands and sons are not. He who is a soldier from Indiana, is the brother of every Indianian. Should the death blow fall heavily upon us, we must not expect that our obtrusion among the people at such a time, would meet a cheerful or cordial reception. We govern ourselves by circumstances, and the present is so pregnant with great events that the plans we lay down, or the appointments we make, may or may not be carried out or filled. Even while we write, the telegraph tells us that in Western Virginia a battle has been fought, and thirty homes are made desolate in Indiana, by the death of as many noble patriots. From across the ocean the clouds lower, and ere many weeks another storm may burst upon us, rendering necessary a still greater abandonment of the pursuits of peace.

Again, my predecessors have all experienced the misfortune resulting from the fact that the office they filled had ever, in our State, been regarded as political. Yet reflection on the part of the people would convince them that in no way should the Superintendent be regarded as the representative of a party. He is essentially the representative of the people in their most important interest—the education of their children.

The law requires the Superintendent to visit every county in the State, and constantly to lecture publicly on education. Now, our people have long since come to think, that, when a State officer appears in public to speak, he is acting in the capacity of a partizan, advocating party issues. The Superintendent is thus trammeled and hampered; his influence and advice being felt by only a part of the community, whereas all should cordially receive him. This is not the feeling of one party simply, but of all parties. Though but little difficulty has thus far been experienced, by the present incumbent, he does look forward with apprehension to the coming year, when party candidates will be in the field. However honest may be his efforts, however earnestly he may devote himself to the work required of him by the Legislature, he apprehends that he will be misunderstood, and to a degree unsuccessful in his labors. How important is it, then, that this office should be wholly separate from politics. Our school system will ever be comparatively a failure, till all parties shall unite on one man, whose ability as an educator will command the respect and support of all. May we not hope that some concert of action may be devised by men who. though of different political faith, can yet see the evil that has arisen from our former course, and who desire that the popular educator shall not become the popular politician. We have spoken plainly of these things, with no false delicacy, believing that the people of this State know us well enough to understand that we are in no wise selfish in this matter. We have ever felt the deepest interest in the success of our Public Schools, and, having occupied the position of Superintendent thus long, we feel it our duty to present for remedy all of those defects which have impaired its progress and development. It matters not to what party the man belongs, so he be a thorough educator, heart and hand in the work. It is not an office of emolument, but one of sacrifice of both money and domestic comfort. Hence, as only being deeply interested in the redemption of Indiana educationally, we earnestly entreat the citizens of our State forever to banish the politician from the office of Superintendent.

The practical working of the law has already demonstrated that there are many defects to be remedied. They, however, need not be presented now to your Excellency. When we make our biennial report to the Legislature, we shall give our views at length upon the needed changes.

STATISTICS.

It will be impossible, at this time, to give the increase of the school revenue for the past year, as required by law. The new law took effect on the 19th of March. The County Commissioners, from whom we derive the information of the increase of the funds, do not report to us until their March session.

Number of Children, at the Enumeration of 1861.

Number of males	270,073
Number of females	249,118
Whole number	519,191

Number of children attending the public schools, during the year 1861		337,690
Number attending private schools		18,270
Number attending schools of all kinds, during the year		355,960
Number of children in the State not attending school of any kind during the year		163,231
Amount of school revenue for tuition, collected and ready for apportionment in April, 1861		$555,196 83
Amount collected and ready for apportionment in October, 1861		106,182 91
Total during the year		$661,379 74
Amount apportioned in April	$553,577 76
Amount apportioned in October	102,890 20
Amount apportioned during the year		$656,467 96
Balance in State Treasury		$4,911 78
Amount of Congressional Township revenue collected during the year		$168,175 15
Total revenue for tuition available for the year		$824,643 11

The Spring apportionment was	$1 08	to the child.
The Fall apportionment was	20	do. do.
Whole amount per child	$1 28

This is common school revenue. The Congressional Township revenue, though reported to this office, is not controlled by us. The Congressional Township revenue of 1861 is $168,175 15, which, added to the common school revenue, gives us a total of $1 60 per child.

We give the enumeration of 1861. The two apportionments were made on the enumeration of 1860.

There is now due the school revenue from the State, $350,000. This amount was an unapportioned accumulation of said revenue, which was drawn from the State Treasury and "used for other purposes," prior to the year 1861. The Legislature, at the last session, made arrangements to repay it, at the rate of $50,000 a year, commencing in April, 1862.

It may seem that the number of children who did not attend school during the year, is remarkably large. But if we remember that the enumeration includes all single persons between the ages of five and twenty-one years, that many of these are already in the active pursuits of life; that many parents, convinced of the evil of sending children to school at the tender age of five years, have abandoned it, and that near one-fourth of our schools have not been open during the year, we shall see that the number is as small as could reasonably be expected.

We have only given such items of statistics as this brief report will admit of, and as are required by law. In our biennial report to the Legislature, we shall present all the information gathered from the County Examiners, and suggest at length our views of the legislation needed to perfect our school system.

Superintendent of Public Instruction.

It was deemed for the best interest of the State that the interest on the State debt, payable on the 1st day of July last, should be paid in coin, especially as the other States were paying their interest in coin; and for the further reason that the war bonds provided by the last Legislature had not all been sold, and the failure to pay the interest in coin would probably cause them to depreciate. I was assured by the President of the Bank of the State, that, in his opinion, the several branches would furnish their proportions of coin in exchange for their notes.

The amount of the interest, $160,000, was apportioned, as near as may be, among the several branches of the Bank of the State, and the Free Banks, in proportion to the circulation to which each was entitled. Coin at the time was worth 6 per cent. premium.

All of the banks and branches responded to the call for coin, and furnished me with gold in exchange for their notes, except the branches at South Bend, Rushville, Connersville, Lawrenceburgh, Plymouth, and Bedford, and the Bank of Rockville, at Wabash.

The amount of coin thus furnished by the banks was $125,-393 01, leaving to be obtained from other sources $34,606 99, which was done at a cost of $4,044 30.

All interest becoming due since the 1st of July, 1862, has been paid in United States Treasury notes.

Treasurer of State.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

AGENT OF STATE

OF THE

STATE OF INDIANA.

JANUARY 23, 1863.—LAID ON THE TABLE, AND 1,000 COPIES ORDERED TO BE PRINTED.

TO THE LEGISLATURE.

INDIANAPOLIS:
JOSEPH J. BINGHAM, STATE PRINTER.

REPORT.

INDIANA STATE AGENCY,
No. 36 WALL-STREET, NEW YORK.

To the General Assembly of the State of Indiana:

As Agent of the State, and in accordance with the law, I would respectfully submit the following report of the transactions of this office, for the fiscal year ending on the 1st day of November, 1862, and including up to the 1st day of January, 1863, and including also the interest on the War Loan to the last mentioned date.

I took possession of the office of the Indiana State Agency on the 9th day of February, 1861. The office was, at that time, in building No. 52 Wall-street, from which I soon afterwards moved it to its present locality, thus procuring better and safer rooms.

On my first examination of the office, I found three uncanceled books of blank certificates of stock. These books had been sent to this Agency under the law of 1846–7, and, strange to say, had neither been canceled or returned to the Auditor's Office, at Indianapolis, on the repeal of part of that law. Each certificate embraced in those books were signed by the Auditor and Treasurer of State, leaving alone the Agent of State to fill up the blank with the desired sum, affix his signature, and thus make the certificate genuine. This being the practice under the law of 1846–7.

Under this law, whole books of blank certificates were signed by the Auditor and Treasurer, at Indianapolis, sent to the Agent of State in the City of New York, and when certificates were brought to the Agency for transfer, the Agent received, canceled them, and issued a new certificate in lieu thereof, pasting the canceled one in the place from which it was originally taken; thus placing in the hands, and at the disposal of the State Agent alone, with hardly any check whatever, the entire amount and condition of the State debt.

A looser and more dangerous system of conducting the financial interests of a great State would be difficult to devise.

These books I at once canceled, by cutting holes through them and otherwise defacing them, and have also sent them to the Auditor at Indianapolis.

The law of 1846–7 being repealed in this particular, by the Act of 1859, certificates of stock were afterwards, and are now, only issued from the office of the Auditor of State, on the surrender to him, by the Agent of State, the certificates sought to be transferred. Thus making the officers at Indianapolis a sufficient check on the Agent in this City, and preventing the possibility of a further fraudulent, or over issue of certificates of stock.

The Change of the Public Debt, and the Abolishing of this Agency.

By the law of 1846–7, the State of Indiana agreed with her bondholders to surrender to them her interest in the Wabash and Erie Canal, for one half the public debt of the State. Under this agreement, the coupon bonds, then representing the indebtedness of the State, were, with a few exceptions, brought to this Agency, canceled, and our present certificates of stock, under said law, issued in their stead. Under this fair agreement, made by the agent of the bondholders, and the proper authorities of the State, it was reasonably expected that all the coupon bonds of the State, embraced in the agreement, would be surrendered. This, however, has not been done, as will be shown.

It was thus that the State debt became changed from coupon bonds to certificates of stock, and that it became necessary to establish this Agency. However wise this system was in the beginning, and up to the present time, it has answered its purpose, and if it can, without compromising the good faith of the State in any way, should be changed.

The five and two and one-half per cent. certificates of stock of the State of Indiana, are "redeemable at any time after twenty years from the 19th of January, 1846, at the pleasure of the State."

It might be advisable, therefore, for the Legislature, during its present session, to take some action in relation to this matter. The best thing for the State to do, if she can, is to redeem all her outstanding certificates by the 19th of January, 1866, and thus discharge her obligations to her creditors. As this, however, will, in all probability, not be done, an important question is, what is the next best thing to do?

I would suggest the propriety of changing our certificates of stock, back to coupon bonds—or at least so much of them as the State will not be able to redeem by January, 1866—the law to go into effect on the 1st day of July, 1866, and the paying of interest on certificates of stock to stop after that date. The coupon bonds being of the denomination of $1,000 each.

As this would do away with the further transfer of certificates of stock on books kept for that purpose, this Agency should be abolished from and after the 1st day of January, 1867, as this would give sufficient time from the taking effect of the law, to change the entire debt of the State to coupon bonds. The coupons, afterwards held by citizens of Indiana, should be redeemed at Indianapolis, and the remainder at some bank in the City of New York. I can see no reasonable objection the holders of our certificates of stock can have to this, and certainly the interest of the State demand the change.

This being done, the possibility of another fraudulent issue of certificates of stock is precluded, and the State would save $5,000 per annum, the expenses of this Agency.

The Present Debt of the State.

The amount of the five per cent. certificates of stock, is, up to this date, $5,325,500; of the two and one-half per cent, $2,058,173 50; of the War Loan, coupon bonds, drawing six per cent. per annum, $1,225,500. Making in all the present determined debt of the State of Indiana, $8,609,173 50.

It must be understood that this does not include the outstanding original bonds of the State, the precise amount of which still unsurrendered, in accordance with the agreement of 1846–7, and yet outstanding, is impossible to determine from the books of this Agency. The register book, which ought to determine this to a fraction, has, from the first, been so carelessly kept, that the most rigid examination now fails to determine any thing about it. This state of affairs is very unfortunate. Through an extensive correspondence, however, I am enabled, in my judgment, to give a near approach to the number of those bonds still unsurrendered, and think they will not fall far short, or perhaps not much exceed, four hundred of $1,000 each—the attached coupons, which are now due, being equal to the principal of each. These bonds, if surrendered, as they ought to be under the law of 1846–7, would only increase the public debt about $400,000 additional.

In my former report to the Legislature I said, that, "as heretofore reported by my predecessor," there were then outstanding, three hundred and ninety-one of those original bonds. There is no data by which this is determined, left in this Agency, and I only make the assertion, based upon the reports of my predecessors. A looser system of book-keeping than the one originally adopted, in this particular, at this Agency, it would be difficult to devise. In an office where so much care ought to have been practiced—where the financial interests of the State were placed—a most inefficient system appears to have been adopted.

The exact amount of the fives and two and one-half per cent. certificates of stock, can always be determined from the books of this Agency; but—I again repeat it—to arrive at the amount of the outstanding original bonds of the State, is, from the books of this Agency, impossible.

The liquidation and surrender to the State of those bonds, is a subject which, at this time, demands the careful consideration of the Legislature.

The Stover Fraud.

In the month of March, 1861, a few weeks after I had taken possession of this Agency, I discovered—with the assistance of G. L. Dashwood, who has for years been an efficient clerk in this office, and whose character for the strictest integrity is above reproach—that there was, in one of the banks on Wall-street, hypothecated for loans, about $200,000 of the Indiana five per cent. certificates of stock in the name of Samuel Hallet. On an examination of the ledger, I found that Mr. Hallet had at that time but $10,500 of genuine certificates of stock. These fraudulent certificates were all signed by H. E. Talbott, Auditor, W. R. Nofsinger, Treasurer, and James A Cravens, by D. C. Stover, Agent of State. On their face they appeared to be genuine; but the books of the office do not show that such certificates, of such numbers and for such sums, have ever been issued to Samuel Hallett. This was alarming, and I at once had an interview with Mr. Stover, my predecessor, who was still in the City of New York, and demanded of him an explanation of this matter. He then and there admitted that he had taken the certificates from one of the blank books left in the office, had filled them up, signed them, and given them to Mr. Hallett, as his broker, who had effected loans upon them. By this, it seems that Mr. Stover had taken an entire book of blanks from the Agency, prior to my taking possession, and from this one, which he always kept, had taken the certificates, which he fraudulently used. That book, or the part remaining, he has assured me, has been destroyed. From these facts it is clear there were four of those blank books of certificates of stock—each one containing about 500 certificates—left in this Agency after the taking effect of the Act of 1859, three of which I destroyed by cutting holes through them as soon as I discovered them, and the one which Mr. Stover kept and which I never saw. These fraudulent certificates were not sold upon the market, but were only hypothecated for loans.

At this interview with Mr. Stover, I demanded of him that all those certificates which he had fraudulently issued, should at once be taken up, brought to this Agency, and by me destroyed. He declared his inability to do so immediately; but if I would give him time to get together his means, he would. I then agreed to give him time, if he would redeem promptly, at the rate of $25,000 each week. This he agreed to do, and did do, assuring me at the same time that the amount then discovered was all that had been, or by possibility could be, issued.

In less than eight weeks, the full amount discovered on the market was brought to this Agency and by me burned; the parties interested always standing by and seeing it consumed. I congratulated myself that the State had been so fortunate in getting these fraudulent issues off the market, without creating any public alarm, and without in any way injuring her credit, or by possibility increasing her debt.

In the meantime, and before I had discovered any more of those fraudulent issues, the country had become involved in civil war. The rebels had fired upon and taken Fort Sumter. Every thing was in a state of alarm. The financial disposition and condition of Wall-street were doubtful. Distrust, uncertainty and dismay were every where. Many of the loyal States were sending their Agents into the money markets to borrow means for the purpose of arming their citizens, and the State of Indiana had her Loan Commissioners in Wall-street, endeavoring to effect al oan of $2,000,000 for that purpose.

Under these circumstances, and with such surroundings, I discovered other lots of these fraudulent issues on the market. These lots, as fast as I discovered them, were taken up by the parties who had hypothecated them, brought to this Agency and destroyed.

To have made this matter public, at this time, or any other time, would, in my judgement, have been seriously injurious to the interest of the State, as well as the general interest. Deeming it, therefore, highly improper and unwise to make an alarm, with the condition of the country so unsettled, and the money market so sensitive, I still pursued the quiet policy of forcing Mr. Stover to redeem, at once, those fraudulent issues as fast as discovered.

Thus the matter progressed, until some time in the month of December, 1861, Mr. Lanier, of the firm of Winslow, Lanier & Co., discovered an additional lot of $40,000. These had been deposited by L. W. Jerome, a broker, as collaterals on which he had effected a loan. In consultation with Mr. Lanier at this, and many times subsequent, and from whom I received valuable assistance, and with officers of the State of Indiana, we determined to continue the quiet policy of withdrawing those fraudulent issues from the market, believing that the interest of the State required alone that course. Governor Morton, however, did not—from the moment he was made familiar with this fraudulent issue, and the circumstances attending it—favor this quiet policy, but was for a more open one, and a vigorous prosecution of the parties implicated.

Through Mr. Stover and Mr. L. W. Jerome, we procured, as we then thought, the full amount, at that time, in the hands of different brokers and bankers, and which we believed to be $275,000. To take this amount up and surrender each certificate to this office, to be destroyed, required some time. The parties asked indulgence, and we agreed to give them time to redeem, at the rate of $25,000 each week, until the full amount would be taken up and destroyed.

While this arrangement was progressing, the fact that there were fraudulent Indiana five per cents. on the market, became public, and Stover and Hallet were arrested and indicted. Up to this time I had succeeded in securing and destroying about one million and five hundred thousand dollars of those fraudulent issues.

When it became generally known, Wall-street was greatly alarmed. The money market, through all its ramifications received a severe check. The stocks of the State of Indiana were excluded from the Board of Brokers, and Indiana five per cents fell from ten to twenty per cent. A part of the press of the City of New York magnified the extent of the fraud, and unjustly endeavored to implicate different officers of the State of Indiana, and honorable financiers on Wall-street in the fraudulent transaction. A committee from the Board of Brokers, made a report on the moral terpitude envolved in the policy pursued in withdrawing those issues from the market, and thus saving harmless the innocent banker and broker in whose hands they were from time to time found, and also protecting the interest of the State, and, in fact, all the excitement in the money market, the depression in stocks, the general distrust, and the injury to the credit of the State of Indiana, which I was satisfied would occur if publicity was given to this matter, did occur.

To endeavor to learn, if possible, the full extent of this fraud, on the 26th day of May, 1862, I inserted in the leading press of the city, the following notice:

"Persons holding Indiana five per cent. stocks, signed by H. E. Talbott as Auditor, and W. R. Nofsinger as Treasurer, and J. A. Cravens as Agent of State, by D. C. Stover, will present them at the office of the Indiana State Agency, No. 36 Wall-street, for transfer or cancelation."

By this means all the fraudulent issues on the market, were, in a few days, brought to this Agency for examination, and I then discovered there was yet on the market near one million.

Since the arrest and indictment by the Grand Jury of Mr. Stover and Mr. Hallet, I have not been able to secure and destroy any more of those fraudulent issues. They seem resolved now to take their own time in taking up those hypothecated, but have, I believe, nearly secured the individuals in whose hands they are, by depositing other collaterals. I have been able, however, to determine where all the remaining certificates on the market, are, and think they are in a condition which precludes the possibility of their being again used.

The indictment against Mr. Hallet failed—the Court quashing it. Mr. Stover has not yet been tried, and is out on bail.

R. N. HUDSON,

REPORT

OF THE

ADJUTANT GENERAL

OF THE

STATE OF INDIANA.

TO THE GOVERNOR.

JOSEPH J. BINGHAM, STATE PRINTER.

REPORT.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
INDIANAPOLIS, January 8, 1863.

To His Excellency O. P. MORTON,
Governor of Indiana.

DEAR SIR:—I have the honor to transmit to your Excellency herewith the report of this department, embracing the period from April 15, 1861, up to the present date.

As there has been no session of the Legislature since the close of the year 1861, I did not deem it necessary to furnish a separate report for that year, and now include the operations of the entire period in this report.

I have the honor to be,
Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
LAZ. NOBLE,
Adjutant General.

REPORT.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
INDIANAPOLIS, December 31, 1862.

To His Excellency O. P. MORTON,

Governor of Indiana.

SIR:—In compliance with the requirements of the law, I beg leave to lay before you the transactions of this department, not only for the past year, but likewise for the period beginning with the rebellion of the Southern States of the Union, in the month of April, 1861.

At that unfortunate period, the Military Laws of the State were so defective that not a single regiment, or even a single company, could be furnished by your Excellency from the State Militia, to answer the requisition of the President of the United States for six regiments of infantry. To remedy the existing defects, your proclamation, appealing to the patriotism of the citizens of the State, was issued, and so prompt was the response from all sections of the State, that, at the expiration of nine days, a sufficient number of companies to organize the six regiments called for, were in camp, and a surplus of nearly thirty companies besides.

Having no enrolled militia in the State, our citizens were in no condition to obey the call, yet they banded together, formed companies, and rushed to the camp of rendezvous, having no arms or equipments, no experience of soldier's life, but eager to unite in maintaining the integrity of the Union and defending it against the assaults of traitors.

On the 25th of April, the companies for the six regiments were designated and mustered into the service by Lieut. Col. Th. J. Wood, U. S. A.; and on the 26th, the orders were issued announcing their organization into regiments.

The proclamation of the President of the United States, the requisition of the Secretary of War, announcing the quota of each State, and the proclamation of your Excellency, with the instructions issued by the Adjutant General of the State, are hereto appended for reference and for publication.

A Proclamation by the President of the United States of America.

WHEREAS, the laws of the United States have been for some time past, and now are, opposed, and the execution thereof obstructed in the States of South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas, by combinations too powerful to be suppressed by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, or by the powers vested in the marshals by law.

Now, therefore, I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, in virtue of the power in me vested by the Constitution and the laws, have thought fit to call forth the militia of the several States of the Union, to the aggregate number of seventy-five thousand, in order to suppress said combinations, and to cause the laws to be duly executed.

The details for this object will be immediately communicated to the State authorities, through the War Department.

I appeal to all loyal citizens to favor, facilitate and aid this effect to maintain the honor, the integrity, and the existence of our National Union, and the perpetuity of popular government, and to redress wrongs already long enough endured.

I deem it proper to say that the first service assigned to the forces hereby called for, will probably be to repossess the forts, places and property which have been seized from the Union; and, in every event, the utmost care will be observed, consistent with the object aforesaid, to avoid any devastation, any destruction of, or interference with, property, or any disturbance with peaceful citizens, in any part of the country.

And I hereby command the persons composing the combinations aforesaid, to disperse and retire peaceably to their respective abodes within twenty days of this date.

Deeming that the present condition of public affairs presents an extraordinary occasion, I do hereby, in virtue of the power in me vested by the Constitution, convene both Houses of Congress. Senators and Representatives are, therefore, summoned to assemble at their respective chambers, at twelve o'clock, noon, on Thursday, the fourth day of July next, then and there to consider and determine such measures as, in their wisdom, the public safety and interest may seem to demand.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the City of Washington, this fifteenth day of April, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, and the independence of the United States the eighty-fifth.

(SEAL)

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

BY THE PRESIDENT:

WILLIAM H. SEWARD,
Secretary of State.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, April 15, 1861.

SIR:—Under the Act of Congress "for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections, repel invasions," &c., approved February 28, 1795, I have the honor to request your Excellency to cause to be immediately detached from the militia of your State, the quota designated in the table below, to serve as infantry, or riflemen, for the period of three months, unless sooner discharged.

Your Excellency will please communicate to me the time at or about which your quota will be expected at its rendezvous, as it will be met, as soon as practicable, by an officer or officers to be mustered into the service and pay of the United States. At the same time, the oath of fidelity to the United States will be administered to every officer and man.

The mustering officer will be instructed to receive no man under the rank of commissioned officer, who is in years apparently over forty-five, or under eighteen, or who is not in physical strength and vigor.

TABLE OF QUOTAS.

One Brigadier General; one Aid (a Captain); one Brigade Inspector (a Major); six Regiments; six Colonels; six Lieutenant-Colonels; six Majors; six Adjutants (Lieutenants); six Regimental Quarter Masters (Lieutenants); six Surgeons; six Surgeon's Mates; six Sergeant Majors; six Drum Majors; six Fife Majors; sixty Captains; sixty Lieutenants; sixty Ensigns; sixty Sergeants; sixty Corporals; sixty Drummers; sixty Fifers; three thousand eight hundred and forty privates. Total officers, two hundred and twenty-five. Total men, four thousand four hundred and fifty-eight. Aggregate, four thousand six hundred and eighty-three.

The rendezvous for your State will be at Indianapolis.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

SIMON CAMERON,
Secretary of War.

To His Excellency OLIVER P. MORTON,
Governor of Indiana.

Proclamation by the Governor.

WHEREAS, An armed rebellion has been organized in certain States of this Union, having for its purpose the overthrow of the Government of the United States;

And whereas, The authors and movers in this rebellion have seized, by violence, various forts and arsenals belonging to the United States, and otherwise plundering the Government of large amounts of money and valuable property;

And whereas, Fort Sumter, a fortress belonging to the United States, the exclusive possession and jurisdiction over which were vested in the General Government by the Constitution of the United States, has been besieged by a large army, and assaulted by a destructive cannonade and reduced to submission, and the national flag hauled down and dishonored.

And whereas, The President of the United States, in the exercise of the power vested in him by the Federal Constitution, has called upon the several States remaining true to their allegience to aid him in the enforcement of the laws, the recovery of the national property, and the maintainance of the rightful authority of the United States;

Now, therefore, I, Oliver P. Morton, Governor of the State of Indiana, call upon the loyal and patriotic men of this State, to the number of six regiments, to organize themselves into military companies, and forthwith report the same to the Adjutant General, in order that they may be speedily mustered into the service of the United States. The details of the organization are set forth in the instructions of the Adjutant General, herewith published.

OLIVER P. MORTON,
Governor.

By Lewis Wallace, Adjutant General.
Indianapolis, April 16, 1861.

ATTENTION, SOLDIERS! — GENERAL ORDERS!

Adjutant General's Office,
Indianapolis, April 15, 1861.

General Orders, No. 1.

Attention is called to the following regulations adopted for the organization of the militia of Indiana:

1. Companies must number eighty-four, rank and file.

2. Each company must elect the following officers for commissions: One Captain; one First Lieutenant; one Second Lieutenant and one Third Lieutenant.

3. When formed and organized by the election of officers, the captain must report immediately to this office, sending names of officers, company roll, the exact locality of their muster, and the particular arm of service they have chosen—whether infantry, rifle, artillery or cavalry.

4. Notice of their acceptance will be immediately given by telegraph, or in the speediest possible manner; and when so notified, companies must hold themselves in readiness for instant march to the place of rendezvous.

5. Regiments will, if time permits it, be formed of companies from the same Congressional District. If time will not allow, companies will be assigned to regiments according to the date of their report, as above designated.

6. Respect for the five regiments sent from Indiana to the Mexican War, and the avoidance of historical confusion hereafter, require that regiments should be numbered in order, beginning with the sixth.

7. Companies not already uniformed will take no step about uniforming until they know the regiment they are attached to.

8. Arms will be distributed to accepted companies as soon as possible. If not distributed before marching to the place of rendezvous, patience must be exercised.

9. If practicable, an inspecting officer will be sent to such companies, notice being given of the time of his coming.

10. Accepted companies must not wait for arms, but begin their drilling immediately.

11. All communications touching arms, place of rendezvous, and organization, must be addressed to this office.

12. Notice of time and place of general rendezvous will be given in future orders.

LEWIS WALLACE,
Adjutant General Indiana Militia

Appended, also, is a list of the companies embraced in the six regiments organized:

Our State furnished for the war with Mexico five regiments of volunteers, which were numbered the First to the Fifth inclusive. As a mark of respect for the memories of those connected with said regiments, and to obviate any confusion in the minds of our people hereafter, orders were issued announcing that in organizing new regiments, they should be numbered beginning with the Sixth.

In view of the very natural and laudable desire of the citizens of the State generally, and especially of all those who have relatives and friends in the service, I have prepared Rosters of the Regimental and Company Officers of all organizations of troops from this State, which will constitute a lasting record, and prove of great value for reference in future years.

Permit me, at the same time, to respectfully recommend that, in publishing this report, the rolls of all our volunteers be copied and printed as a part of the report, in an appendix, and in sufficient numbers to supply each Clerk's office, Auditor's office, Recorder's office, and each County and Township Library in the State, with a copy for reference. Such a distribution would, at all times, enable those entitled to bounty, pensions, or back pay, to readily obtain the correct data on which to base their applications, and furnish the names of witnesses whose testimony is requisite in establishing their claims. Aside from these considerations, the value of such a report, as a historical record, would prove, in after years, to be a monument of the patriotism and gallantry of the citizens of our beloved State.

ORGANIZATION OF THE SIX REGIMENTS, THREE MONTHS' VOLUNTEERS.

In accordance with the requisition of the Secretary of War, when the six regiments called for were completed on the 27th day of April, 1861, the following Brigade Officers were appointed and commissioned by the Governor, and immediately assumed command of the forces preparatory to their taking the field:

Thomas A. Morris, Brigadier General.

John Love, Brigade Inspector, with the rank of Major.

Milo S. Hascall, Aide-de-Camp, with the rank of Captain.

It may be added here that, at the expiration of their term of service, the six regiments returned, and were discharged in the latter part of July.

Brig. Gen. Morris, on resigning his command of the forces, published an address, tendering to both officers and men his thanks, his congratulations on their safe return to their homes, and his earnest wishes for their future prosperity, which is hereto attached:

HEADQUARTERS 1ST BRIGADE INDIANA VOLUNTEERS,
Indianapolis, July 29, 1861.

To the Officers and Soldiers of the Brigade:

The term of service for this Brigade, in the army of the United States, having expired, and the relations of officers and soldiers about to be dissolved, the General, in relinquishing his command, deems this a fit occasion to express his entire approbation of the conduct of the Brigade, whether in the camp, on the march, or on the field of battle. The General tenders to all his thanks for the soldierly bearing, the cheerful performance of every duty, and the patient endurance of the privations and fatigues of campaign life, which all have so constantly exhibited. Called suddenly by the National Executive from the ease and luxuries of home life, to the defense of our Government, the officers and soldiers of this Brigade have voluntarily submitted to the privations and restraints of military life; and, with the intelligence of free Americans, have acquired the arts of war as readily as they relinquished the pursuits of peace. They have cheerfully endured the fatigue of long and dreary marches by day and night, through the rain and storm; they have borne the exhaustion of hunger for the sake of their country. Their labor and suffering were not in vain. The foe they met they vanquished. They scattered the traitors from their secure entrenchments in the gorges of Laurel Hill, stripped of their munitions of war, to flee before the vengeance of patriots.

Soldiers! you have now returned to the friends whose prayers went with you to the field of strife. They welcome you with pride and exultation. Your State and country acknowledge the value of your labors. May your future career be as your past has been, honorable to yourselves and serviceable to your country.

The General in command, sensible of the great obligation he is under to the members of his Staff, can not refrain from this public acknowledgment of the value of their services.

To Brigade Major Love, he can but feebly express his obligations. To his ripe and practiced judgment, his accurate knowledge of the duties of officers and soldiers, his unremitting labors to secure instruction and discipline, to his cheerful and valuable counsel, the General is greatly indebted.

For the valuable services of Captain Benham, of the United States Engineers, not only in the appropriate duties of his station, but in his voluntary and arduous labors in the field, the General desires, in the name of the Brigade, to thank him. He has proved himself not only the skillful engineer, but competent to discharge any and every duty incident to military life.

To Captain Hines, Aide-de-Camp, and to Acting Assistant Adjutant General Stein, the General tenders his acknowledgments for their ready and cheerful performance of the severe duties imposed upon them.

By order of
Brigadier General T. A. MORRIS.

J. A. Stein, Acting Ass't Adj't Gen.

ADDITIONAL ORGANIZATIONS.

The call to arms was responded to with so much enthusiasm, that, upon the organization of the six regiments of three months' men, there yet remained twenty-nine companies in Camp Morton, besides which, sixty-eight companies, formed in different portions of the State, had tendered their services, and were begging for immediate acceptance.

Your Honor, deeply impressed with the conviction that additional forces would be called for by the President, and that the State Legislature, then in session, would provide by law for the organization of troops, for the defense of the State, concluded to accept a number of regiments for such service. Orders were accordingly issued for five regiments of twelve months' volunteers to be formed, and camps of rendezvous were established for them at the following places:

12th	Regiment,	Camp Morton, Indianapolis.
13th	do	Camp Sullivan, do
14th	do	Camp Vigo, Terre Haute.
15th	do	Camp Tippecanoe, Lafayette.
16th	do	Camp Wayne, Richmond.
17th	do	Camp Morton, Indianapolis.

A report, made by the Adjutant General to the President of the Senate, is herewith furnished, to show the companies accepted under said orders.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Indianapolis, May 11, 1861.

To the Senate of the State of Indiana:

Agreeably to the resolution of your Honorable Body, passed on the 10th instant, the undersigned respectfully reports as follows:

Pursuant to the orders of his Excellency, the Governor, five regiments of infantry, embracing the first fifty companies tendered, have been formed and ordered into camp in the order hereto appended.

Inasmuch as the companies were tendered for the three months' call, it became necessary to ascertain those which would offer for twelve months' service to the State. A part of many of the companies declined to engage for twelve months' service, and the captains were given time, until the 13th instant, to recruit. Until that time expires, it can not be determined as to whether all will respond to the order. It was deemed best not to publish the order forming the regiments until the companies composing them had all accepted.

After the formation of the five regiments, there remained in Camps Morton and Sullivan six companies, a part of which, it is said, have disbanded and returned to their homes. The others remain, awaiting the decision of his Excellency, the Governor, relative to the organization of the additional regiments under the bill

At this juncture, the Legislature passed the law known as the Six Regiment Bill, providing for the employment of six regiments of volunteers for the protection of the citizens of the State, which, as it is quite brief, is here inserted.

CHAPTER LIII.

AN ACT to provide for the employment of six regiments of volunteers, for the protection of the property and citizens of the State, and making provision for the organization and equipment of the same, and fixing the compensation of the officers and men comprising said force, and for procuring arms therefor.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That the Governor be authorized and required to call into the active service of the State six regiments of volunteer militia, to be composed of the companies which have been organized and reported to the Adjutant General, under and pursuant to the Proclamation of the Governor, and which have not been mustered into the service of the United States, to be received and mustered into the service of the State in the order in which they were organized and reported to the Adjutant General, and if the companies so organized and reported are not sufficient to constitute the number hereby required, companies in counties which have no companies in the service of the State or United States, shall have the preference in the order in which they may be tendered. Said regiments, when so called into service, are to serve for the term of twelve months, unless sooner discharged by the Governor; the said six regiments to be divided into cavalry, artillery and infantry by the Governor, as the service may demand; and that the troops organized under the provisions of this act shall be subject to the order of the Governor of the State to fill any requisition made for troops on this State by the President of the United States.

SEC. 2. Each regiment, except the cavalry, as herein provided for, shall consist of one Colonel, one Lieutenant Colonel, one Major, one Quarter Master, one Commissary, one Surgeon, and one Assistant Surgeon, and ten companies, each of which shall be compased of one Captain, two Lieutenants, four Sergeants, four Corporals, one drummer, one fifer, and sixty-four privates.

SEC. 3. There shall be appointed and commissioned by the Governor, for the six regiments herein contemplated, one Brigadier General.

SEC. 4. The forces herein provided shall, while in the service of the State or of the United States, be organized by and subject to the "articles of war, and the rules and regulations of the United States army," and while in the service of the State, privates and non-commissioned officers shall receive the same compensation allowed by the United States, and the commissioned officers shall receive three-quarters the pay of the same grade of officers in the army of the United States.

SEC. 5. The Governor shall have power, if in his judgment it may be deemed advisable, to temporarily retire the said six regiments from active service, or any part thereof, after the said troops shall have been sufficiently drilled and disciplined, but shall at any time thereafter recall said regiments when the public safety may require the same, by giving notice thereof; but said regiments shall receive but half pay whilst so retired from service.

SEC. 6. Whereas, an emergency exists, this act shall be in force from and after its passage.

CYRUS M. ALLEN,
Speaker of the House.

JNO. R. CRAVEN,
President of the Senate.

Approved and signed May 13, 1861.

OLIVER P. MORTON,
Governor.

In accordance with the provisions of this law, Colonel Joseph J. Reynolds, of the 10th Regiment, (three months' volunteers,) was appointed Brigadier General of the forces authorized therein, and proceeded to their immediate organization.

On the 3d of May, 1861, the President of the United States issued a proclamation calling for volunteer forces to serve for three years, and on the 4th, General Orders No. 15 were issued, both of which, with letters from the Secretary of War, dated May 16 and May 22, are appended for reference:

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 15.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Adjutant General's Office,
Washington, May 4, 1861.

The President of the United States having called for a volunteer force to aid in the enforcement of the laws and the suppression of insurrection, and to consist of thirty-nine regiments of infantry and one regiment of cavalry, making a minimum aggregate of thirty-four thousand five hundred and six officers and enlisted men, and a maximum aggregate of forty-two thousand and thirty-four officers and enlisted men, the following plan of organization has been adopted, and is directed to be printed for general information:

Plan of Organization of the Volunteer Forces called into the service of the United States by the President.

The volunteers called into service under the proclamation of the President of the United States, dated the third day of May, 1861, will be subject to the laws and regulations governing the army of the United States, and the proportion and organization of each arm will be as follows:

1. Infantry.

Thirty-nine regiments of volunteer infantry will be raised; each regiment will consist of ten companies, and each company will be organized as follows:

Minimum.		Maximum.
1	Captain.	1	Captain.
1	First Lieutenant.	1	First Lieuteant.

866	Aggregate.	1,046	Aggregate.

The field officers of the regiment will be appointed by the Governor of the State which furnishes the regiment.

The Adjutant and Regimental Quartermaster will be selected from the company officers of the regiment by the Colonel, and may be reassigned to companies at his pleasure.

The non-commissioned staff will be selected by the Colonel from the non-commissioned officers and privates of the regiment, and the vacancies so created will be filled by appointment, as is prescribed above.

2. Cavalry.

One regiment of volunteer cavalry will be raised, and will consist of four, five, or six squadrons. Each squadron will consist of two companies, and each company will be organized as follows:

Minimum.	Maximum.
1 Captain.	1 Captain.
1 1st Lieutenant.	1 1st Lieutenant.
1 2d Lieutenant.	1 2d Lieutenant.
1 1st Sergeant.	1 1st Sergeant.

1 Saddler.	1 Saddler.
1 Wagoner.	1 Wagoner.
56 Privates.	72 Privates.
79 Aggregate.	95 Aggregate.

Volunteer cavalry may be mustered into the service by companies or squadrons.

When two squadrons shall have been received, a Lieutenant Colonel will be appointed to their command; and when two more squadrons shall have been received, a Colonel and Major will be appointed, and the four squadrons will be organized into a regiment. Two additional squadrons may be mustered into the regiment without affecting the organization of its regimental field and staff.

For the regiment there will be—

1 Colonel,
1 Lieutenant Colonel,
1 Major,
1 Adjutant, (a Lieutenant,)
1 Regimental Quartermaster,
1 Assistant Surgeon,

1 Segeant Major,
1 Regimental Quarter Master Sergeant,
1 Regimental Commissary Sergeant,
1 Hospital Steward,
2 Principal Musicians,
16 Musicians for Band.

And the minimum aggregates will be—

If the regiment consists of four squadrons....	660
If the regiment consists of five squadrons....	818
If the regiment consists of six squadrons....	976

And the maximum aggregate will be—

If the regiment consists of four squadrons....	788
If the regiment consists of five squadrons....	978
If the regiment consists of six squadrons....	1,168

All officers of volunteer cavalry will be appointed and selected in the same manner as infantry officers of like rank.

3. General Organization.

This force will be organized into three divisions, of from three to four brigades.

Each brigade will consist of four regiments and 1 Brigadier General.
1 Aide-de-Camp, (a Lieutenant,)
1 Assistant Adjutant General, (a Captain,)
1 Surgeon,
1 Assistant Quarter Master, (a Captain,)
1 Commissary of Subsistence, (a Captain.)

All of the above officers will be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, except the aide-de-camp, who will be selected by the Brigadier General from the company officers, and who may be reassigned to his company at the pleasure of the Brigadier General.

Each division will consist of three or more brigades, and of 1 Major General,
2 Aides-de-Camp, (Captains or Lieutenants,)
1 Assistant Adjutant General, (a Major.)

The above officers will be appointed and selected as prescribed above for the additional officers of a brigade.

4. Memorandum.

The officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, organized as above set forth, will, in all respects, be placed on the footing, as to pay and allowances, of similar corps of the regular army: Provided, That their allowances for clothing shall be $2 50 per month for infantry, and $3 per month for cavalry, and that each non-commissioned officer, private, musician, and artificer of cavalry shall furnish his own horse and horse equipments, and shall receive fifty cents per day for their use and risk, except that, in case the horse shall become disabled, or shall die, the allowance shall cease until the disability be removed, or another horse be supplied. Every cavalry volunteer who shall not keep himself provided with a serviceable horse, shall serve on foot.

Every volunteer non-commissioned officer, private, musician and artificer, who enters the service of the United States under this plan, shall be paid at the rate of fifty cents, and if a cavalry volunteer, twenty-five cents additional in lieu of forage, for every twenty miles of travel from his home to the place of muster—the distance to be measured by the shortest usually traveled route—and when honorably discharged, an allowance, at the same rate, from the place of his discharge to his home, and, in addition thereto, the sum of one hundred dollars.

Any volunteer who may be received into the service of the United States under this plan, and who may be wounded, or otherwise disabled in the service, shall be entitled to the benefits which have been, or may be, conferred on persons disabled in the regular service; and the legal heirs of such as die, or may be killed in service, in addition to all arrears of pay and allowances, shall receive the sum of one hundred dollars.

The bands of the regiments of infantry and of the regiment of cavalry will be paid as follows: one fourth of each will receive the pay and allowances of sergeants of engineer soldiers; one-fourth, those of corporals of engineer soldiers; and the remaining half, those of privates of engineer soldiers of the first class.

The wagoners and saddlers will receive the pay and allowances of corporals of cavalry.

The regimental commissary sergeant will receive the pay and allowances of a regimental sergeant major. The company quarter master sergeant, the pay and allowances of a sergeant of cavalry.

There will be allowed to each regiment one Chaplain, who will be appointed by the regimental commander on the vote of the field officers and company commanders, on duty with the regiment at the time the appointment is made. The Chaplain so appointed must be a regularly ordained minister of some Christian denomination, and will receive the pay and allowances of captain of cavalry.

5. Promotion from the Ranks.

Two-thirds of the company officers, of the regiments to be raised under this plan, will be appointed at the commencement of the organization of each regiment, and the remaining one-third, when the regiment shall have its full complement of men, will be appointed from the ranks, to be taken from among the sergeants on the recommendation of the colonel of the regiment, approved by the general commanding the brigade.

After the completion of the organization of a regiment of cavalry or infantry, one-half of all the vacancies which may occur in the lowest grade of commissioned officers, by promotion or otherwise, will be appointed as above, from the ranks.

Corporals will be taken from the privates; sergeants from corporals.

The first sergeant will be taken from the other sergeants of the company by the company.

The regimental non-commissioned staff will be appointed from the sergeants of the regiment by the colonel.

By order:

L. THOMAS,
Adjutant General.

Official.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, May 16, 1861.

DEAR SIR:—I have the honor to forward you, enclosed herewith, the plan of the organization of the volunteers for three years, or during the war. Four regiments are assigned to your State, making, in addition to the six regiments of three months militia already called for, ten regiments.

It is important to reduce, rather than enlarge this number, and in no event to exceed it. Let me earnestly recommend to you, therefore, to call for no more than ten regiments, of which four only are to serve for three years, or during the war, and if more are already called for, to reduce the number by discharge. In making up the quota of three years' men, you will please act in concert with the mustering officers sent to your State, who will represent this department.

I am sir, respectfully,
SIMON CAMERON,
Secretary of War.

GOV. O. P. MORTON,
Indianapolis,

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, May 22, 1861.

DEAR SIR:—By reference to General Orders, No. 15, of the War Department, a printed copy of which I herewith forward you, giving the place of the organization of the volunteer forces, called into the service of the United States by the President, you will perceive that all regimental officers of these volunteers, from Colonel down to Second Lieutenant inclusive, are appointed by the Governors of States.

Having thus confided to you the appointment of all these officers for the regiments furnished by your State, you will, I trust, excuse this department for impressing upon you in advance, the necessity of an absolute adherence, in your appointments, to the following suggestions, which are deemed of the highest importance by the General-in-Chief, under whose advice they are submitted to you.

1st. To commission no one of doubtful morals or patriotism, and not of sound health.

2d. To appoint no one to a Lieutenantcy (second or first) who has passed the age of 22 years, or to a Captaincy over 30 years, and to appoint no field officers, Major, Lieutenant-Colonel or Colonel, unless a graduate of the United States Military Academy, or known to possess military knowledge and experience, who has passed the respective ages 35, 40, or 45 years.

This department feels assured that it will not be deemed offensive to your Excellency to add yet this general counsel, that the higher the moral character and general intelligence of the officers so appointed, the greater the efficiency of the troops, and the resulting glory to their respective States.

I am, respectfully,

SIMON CAMERON,
Secretary of War.

Gov. O. P. MORTON,
Indianapolis.

Availing yourself of the opportunity thus presented to rid the State of the expense of maintaining the forces then organized under the Six Regiment Law, the following General Order was issued by direction of your Excellency, and measures were taken to effect the transfer.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 2. } ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, Indianapolis, May 21, 1861.

The requisition made by the President of the United States upon the State of Indiana for four regiments of volunteers to serve for three years, unless sooner discharged, will be filled by transferring three of the regiments formed for the State's service under the Six Regiment Bill from the State's to the United States' service, and by organizing one additional regiment out of those companies in Camp Morton not yet mustered in, and such other companies as may be next in order on the list.

The above order fills the requisition made upon the State for volunteers up to the present time, and will leave two regiments of infantry on duty in the State's service.

Companies which have tendered and not been accepted for service in the above order must be governed by their own views, whether to continue their organization, as no assurance can be given them that they can be accepted for either State or United States' service, unless further requisition for volunteers shall be made.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief.

JOHN M. WALLACE,
Adj't. Gen. Ind. V. M.

In pursuance of these orders and instructions, the following regiments were soon formed, armed and equipped for service.

The Twelfth and Sixteenth Regiments, organized for the State's service, as twelve months' troops, embraced all those who declined to enter the United States' service for three years.

The Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, and Seventeenth Regiments were transferred into the United States' service in an incomplete state and their organization completed without serious delay.

The Twelfth regiment, under command of Col. John M. Wallace, who was a Captain in the Mexican war, having been armed and equipped, was ordered on duty at Evansville, on the 11th of June, 1861, to defend and protect the south-western portion of the State from bands of rebel guerrillas; and to enforce the blockade of the Ohio river and prevent contraband trading. In pursuance of orders from the War Department, the regiment was transferred to the United States' service on the 23d day of July, 1861, and on the 25th departed for the Army of the Potomac.

The Sixteenth Regiment, commanded by Col. P. A. Hackleman, of Rushville, was likewise transferred to the United States' service at the same time, and departed from their rendezvous, at Richmond, on the 24th day of July, 1861, for the Army of the Potomac.

An excess of companies still remaining in camp, orders were obtained for their organization into the Eighteenth Regiment, which was completed, turned over to the United States' service, and marched to St. Louis, Missouri, with orders to report to General Fremont, on the 17th day of August, 1861, in command of Col. Thomas Pattison, of Aurora.

Rosters, showing the organization in detail, of the several regiments above named, are appended hereto.

The Thirteenth Regiment, commanded by Col. Jeremiah C. Sullivan, was completed in its organization, armed, equipped, and departed the 4th day of July, 1861, under orders to report to Gen. McClellan, at Grafton, for duty in Western Virginia.

The Fourteenth Regiment received marching orders the 5th day of July, 1861, and moved via railroad, under command of Col. Nathan Kimball, who was a distinguished captain in the Second Regiment, Indiana Volunteers, in the Mexican War, with instructions to report to Gen. McClellan, at Grafton, for duty in Western Virginia.

The Fifteenth Regiment organized with George D. Wagner, a prominent politician of Warren county, as Colonel, was ordered from Lafayette to Indianapolis, where it was fully armed and equipped, and, under orders to report to Gen. McClellan at Grafton, marched by railroad, on the 1st day of July, 1861, for service in Western Virginia.

Seventeenth Regiment.—This Regimeut, commanded by Col. Milo S. Hascall, an officer of ability, as soon as fully equipped, was ordered to Grafton, Va., on the 1st day of July, 1861, for duty, under Gen. McClellan.

At various times from the beginning of the war, offers were made of cavalry companies, and at one time an entire regiment was tendered, to be raised by several gentlemen from different points, but no authority was granted by the War Department to raise such forces.

The unprotected state of our southern border, extending along the Ohio river, over 400 miles, gave rise to much anxiety in the public mind in that locality. So long a line exposed to the depredations of bands of rebel guerrillas, said to be forming in Kentucky, rendered necessary some measures for its protection.

Under these circumstances, it was decided by your Excellency to organize, under the State Militia Law, a regiment of cavalry (composed of companies) extending throughout the entire line of border counties. Special Orders, No. 1, hereto appended, were accordingly issued, and enlisting began for the several companies. One-half the companies were ordered to rendezvous at Evansville, and the other at Madison. Before the regiment was mustered for the service, orders were received from the Secretary of War, accepting it for the United States' service, and it was mustered, armed and equipped accordingly.

General Orders, No. 1.

Adjutant General's Office, Indiana Militia, Indianapolis, June 10, 1861.

There will be formed in the counties of this State bordering on the Ohio river, one regiment of volunteer cavalry, under the militia law passed at the late special session of the Legislature. The companies to compose said regiment will be formed as follows, to-wit:

One company in each of the counties of

Posey,	Perry,	Clarke,
Vanderburgh,	Crawford,	Jefferson,
Warrick,	Harrison,	Switzerland,
Spencer,	Floyd,

and one company in Ohio and Dearborn counties.

Each company will be organized as follows:

1 Captain,
1 1st Lieutenant,
1 2d Lieutenant,
1 1st Sergeant,
1 Company Quarter Master Sergeant,
4 Sergeants,
8 Corporals,
2 Buglers,

2 Farriers and Blacksmiths,
1 Saddler,
1 Wagoner,
56 Privates.
79 Aggregate.

The officers of the companies are to be elected in pursuance of the said militia law, and will be mustered into the Indiana Legion as soon as organized and reported to this office.

For field officers, Conrad Baker, of Vanderburgh county, has been appointed Colonel, and Scott Carter, of Switzerland county, Lieutenant-Colonel of the regiment, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

The Adjutant and Regimental Quarter Master will be selected by the Colonel, and take the rank of First Lieutenant. They may be assigned to companies and their places supplied from the Lieutenants of the regiment at the pleasure of the Colonel.

The non-commissioned staff will be selected by the Colonel.

Each commissioned and non-commissioned officer, private, musician and artificer of cavalry embraced in this order, will furnish his own horse and horse equipments, and when called into active service of the State, shall receive fifty cents per day for their use and risk while in service, together with the pay and allowance of similar corps under the Six Regiment Bill of said State.

The State will furnish the necessary arms and equipments, to consist of carbines, pistols and holsters, and cavalry sabres, at as early a day as they can be procured.

Companies are directed not to wait for arms, but to organize and proceed to drill without delay.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief.

LAZ'S NOBLE,
Adj't Gen'l Ind. Vol. Militia.

The martial spirit of our people had become aroused, and companies, from all parts of the State, tendered their services for any future calls the War Department might make. Earnest solicitations were made for authority to accept more troops, and, finally, on the 11th of June, six regiments, and on the 19th four additional regiments were accepted, of which, two of the former were those proposed by Colonel James W. McMillan and Colonel William L. Brown; and that of Colonel Solomon Meredith was subsequently asked to be added; and the last named four were to be taken from the First, Second and Third Congressional Districts, from which thirty-one companies were already enrolled on the books of the Adjutant General's Office.

The two letters referred to, and General Orders, No. 13, issued immediately afterward, are, for general information, appended for publication.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
June 11, 1861.

SIR:—It has been determined to accept six additional regiments of volunteers, from Indiana, to be mustered into service for three years, or during the war, according to the plan of organization in General Orders, No. 15; of which regiments, those of Colonel James W. McMillan, and Colonel William L. Brown, shall be received, and the remaining four to be designated by your Excellency. All of said regiments, when mustered into service, or if the whole number are not mustered, such as are, to report to Major General McClellan.

SIMON CAMERON,
Secretary of War.

His Excellency O. P. MORTON,
Governor of Indiana.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
June 19, 1861.

SIR:—By order of the President, this department will, with your consent, accept any number not exceeding four additional regiments from your State, to serve during the war, and to be selected by you. It is, however, the desire of the President, that these regiments shall be made up and taken from the First, Second and Third Congressional Districts of the State, and this order is given with that expectation.

SIMON CAMERON,
Secretary of War.

His Excellency O. P. MORTON,
Governor of Indiana.

GENERAL ORDERS.
No. 13.

ADJUTANT GENALAL'S OFFICE,
INDIANA MILITIA,
Indianapolis, June 24, 1861.

The Secretary of War has made his requisition on the Governor of this State for six additional regiments of volunteers, under date of June 10th, 1861; and also for four additional regiments, under date of June 22d, 1861, to be mustered into the service of the United States for three years, unless sooner discharged.

By request of the Secretary of War, W. L. Brown, J. W. McMillen and Sol. Meredith, are each authorized to raise one regiment of the six first named, and the Governor is requested to commission them as Colonels.

Three regiments will be organized from the companies heretofore tendered from counties outside of the First, Second and Third Congressional Districts.

Four regiments will be organized in the First, Second and Third Congressional Districts, for which the First will furnish fourteen companies, the Second sixteen companies, and the Third District ten companies.

One regiment of cavalry will be accepted from counties bordering on the Ohio river.

Companies of volunteer infantry will be accepted for said service, to consist of those companies which have heretofore tendered their services for three years, and filed company rolls in the Adjutant General's office; after which preference will be given to companies formed in counties from which none have been accepted for either State or United States' service. This preference to be available for ten days, and companies will be accepted in the order in which they tender their services and file correct rolls.

Companies heretofore tendered, a majority of the members of which have been disbanded, will not be entitled to fill their places in this call; but where a majority still continue the organization, a reasonable time will be allowed to recruit and fill the companies.

The companies will be formed into a regiment, and each company will be organized as follows:

1 Captain,
1 1st Lieutenant,
1 2d Lieutenant,
1 1st Sergeant,
4 Sergeants,
8 Corporals,
2 Musicians,
1 Wagoner,
82 Privates.

101 aggregate.

The commissioned officers of the company will be appointed by the Governor of the State, and the non-commissioned officers, until the company shall be embodied in a regiment, will be appointed by the captain, afterwards by the colonels, on the recommendation of the captain.

Each regiment will be organized as follows:

1 Colonel,
1 Lieutenant-Colonel,
1 Major,
1 Adjutant, (a Lieutenant,)
1 Regimental Quarter Master, (a Lieutenant,)
1 Assistant Surgeon,
1 Sergeant Major,
1 Regimental Quarter Master Sergeant,
1 Regimental Commissary Sergeant,
1 Hospital Steward,
2 Principal Musicians,
24 Musicians for Band,
1,010 company officers and enlisted men.

1,046 aggregate.

The field officers of the regiment will be appointed by the Governor of the State.

The Adjutant and Regimental Quarter Master will be selected by the Colonel, and will have the rank of 1st Lieutenant. They may be assigned to companies at his pleasure.

The non-commissioned staff will be selected by the Colonel from the non-commissioned officers and privates of the regiment, and the vacancies so created, will be filled by appointment, as prescribed above.

Captains will immediately report to this office the number in their respective companies, and the time it will require to recruit the full number.

Companies desiring to enter this service, will report immediately to this office, file a company roll, and state when they can be ready for duty.

As soon as companies are reported full and awaiting orders, they will be notified of the time and place of rendezvous.

Companies will not be permitted to march to the rendezvous without positive orders from the Adjutant General.

The companies heretofore reported from the First, Second, and Third Congressional Districts will be assigned to the regiments to be formed in said districts, and until said regiments are full, no companies formed therein will be permitted to join other regiments.

The several companies forming the three regiments to be raised under Messrs. Brown, McMillen, and Meredith, will be reported by them to the Adjutant General as soon as completed, and await orders before marching.

Captains of companies which have been tendered for service in the Adjutant General's office, and whose companies have joined, or may join, either of the above three regiments, are ordered to report immediately, so that the companies next in order may be called.

CAVALRY.

The regiment of cavalry authorized by Special Order, No. 1. issued June 10, 1861, for the organization of a regiment of cavalry, in the counties bordering on the Ohio river, will be organized for the United States' service for three years, unless sooner discharged, and that order is modified accordingly.

The companies to compose said regiment will be formed as follows, to-wit:

One company in each of the counties of Posey, Vanderburgh, Warrick, Spencer, Perry, Crawford, Harrison, Floyd, Clarke, Jefferson, Switzerland, and one company in Ohio and Dearborn counties.

Each company will be organized as follows:

1 Captain,
1 1st Lieutenant,
1 2d Lieutenant,
1 1st Sergeant,
1 Company Quarter Master Sergeant,
4 Sergeants,
8 Corporals,
2 Buglers,
2 Farriers and Blacksmiths,
1 Saddler,
1 Wagoner,
56 Privates.

79 aggregate.

As soon as the companies are reported full, orders will be issued to rendezvous at some convenient point, for duty.

Memorandum.

The officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, organized as above set forth, will, in all respects, be placed on the footing, as to pay and allowances, of similar corps of the regular army: Provided, That their allowances for clothing shall be $3 50 per month, and that each non-commissioned officer, private, musician, and artificer of cavalry, shall furnish his own horse and horse equipments, and shall receive forty cents per day for their use and risk, except that, in case the horse shall become disabled, or shall die, the allowance shall cease until the disability be removed, or another hore be supplied. Every cavalry volunteer, who shall not keep himself provided with a serviceable horse, shall serve on foot.

Every volunteer, non-commissioned officer, private, musician, and artificer, who enters the service of the United States, under this plan, shall be paid at the rate of fifty cents, and if a cavalry volunteer, twenty-five cents additional, in lieu of forage, for every twenty miles of travel from his home to the place of muster—the distance to be measured by the shortest usually traveled route—and when honorably discharged, an allowance, at the same rate, from the place of his dicharge to his home, and, in addition thereto, the sum of one hundred dollars.

Any volunteer who may be received into the service of the United States, under this plan, and who may be wounded, or otherwise disabled in the service, shall be entitled to the benefits which have been, or may be, conferred on persons disabled in the regular service; and the legal heirs of such as die, or may be killed, in service, in addition to all arrears of pay and allowances, shall receive the sum of one hundred dollars.

The bands of the regiments of infantry and of the regiments of cavalry, will be paid as follows: One-fourth of each will receive the pay and allowances of sergeants of engineer soldiers; one-fourth those of corporals of engineer soldiers; and the remaining half those of privates of engineer soldiers of the first class.

The wagoners and saddlers will receive the pay and allowances of corporals of cavalry.

The regimental commissary sergeant will receive the pay and allowances of a regimental sergeant major. The company quarter master sergeant the pay and allowances of a sergeant of cavalry.

There will be allowed to each regiment one Chaplain, who will be appointed by the regimental commander on the vote of the field officers and compfiny commanders, on duty, with the regiment at the time the appointment is to be made. The Chaplain so appointed must be a regular ordained minister of some Christian denomination, and will receive the pay and allowances of a Captain of cavalry.

5. Promotion from the Ranks.

Two-thirds of the company officers of the regiments to be raised under this plan, will be appointed at the commencement of the organization of each regiment, and the remaining one-third, when the regiment shall have its full complement of men, will be appointed from the ranks, to be taken from among the sergeants, on the recommendation of the Colonel of the regiment, approved by the General commanding the brigade.

After the completion of the organization of a regiment of cavalry or infantry, one-half of all the vacancies which may occur in the lowest grade of commissioned officers, by promotion or otherwise, will be appointed as above, from the ranks.

Corporals will be taken from the privates; sergeants from corporals.

The 1st sergeant will be taken from the other sergeants of the company by the Captain.

The regimental non-commissioned staff will be appointed from the sergeants of the regiment, by the Colonel.

It is intended that all the forces called for by this order, shall be in camp and ready to be mustered into service in fifteen or eighteen days from this date.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief.

LAZ'S NOBLE,
Adjutant General.

Accordingly, under General Orders, No. 13, regiments were authorized to be raised and rendezvoused as follows:

Regiment.	Commander.	Rendezvous.
19th	Col. Sol. Meredith,	Camp Morton.
20th	" Wm. L. Brown,	" Tippecanoe, Lafayette.
21st	" James W. McMillen,	" Morton.

25th	James G. Jones,	" Vanderburgh, Evansville.
26th		" Sullivan.
27th		" Morton.
28th	1st Cavalry, Col. Conrad Baker.
	Eight companies, camp near	Evansville.
	Six " " "	Madison.

At this period the six regiments of three months' volunteers having returned and been discharged, orders were received from the Secretary of War, for their re-organization, to serve three years, and simultaneous therewith, orders accepting ten additional regiments; by direction of your Excellency, General Orders, No. 17 were promulgated at this office, and was as follows:

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 17.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, INDIANA MILITIA, Indianapolis, August 3, 1861.

The Secretary of War has ordered that the six regiments of three months' volunteers just returned from the seat of war be recruited and placed on a war footing for the three years service, unless sooner discharged, with all possible haste. The officers of said regiments will immediately adopt such measures as will best expedite the reorganization of said regiments, and will receive the assistance and co-operation of this office. The companies will be increased to the aggregate of 101.

The Secretary of War having accepted ten additional regiments of volunteers from this State, to be mustered into the service of the United States for three years, unless sooner discharged, companies will organize and notify this office without delay.

The companies will be formed into a regiment, and each company will be organized as follows:

1	Captain,
1	1st Lieutenant,
1	2d Lieutenant,
1	1st Sergeant,
4	Sergeants,
8	Corporals,
2	Musicians,
1	Wagoner,
82	Privates.
101	Aggregate.

Each company will select a Captain, First Lieutenant and Second Lieutenant, subject to the approval of the Governor, by whom they will be commissioned, unless good reasons exist for refusing. The non-commissioned officers, until the company shall be embodied in a regiment, will be appointed by the Captain; afterwards by the Colonels, on the recommendation of the Captain.

Each regiment will be organized as follows:

1	Colonel,
1	Lieutenant Colonel,
1	Major,
1	Adjutant, (a Lieutenant),
1	Regimental Quarter Master, (a Lieutenant,)
1	Surgeon,
1	Assistant Surgeon,
1	Sergeant Major,
1	Regimental Quarter Master Sergeant,
1	Regimental Commissary Sergeant,
1	Hospital Steward,
2	Principal Musicians,
24	Musicians for Band.
1,010	company officers and enlisted men,
1,047	Aggregate.

The field officers of the regiment will be appointed by the Governor of the State.

The Adjutant and Regimental Quarter Master will be selected by the Colonel, and will have the rank of First Lieutenant. They may be assigned to companies at his pleasure. The non-commissioned staff will be selected by the Colonel from the non-commissioned officers and privates of the regiment, and the vacancies so created will be filled by appointment, as prescribed above.

Bands of music may be attached to regiments, but are not absolutely required for the service.

In order to facilitate the early completion of the regiments hereby ordered, the organization of a regiment will be alotted to each of the Congressional Districts, except the First, Second and Third, and the companies for said several regiments will rendezvous at the following places:

In the 4th	District at	Lawrenceburg,
In the 5th	do	Richmond,
In the 6th	do	Indianapolis,
In the 7th	do	Terre Haute,
In the 8th	do	Lafayette,
In the 9th	do	Laporte,
In the 10th	do	Fort Wayne,
In the 11th	do	Anderson,

Provided the necessary grounds, quarters, &c., at each of the places designated are furnished by the citizens without expense to the State.

If sufficient companies are not raised in each of the Congressional Districts named, to organize a regiment by the 20th day of August, companies from other parts of the State will be assigned to complete them.

Two regiments will be organized out of companies to be taken from the State at large, under the rules adopted by the Adjutant General.

Companies desiring to enter the service will report immediately to this office by filling a full company roll, and stating when they can be ready for duty. They will be accepted in the order they tender their services and file correct company rolls.

As soon as companies are full and awaiting orders, they will be notified of time and place of rendezvous.

Companies must not march to the rendezvous without direct orders from the Adjutant General.

Memorandum.

The officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, organized as above set forth, will, in all respects, be placed on the footing, as to pay and allowances, of similar corps of the regular army. Provided that their allowances for clothing shall be $3 50 per month.

Every volunteer, non-commissioned officer, private, musician and artificer, who enters the service of the United States under this plan, shall be paid at the rate of fifty cents for every twenty miles of travel from his home to the place of muster—the distance to be measured by the shortest usually traveled route—and when honorably discharged, an allowance at the same rate from the place of his discharge to his home, and in addition thereto the sum of one hundred dollars.

Any volunteer who may be received into the service of the United States under this plan, and who may be wounded, or otherwise disabled in the service, shall be entitled to the benefits which have been, or may be, conferred on persons in the regular service, and the legal heirs of such as die, or may be killed, in service, in addition to all arrears of pay and allowances, shall receive the sum of one hundred dollars.

The bands of the regiments of infantry will be paid as follows: one-fourth of each will receive the pay and allowances of sergeants of engineer soldiers; one-fourth those of corporals of engineer soldiers, and the remaining half those of engineer soldiers of the first class.

The wagoners and saddlers will receive the pay and allowance of corporals of Cavalry.

The regimental commissary sergeants will receive the pay and allowances of a regimental sergeant major; the company quarter master sergeant, the pay and allowances of a sergeant of Cavalry.

There will be allowed to each regiment one Chaplain, who will be appointed by the regimental commander, on the vote of the field officers and company commanders, on duty with the regiment at the time the appointment is made. The Chaplain thus appointed must be a regularly ordained minister of some Christian denomination, and will receive the pay and allowances of a Captain of Cavalry.

Promotion from the Ranks.

Two-thirds of the company officers of the regiments to be raised under this plan will be appointed at the commencement of the organization of each regiment, and the remaining one-third, when the regiment shall have its full compliment of men, will be appointed from the ranks, to be taken from among the sergeants on the recommendation of the Colonel of the regiment, approved by the General commanding the brigade.

After the completion of the organization of a regiment, one-half of all vacancies which may occur in the lowest grades of commissioned officers, by promotion or otherwise, will be appointed as above from the ranks.

Corporals will be taken from the privates; sergeants from corporals.

The first sergeant will be taken from the other sergeants of the company by the Captain.

The regimental non-commissioned staff will be appointed from the sergeants of the regiments by the Colonel.

It is intended that all the forces called for by this order, shall be in camp and ready to be mustered into service in twenty days from this date.

By order of the Commander in Chief,

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 18.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, INDIANA MILITIA, Indianapolis, August 12, 1861.

General Orders No. —, issued August 3, 1861, is modified as follows:

The regiment to be raised in the Tenth District will rendezvous at Fort Wayne instead of Kendallville.

The regiment to be raised in the Eleventh District will rendezvous at Anderson instead of Huntington.

There will be organized in the State one German, one Irish, and one Railroad Regiment, the companies desiring to be assigned to either of which will report to this office without delay.

By order of the Commander in Chief,

LAZ'S NOBLE,
Adj't. Gen. Ind. Vol. Mil.

Accordingly, camps of rendezvous were established in the several Congressional Districts of the State, and active measures inaugurated to encourage volunteering and expedite the formation of regiments.

Propositions were made in the meantime by our patriotic friends, the Germans and Irishmen of the State, for permission to raise regiments, to be composed exclusively of men of their own nationality. The propositions were accepted, and Colonel August Willich was selected by the Germans, and Colonel John C. Walker by the Irishmen, and to them respectively was committed the task of raising said regiments.

Regiments were ordered to rendezvous at camps.

Twenty-ninth Regiment.

Authority had previously been issued to Colonel John F. Miller to organize a regiment of the Indiana Legion in St. Joseph County, with a view (should the necessities of the times require it,) to turning over to the general service. Under these orders, however, Colonel Miller raised the regiment without delay for the three years' service. After being armed and equipped, it was ordered to report to General Sherman, at Louisville, Kentucky, on the 9th day of October, 1861, and marched thence southward into Tennessee.

Thirtieth Regiment.

This regiment enlisted in the Tenth Congressional District, was placed under command of Sion S. Bass, of Fort Wayne, as Colonel, and, on its completion, was ordered to report to General Sherman, in command at Louisville, Kentucky, on the 9th of October, 1861, and marched thence southward to Tennessee.

Thirty-first Regiment.

This regiment was soon organized in the Seventh Congressional District, under the auspices of Charles Cruft, who was appointed its Colonel. The regiment marched under orders, September 22, 1861, to Evansville, for its protection, and thence was ordered up Green river, in Kentucky, in the month of September, 1861.

Thirty-second Regiment—First German.

Under the vigorous labors of Colonel Willich was speedily raised. When the State of Kentucky was threatened with invasion by the forces under Buckner, this regiment was one of the first to march to Louisville, and thence to the interior. It has been ever since its organization among the most reliable regiments in the entire army; and in its several engagements with the enemy has added lustre to the reputation of the State, and won for itself unfading laurels.

Thirty-third Regiment.

This regiment was placed in the command of Judge John Coburn, of Indianapolis, as Colonel, and was hastened into Central Kentucky, to repel threatened invasion. They soon met the enemy at Camp Wild Cat, and behaved with distinguished gallantry. This regiment left the State on the 29th September, 1861.

Thirty-fourth Regiment.

On its completion was likewise ordered into Kentucky, on the 13th day of October, 1861, under command of Colonel Asbury Steele, of Blackford county. More troops were required on the Mississippi river, and this regiment was ordered and has remained there.

Thirty-fifth Regiment—First Irish.

This regiment, for some reason, somewhat delayed in its formation, by the apparent lack of enthusiasm, usually observed in the Irish character; sufficient numbers were enlisted, however, to organize nine companies, with which the regiment marched into Kentucky, December, 1861, under command of Colonel John C. Walker, of Laporte. The organization of a Second Irish Regiment, (the Sixty-first) having been started—before its completion—in compliance with orders received, it was consolidated with the First Irish by which the tenth company was added, and a number of unassigned recruits added.

Thirty-sixth Regiment.

Under the auspices of Wm. Grose, of Newcastle, this regiment was raised in the Fifth Congressional District, and organized without delay. He was appointed its Colonel, and the regiment marched into the interior of Kentucky on the 26th of October, 1861, and thence to Tennessee, where it has been on duty ever since.

Thirty-seventh Regiment.

George W. Hazzard, a Captain of Artillery in the regular army, from this State, was appointed Colonel of this regiment, and under his command, it was ordered into the interior of Kentucky and Tennessee, where it has ever since remained in service.

Thirty-eighth Regiment.

On the application of Colonel Benj. F. Scribner, of New Albany, special orders were granted him, dated August 20, 1861, to raise this regiment. His success was rapid, and upon the completion of the regiment he was appointed its Colonel. The regiment reported to General Sherman, at Louisville, Ky, on the —— day of October, 1861, and was ordered to Camp Nevin, on the line of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad.

Thirty-ninth Regiment.

Thomas J. Harrison, of Kokomo, and other gentlemen, tendered their services and were authorized, by special orders from the War Department, to raise a regiment of sharp-shooters. The regiment was soon raised, organized, and took the field under Thomas J. Harrison, as Colonel, and Fielder A. Jones, of Seymour, as Lieutenant-Colonel. It likewise went into Kentucky.

Fortieth Regiment.

This regiment, from the Tenth Congressional District, was somewhat tardy in raising its numbers. William C. Wilson, Major of the Tenth, (three months' service,) was appointed Colonel, and the regiment marched into Kentucky, December 31, 1861.

Forty-first Regiment—First Cavalry.

Forty-second Regiment.

Raised in the First and Second Congressional Districts, and rendezvoused at Camp Vanderburgh, by virtue of orders issued to James G. Jones, of Evansville, as Commandant. On the completion of the regiment, October 10, 1861, he was commissioned as Colonel, and the regiment entered the service in Kentucky, on Green river.

Forty-third Regiment.

Camp Vigo, Terre Haute, was made the rendezvous for this regiment, which was authorized to be raised in the Seventh Congressional District, by special orders issued to Hon. W. E. McLean, as Commandant. General George K. Steele, of Rockville, rendered efficient services in enlisting men for the regiment, and, on its completion, was commissioned as Colonel, and W. E. McLean was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel. The regiment was ordered on duty in Kentucky.

Forty-fourth Regiment.

The Tenth Congressional District furnished this regiment, under the auspices of Hugh B. Reed, Esq., of Fort Wayne, as Commandant, and who was, on the organization of the regiment, appointed its Colonel. Henderson, Kentucky, was the first point of destination of the regiment, whither it was ordered December 11, 1861.

Forty-fifth Regiment—Third Cavalry.

Forty-sixth Regiment.

Organized in the Ninth Congressional District, at Logansport, under special authority issued to Hon. Graham N. Fitch, who was appointed Colonel on its completion. Marched to Louisville, Kentucky, under orders, December 14, 1861.

Forty-seventh Regiment.

Regiment raised in the Eleventh Congressional District, and rendezvoused at Anderson, under special orders to James R. Slack, as commandant, who was afterward appointed Colonel, and under whose command the regiment marched to Louisville, Kentucky, December 13, 1861.

Forty-eighth Regiment.

The Tenth Congressional District has the credit for furnishing this regiment, under special orders issued to Erastus W. H. Ellis, as commandant, and Dr. Norman Eddy; the latter having been afterward appointed Colonel. The regiment was ordered to Cairo, and marched February —, 1862.

Forty-ninth Regiment.

The Second Congressional District furnished the greater part of this regiment, which was raised under special orders issued to John W. Ray, Esq., of Jeffersonville, as Commandant. On its completion, he was appointed its Colonel, and ordered to report to General Buell, at Louisville, whence the regiment was ordered to Bardstown, Kentucky, December 11, 1861.

Fiftieth Regiment.

Hon. C. L. Dunham, of Brownstown, proposed to raise this regiment in the Second and Third Congressional Districts, and was authorized to do so, and rendezvoused it at Seymour. On its completion he was appointed its Colonel, and reported, under orders, to General Buell, at Louisville, December 15, 1861.

Fifty-first Regiment.

This regiment was authorized under special orders issued to Abel D. Streight, Esq., and rendezvoused at Camp Morton. On its completion he was appointed its Colonel, and ordered to report at Louisville on the 16th of December, 1861.

Fifty-second Regiment.

Authority to raise this regiment, in the Fourth Congressional District, was issued to W. C. McReynolds, of Rushville, and several other gentlemen of the district. Failing to enlist the requisite number of men, to organize; by orders issued January 20, 1862, the Fifty-sixth, or Railroad Regiment, was consolidated with it, and the Fifty-second Railroad Regiment formed of the two combined. On the 7th of February, 1862, the regiment marched, with orders to report to the commanding officer, at Cairo.

Fifty-third Regiment.

A regiment was proposed to be raised in the Sixth District, for this number, but it proved unsuccessful; subsequently authority was conferred on Lieutenant-Colonel W. Q. Gresham, of the thirty-eighth Regiment, a resident of Corydon, to raise the regiment in that part of the State. Enlistments failing to reach the standard, and the Sixty-second Regiment, forming at Rockport, in Spencer county, being likewise below, the two were consolidated February 26, 1862, and organized as the Fifty-third regiment. After serving as guards to rebel prisoners at Camp Morton, the regiment was ordered to St. Louis, Missouri, March 13, 1862.

Fifty-fourth Regiment.

A regiment to be designated the Fifty-fourth, was authorized under orders issued in October, 1861, and the Rev. John L. Smith appointed to raise it—some miunderstanding having intervened, it was abandoned.

Fifty-fourth Regiment (three months volunteers.)
Fifty-fifth " " " "

These regiments were raised and organized under special orders to guard the rebel prisoners in Camp Morton, captured at Fort Donaldson. An emergency demanding their services in the interior of Kentucky, the largest part of them were ordered there in August, and remained until the expiration of their term of service.

Fifty-fifth Regiment—Second German.

The success of the First German Regiment induced our German friends to propose the organization of a second one, and it was agreed to accept it. Special orders were accordingly issued for its organization. Enlistments proving tardy, the rendezvous was changed to Evansville, and John L. Mansfield, of Madison, an experienced soldier, was selected to raise the regiment. The companies raised for it were subsequently consolidated with the Fifty-third Regiment.

Fifty-sixth Regiment—Railroad Regiment originally.

This regiment was authorized by special orders issued to James M. Smith, as Colonel, Silas M. Avery, as Lieutenant Colonel, and Frank M. Lord, as Major. Failing to enlist the requisite number of men, on the 20th day of January, 1862, a consolidation was effected with the Fifty-second Regiment, and the combination organized as the Fifty-second a Railroad Regiment.

Fifty-seventh Regiment.

This regiment was authorized on the application of Rev. John W. McMullen, and Rev. Frank A. Harden, in the Fifth Congressional and adjoining districts, rendezvoused at Richmond, and ordered thence to Camp Morton, December 5, 1861, where it was armed and equipped, and ordered to Louisville, Ky., December 19, 1861.

Fifty-eighth Regiment.

Dr. Andrew Lewis, of Princeton, received orders to raise this regiment in the First District, rendezvousing it at Princeton. Very little delay was experienced in its organization and the colonelcy was tendered to the Doctor, which he declined. On its completion, Captain H. M. Carr, of the Eleventh Regiment, was appointed as Colonel, and under his command the regiment marched, to report to General Buell, at Louisville, Ky., December, 13, 1861.

Fifty-ninth Regiment.

Special authority was granted to Jesse J. Alexander, of Gosport, who was an officer of acknowledged merit in the war with Mexico, to enlist this regiment, and rendezvous it at Gosport. In due time the requisite number of men were raised and the regiment organized, and by the officers and men designated as the "Noble Rifles." As soon as completed and equipped, it was ordered to ————, for service on the Mississippi river.

Sixtieth Regiment.

This regiment was raised under orders granted to Colonel Richard Owen, and rendezvoused at Evansville. During the progress of enlisting, the regiment was ordered to Camp Morton, February 22, 1862, to guard rebel prisoners, where they continued until ordered to Louisville, Ky., June 20, 1862.

Sixty-first Regiment—Second Irish.

Authority was issued to Barnard F. Mullen, to organize this regiment. After several months' delay the men were consolidated with the First Irish Regiment, and ordered to join it in May, 1861.

Sixty-second Regiment.

Wm. Jones, of Rockport, was authorized to enlist and organize this regiment in the First Congressional District, and rendezvous at Rockport. After languishing sometime, orders were issued consolidating it with the Fifty-third Regiment.

Sixty-third Regiment.

This regiment was tendered, and its camp of rendezvous established at Covington, in Fountain, December 31, 1861, under James McManomy, of Covington, as commandant, and John S. Williams, of Lafayette, as Adjutant. A rendezvous for recruits was established at Haubstadt, in Gibson county. A detachment of rebel prisoners having been quartered at Lafayette, the men at Covington were ordered on duty to guard them. Four companies only having been enlisted they were organized as the First Battalion, Sixty-third Regiment, April 21, 1862, and being equipped, were ordered to Washington City, May 26, 1862. Subsequently, six additional companies were organized under the call of July 7, 1862, and the regiment completed. Four companies having been assigned to duty here as provost guard, whilst six are on duty in Kentucky.

Sixty-fourth and Sixty-fifth Regiments.

These were intended to be organized as the First and Second Regiments of Artillery, on the completion of the requisite number of batteries. Orders from the War Department, however, prevented their organization, and announced that Artillery would be received only as independent batteries. Although nearly all other States have regimental organizations of Artillery, the privilege was refused to this. These organizations were deemed necessary for the efficiency and benefit of the batteries in the field; for the field officers would be required to visit the separate batteries, attend to their proper instruction and see that they were fully equipped and provided for.

Fritz Ameke, a distinguished German Artillery officer, was tendered the command of the Second Regiment Artillery, as Colonel and John C. H. Von Sehlen appointed his Adjutant. The Colonel labored diligently in organizing and drilling several batteries, and started with them to the field in Kentucky, but Gen. Buell, then in command, declined, for some unaccountable cause, to recognize such an officer from this State, notwithstanding regimental officers from other States were numerous in the army under him.

That a commanding officer of so important an army should decline to avail himself of the services and assistance of officers of acknowledged ability, particularly when they themselves have had little experience in extensive commands or important campaigns, very naturally attracted attention and excited comment.

TWELVE MONTHS' REGIMENTS RE-ORGANIZED.

The term of enlistment of the Twelfth and Sixteenth Regiments having expired, they were mustered out at Washington City, and returned home.

Application was made to the War Department, and orders obtained for their re-organization to serve during the war, with the pledge that if organized within thirty days, pay should be allowed without intermission to all who re-entered the service.

Enlistments were tardy, and even with great efforts sufficient numbers were not enrolled until after the call of July 7, 1862, to form the regiments.

Sixty-fifth Regiment.

This regiment, organized under General Orders, Nos. 49 and 57, at Princeton, in the First Congressional District, under charge of Dr. Andrew H. Lewis, commandant, was promptly enlisted, armed and equipped, and ordered into service at Henderson, Kentucky, on the —— day of August, 1862.

Sixty-sixth Regiment.

The Second Congressional District was designated to furnish this regiment, and Camp Noble, New Albany, established as the rendezvous, under command of Roger Martin, who was afterward appointed Lieutenant-Colonel of the regiment. The invasion of Kentucky by General Kirby Smith, rendered it necessary for this regiment, among others, to march to Kentucky on the 19th of August. At Richmond, Kentucky, the regiment was engaged and surrendered, August 30, 1862. Exchanged November 16. The regiment was re-equipped, re-armed and moved to Memphis, Tenn., in command of Colonel D. C. Anthony, November, 1862.

Sixty-seventh Regiment.

Frank Emerson, Esq., of Brownstown, in the Third Congressional District, was selected as commandant to enlist this regiment under the call of July 7, 1862. On the 19th of August, 1862, the regiment was ordered to Louisville, Kentucky, and marched into the interior for the defence of the State against the army of General Bragg. It was included in the surrender at Munfordsville on the 17th of September, and paroled. Being exchanged on the 16th of November, the regiment was immediately armed and equipped anew, and marched, under command of its Colonel, Frank Emerson, to Memphis, Tennessee.

Sixty-eighth Regiment.

The Fourth Congressional District promptly raised this regiment, which was rendezvoused at Greensburgh, under Benj. C. Shaw, as commandant, who was afterward appointed as Lieutenant Colonel. The command was given to Lieutenant Colonel Edward A. King, of the Nineteenth Regulars, as Colonel. This regiment was sent to Kentucky, surrendered at Mumfordsville; paroled and exchanged with the others, and marched to Memphis, Tennessee, on being re-armed and re-equipped.

Sixty-ninth Regiment.

Colonel William A. Bickle, of Richmond, as commandant, in the Fifth Congressional District, is entitled to the credit of having got up this regiment in a short time, and he was appointed its Colonel. The regiment was hurried to Richmond, Kentucky, where it was engaged with the enemy under Kirby Smith, and in part forced to surrender, paroled, brought home, exchanged, and again sent into service under command of Colonel Thomas W. Bennett, Colonel Bickle, in the meantime, having resigned.

Seventieth Regiment.

This regiment was quickly raised in the Sixth Congressional District, and was the first to march from the State, under the call of July 7, 1862, having received marching orders on the day of August. Ben. Harrison, Esq., was appointed Colonel, and under his command the regiment has been actively engaged in southern Kentucky.

Seventy-first Regiment.

The Seventh Congressional District furnished this regiment with promptness, under the auspices of Colonel R. W. Thompson, as commandant. The call for troops to go to the defense of Kentucky was responded to by this regiment, and, among others, was placed in command of Lieutenant Colonel M. D. Topping. At Richmond, Kentucky, they were engaged in the fight, and a part were captured and paroled. Both Lieutenant Colonel Topping and the Major were killed in the battle. Upon being exchanged, re-armed and re-equipped, the regiment was sent into Kentucky, and there had the misfortune to be surrounded at Milldraugh's Hill, and was forced to again surrender. They were paroled, and are now waiting exchange.

Seventy-second Regiment.

Captain Chris. Miller, of Lafayette, was appointed as commandant in the Eighth District, and soon had this regiment in camp. On its completion, Lieutenant Colonel Abram O. Miller, of the Tenth Regiment, was selected for Colonel, under whose command the regiment marched to Kentucky, on the —— day of August, 1862.

Seventy-third Regiment.

The Ninth District responded promptly in furnishing her quota, under the labors of Gilbert Hathaway, Esq., as commandant. On the completion of the regiment, he was commissioned Colonel. Orders to march to Kentucky were given August, 1862.

Seventy-fourth Regiment.

William W. Williams, Esq., of Warsaw, was appointed commandant in the Tenth District, and under his auspices the regiment was soon formed. Charles W. Chapman was commissioned Colonel, and the regiment marched to Kentucky, on the —— day of , 1862.

Seventy-fifth Regiment.

This regiment was enlisted in the Eleventh Congressional District, and ordered to rendezvous at Wabash, under John U. Pettit, as commandant. He was appointed Colonel, on its completion, and the regiment marched to Kentucky on the —— day of———, 1862.

Seventy-sixth Regiment.

On the 16th of July, 1862, a band of guerrillas, from Kentucky, crossed the Ohio river, at Newburgh, and captured and paroled about eighty convalescent soldiers in the hospital, stole a lot of the State's arms, and other property. Col. Gavin, of the Seventh Indiana Volunteers, and Col. Wilder, of the Seventeenth Indiana Volunteers, being at their home, in Greensburgh, proposed to raise several hundred men, to serve for thirty days, and endeavor to punish the depredators. Their proposition was accepted, and, within forty-eight hours, several companies were raised, mustered, armed, equipped and organized as the Seventy-sixth Regiment, and had started for Evansville, Indiana, and Henderson, Kentucky.

Seventy-seventh Regiment—Fourth Cavalry.

Seventy-eighth Regiment.

Six companies, sixty days volunteers, were tendered for service, against bands of guerrillas, with the Seventy-sixth regiment. They were accepted, armed, and equipped, and sent to Evansville, under Lieutenant Colonel William L. Farrow, of the Forty-third Regiment. A part of these forces were captured and paroled at Uniontown, Kentucky.

An excess of companies having tendered their services, in all the Congressional Districts, after the formation of the above named regiments, General Orders, No. 71 and No. 72, were issued, ordering an additional regiment in each District, and also a third in each, immediately on the completion of the Second Regiment. Appended will he found both the orders referred to.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 72.

STATE OF INDIANA,
Adjutant General's Office,
Indianapolis, Aug. 14, 1862.

Additional regiments will be organized in this State immediately, and rendezvous as follows:

By order of the Governor.

LAZ. NOBLE,
Adjt. Gen. Ind. Vol. Mil.

Under the first orders, regiments numbered Seventy-ninth and Eightieth inclusive, were completed without serious delay. Those authorized under the Order No. 71, were not successful.

For the Ninety-First Regiment, only seven companies were formed and a battalion was organized with those. The companies recruited for the Ninety-Second were merged into and consolidated with the Ninety-Third. All efforts to recruit for the Ninety-Fourth and Ninety-Fifth Regiments were unavailing. Three companies only could be enlisted for the Ninety-Sixth, and these were assigned to fill up the Ninety-Ninth Regiment. The Eighth District furnished but two companies for the Ninety-Eighth, and these were merged into the One Hundredth.

Rosters of the regiments completed, showing their organization, are appended hereto for more specific information.

Immediately after the capture of Fort Donaldson, on the 16th of February, 1862, about 4,300 of the prisoners were forwarded to Camp Morton to be confined until exchanged. They arrived in detachments on the 22d and 23d, and the barracks being inadequate to quarter them, about five hundred were ordered to Terre Haute, and seven hundred to Lafayette, to be quartered in large warehouses, while quarters were being prepared at Camp Morton. The duty of guarding those at Terre Haute was assigned to the officers and men of the Second Irish, Sixty-First Regiment, and of those at Lafayette to the recruits for the Sixty-Third Regiment.

For nearly six months the arduous and responsible duty of guarding so many rebel prisoners, devolved upon the authorities here and upon the officers and men assigned from time to time to that important duty.

To Colonel Richard Owen, of the Sixtieth Regiment, and Colo- D. G. Rose, of the Fifty-Fourth Regiment, for their devoted attention and watchfulness, this department acknowledges its gratitude.

CAVALRY.

Early in the progress of the war, offers were made of Cavalry companies, and, finally, early in the month of June, 1861, orders were received for the acceptance of two companies from this State for a regiment. The companies of Captain Robert R. Stewart, of Terre Haute, and Captain James R. Bracken, previously ordered to be formed for the State service, under the Six Regiment Bill, were organized for said regiment.

These companies were completed in July, 1861, and ordered to Western Virginia, officered as follows:

1st Company—Robert R. Stewart, Captain.
Levi Kirtley, 1st Lieutenant.
John W. Smith, 2d Lieutenant.

2d Company—James R. Bracken, Captain.
Hugh Delzell, 1st Lieutenant.
Ed. E. Bassett, 2d Lieutenant.

Both these companies were subsequently assigned to the First Cavalry, Twenty-Eighth Regiment Indiana Volunteers, and will be found included in the roster of said regiment.

Twenty-eighth Regiment—First Cavalry.

On the 10th of June, 1861, orders were issued for the organization of a regiment of Cavalry, in the counties bordering on the Ohio river, and camps of rendezvous were established at Evansville and Madison. Conrad Baker was appointed as its Colonel, and Scott Carter Lieutenant Colonel. Eight companies were completed at Evansville, and marched, under Colonel Baker, to St. Louis, on the 21st day of August, 1861. Six companies were completed and mustered at Madison, on the 22d day of August, 1861, and were ordered to Washington City, for service.

On the 22d of October, 1861, the six companies last named were assigned to the Third Cavalry, Forty-fifth Regiment, by general orders.

The companies of Captains Robert R. Stewart and James R. Bracken, were subsequently assigned to the First Cavalry.

Under the recent orders, requiring twelve companies to a regiment, two companies of drafted men have been assigned to fill up the regiment to the required standard.

Forty-First Regiment—Second Cavalry.

Under orders from the War Department, authority was conferred on John A. Bridgeland, of Richmond, to raise a complete regiment of Cavalry, to be mounted and equipped in the best style. In due time the companies were reported, mustered, and mounted. The regiment marched through, by land, to Louisville, Kentucky, on the 16th day of December, 1861, arriving on the 1st of January.

Forty-fifth Regiment—Third Cavalry.

The six companies of the First Cavalry having been detached from the other portions of the regiment, and four companies having been accepted and sent to Kentucky, in October, 1861, without assignment to any regiment. On the 22d October, 1861, by General Orders, the whole ten companies were organized into a regiment of the above designation.

Two companies have been formed recently, to raise the regiment up to the standard of twelve companies.

Seventy-Seventh Regiment—Fourth Cavalry.

This regiment was organized, under special authority, for service along the southern border of the State. On its completion, the aspect of affairs in Kentucky was so threatening that the regiment was divided, four companies being sent, under command of Major Platter, to Henderson, Kentucky, and the remainder to Louisville, from whence it was ordered into the interior, where it was joined by its Colonel, Isaac P. Gray.

Ninetieth Regiment—Fifth Cavalry.

The Fourth Cavalry having been diverted from the object for which it was originally intended, and the safety of our southern border requiring some measures for its defense, this regiment, on its completion, was ordered to take positions at points along the Ohio river, for the defense and protection of our own people.

Accordingly companies have been stationed as follows:

At Mt. Vernon,	2	Companies.	Near Cannelton,	2	Companies.
At Newburugh,	2	do	Near Mauckport,	2	do
At Rockport,	1	do	Near Rising Sun,	1	do

Two companies had previously been sent to Kentucky.

ARTILLERY.

The Artillery forces in the service, from this State, embrace twenty-five batteries, raised in different parts of the State, and one now in course of enlistment, at Lafayette, under orders issued to Captain Salem F. Fry.

W. W. Frybarger, Major of the First Battalion Indiana Artillery, has been detailed to instruct Artillery companies organizing, and has rendered very efficient service. The rosters will show the organization of the several batteries.

DRAFTED MEN.

I beg leave to submit the following statement to your Excellency, relative to the disposition made of the drafted men to fill this State's quota of troops.

The Commissioner General, J. P. Siddall, has submitted his report, showing the transactions of his department, in the enrollment of the militia, and the subsequent drafting of the men.

On the 6th day of October, the draft was made; and on the 15th the drafted men were ordered to report to camp. About 3,000 men were drafted in the State, of which about 2,700 reported to camp. As your Honor is aware, orders were promulgated allowing all who desired to volunteer for the old regiments, the privilege of doing so; and permission was given to recruiting officers to visit the camp for the purpose of recruiting. A majority of the drafted men availed themselves of this privilege. Four companies, agreeing among themselves to an organization, they were accepted; and one company was assigned to the eighty-third Regiment; one company to the fifty-seventh Regiment; and two companies to the first Cavalry, twenty-eighth Regiment. A very small number remained, and these were assigned to the ninety-ninth Regiment. The fifty-fourth Regiment, one year's service, was recruited almost entirely from the drafted men.

Some of the drafted men have not, as yet, been found, although orders have been kept in the hands of the Marshals for their arrest.

The rolls of the drafted men were placed in the hands of Colonel John S. Williams, commanding the sixty-third Regiment, and the drafted men assigned to his charge. In the process of examining and receiving substitutes, passing on applications for discharges, enlisting for the old regiments, and forming companies among themselves in camp, numerous errors very naturally occurred in the rolls. The officers in charge have not yet made their final report of the disposition of the men, and, therefore, it has been impossible to be more specific in this report.

If the reports are made before this goes to print, the facts will be specifically set forth and added.

The drafted men assigned to the several regiments, have been included in the numbers given as belonging to them.

As your Honor is aware, the clerical force in this office has been entirely inadequate to enable me to devote the time and attention necessary for the full and satisfactory discharge of all the duties of the department.

The foregoing report has been prepared in haste, and does not contain all the facts of interest, appertaining to the troops furnished by this State, as fully as I could wish.

I hope to be able, in a day or two, to submit to your Excellency my report of the organizations and condition of the Indiana Legion, under the State Militia Law, time to prepare which has not hitherto been at my command.

Trusting that our State Legislature may provide for additional clerical force for my office, at an early day,

I respectfully subscribe myself, your obd't servant,

LAZ. NOBLE,
Adj't Gen. Ind.

REGIMENTS.

DRAFT IN INDIANA,

UNDER THE CALL FOR

ADDITIONAL TROOPS,

DATED AUGUST 4, 1862.

GENERAL ORDERS.

General Orders No. 64	State of Indiana, Adjutant General's Office, Indianapolis, August 1, 1862.

In pursuance of orders received from the President of the United States, "Every able-bodied white male citizen, resident within the State of Indiana, over the age of eighteen years and under the age of forty-five years, will be enrolled in the militia."

All white male persons residing in the State, betwen the ages of eighteen and forty-five years are to be enrolled.

A Commissioner will be appointed in each county in the State, to canvass and enroll all persons within their respective limits, coming within the provisions of the law.

The Commissioners shall cause to be prepared copies of said enrollment, with the oaths thereon indorsed, which shall be certified as correct by him, and reported in person to the Adjutant General's Office; the original rolls to be filed in the County Auditor's Office.

The Commissioners will, at the same time, make a separate enrollment of all persons now in the service, or who may have been in the service of the United States as volunteers, from the several counties in the State, specifying the names and regiments.

The Commissioners appointed in the several counties, are authorized to appoint as deputies suitable persons in the several townships and wards of cities, to enroll the militia in said townships and wards, and make returns to him.

Commissioners and their deputies will be required to take an oath, before any officer authorized to administer oaths, to be indorsed on the orders of appointment, to support the Constitution and Government of the United States, and to faithfully and correctly enroll all persons for military duty within their districts, and make correct returns thereof.

Forms of oaths, forms for the appointment of deputies, and all other blank forms required, will be furnished to the Commissioners from this office.

All persons will be required, when applied to by the Commissioners or their deputies, to give the names of persons residing or boarding in their houses, or of whom they have knowledge, liable to enrollment. And every person shall, upon application, give his name, age, and occupation, without delay or equivocation, under penalty of being reported to the military authorities, and summarily dealt with.

Commissioners and deputies have full power, when they have reason to doubt the statements of individuals applied to, to administer oaths, and examine them under oath relative to their enrollment.

Any person refusing to take the required oath, or to answer after they have taken it, will be regarded as coming within the law, and returned as liable to do military duty.

The following persons are exempted from enrollment in the militia, by the laws of the United States:

The Vice President and Officers Executive and Judicial of the Government of the United States; Members of both houses of Congress, and their respective officers; custom house officers and their clerks, inspectors of exports, pilots and mariners employed in the sea-service of a citizen or merchant within the United States; postmasters, assistant postmasters and the clerks, post officers, post riders and stage drivers in the care and conveyance of the mail, and foremen employed on post roads; Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer, Attorney General, Superintendent of Public Instruction, State Librarian, Members of the Legislature, Judges of the Federal, Circuit and Common Pleas Courts and their Clerks, Auditors, Treasurers, Sheriffs, Recorders, and Commissioners of Counties, and Sheriff of the Supreme Court; all persons actually employed in constructing and operating telegraph lines used by the Government.

Where a person claims to be exempt by reason of physical disability which is not apparent, the certificate of a practicing physician of good standing must be furnished the Commissioner, describing the nature of the disability, and filed with the County Auditor.

Opposite the names of persons not able-bodied state briefly in the proper column the disability or disease.

Opposite the names of persons conscientiously opposed to bearing arms, write "Conscientiously Opposed to Bearing Arms."

Opposite names of persons exempt, state the reason of exemption.

By order of the Governor,

LAZ. NOBLE,
Adjutant General, Indiana.

General Orders, No. 73.

State of Indiana,
Adjutant General's Office,
Indianapolis, August 16, 1862.

The following General Orders, issued by the War Department, are printed for the information and guidance of Commissioners for drafting the militia:

General Orders, No. 99.

War Department,
Adjutant General's Office,
Washington, August 9, 1862.

Regulations for the Enrollment and Draft of Three Hundred Thousand Militia.

In pursuance of an Order by the President of the United States, bearing date August 4, 1862, whereby it is provided that a draft of three hundred thousand militia be immediately called into the service of the United States to serve for nine months, unless sooner discharged, and that the Secretary of War shall assign the quotas to the States, and establish regulations for the draft; also, that if any State shall not, by the 15th of August, furnish its quota of the additional three hundred thousand volunteers authorized by law, the deficiency of volunteers in that State shall also be made up by special draft from the militia, and that the Secretary of War shall establish regulations for this purpose—

IT IS ORDERED:

First. The Governors of the respective States will proceed forthwith to furnish their respective quotas of three hundred thousand militia called for by the Order of the President, dated the 4th day of August, 1862, which quotas have been furnished to the Governors, respectively, by communication from this Department, of this date, according to the regulations hereinafter set forth.

Second. The Governors of the several States are hereby requested forthwith to designate rendezvous for the drafted militia of said State, and to appoint commandants therefor, and to notify the Secretary of War of the locations of such rendezvous, and the names of the commandants. It is important that the rendezvous should be few in number, and located with a view to convenience of transportation.

Third. The Governors of the respective States will cause an enrollment to be made forthwith by the assessors of the several counties, or by any other officers to be appointed by such Governors, of all able-bodied male citizens, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, within the respective counties, giving the name, age, and occupation of each, together with remarks showing whether he is in the service of the United States, and in what capacity, and any other facts which may determine his exemption from military duty. All reasonable and proper expenses of such enrollment, and of the draft hereinafter provided, will be reimbursed by the United States, upon vouchers showing the detailed statement of service performed and expenses incurred, to be approved by such Governors.

Fourth. Where no provision is made by law in any State for carrying into effect the draft hereby ordered, or where such provisions are in any manner defective, such draft shall be conducted as follows:

1. Immediately upon completion of the enrollment, the lists of enrolled persons shall be filed in the offices of the sheriffs of the counties in which such enrolled persons reside.

2. The Governors of the several States shall appoint a Commissioner for each county of their respective States, whose duty it shall be to superintend the drafting, and hear and determine the excuses of persons claiming to be exempt from military duty. Such Commissioner shall receive a compensation of four dollars per diem, for each day he may be actually employed in the discharge of his duties as such commissioner.

The Enrolling Officer shall immediately, upon the filing of the enrollment lists, notify said Commissioner that said lists have been so filed, and the Commissioner shall thereupon give notice, by handbills posted in each township of his county, of the time and place at which claims of exemption will be received and determined by him, and shall fix the time to be specified in the order aforesaid within ten days of the filing of the enrollment at which the draft shall be made, and all persons claiming to be exempt from military duty, shall, before the day fixed for the draft, make proof of such exemption before said Commissioner, and if found sufficient his name shall be stricken from the list by a red line drawn through it, leaving it still legible.

The Commissioner shall in like manner strike from the list the names of all persons now in the military service of the United States, all telegraph operators and constructors actually engaged on the 5th day of August, 1862, all engineers of locomotives on railroads, all artificers and workmen employed in any public arsenal or armory, the Vice President of the United States, the officers judicial and executive, of the Government of the United States, the members of both houses of Congress and their respective officers, all custom house officers and their clerks, all post officers and stage drivers who are employed in the care and conveyance of the mail of the Post Office of the United States; all ferrymen who are employed at any ferry on the post road, all pilots, all mariners actually employed in the sea-service of any citizen or merchant within the United States; all engineers and pilots of registered or licensed steamboats and steamships, and all persons exempted by the laws of the respective States from military duty, on sufficient evidence, or on his personal knowledge, that said persons belong to any of the aforesaid classes, whether the exemption is claimed by them or not.

Exemption will not be made for disability, unless it be of such permanent character as to render the person unfit for service for a period of more than thirty days, to be certified by a surgeon appointed by the Governor, in each county, for that purpose.

5. At the time fixed as before provided by the Commissioner for making the draft, the sheriff of the county, or, in his absence, such person as the Commissioner may appoint, shall, in the presence of said Commissioner, publicly place in a wheel or box, of a like character to such as are used for drawing jurors, separate folded ballots, containing the names of all persons remaining on said enrollment lists not stricken off as before provided, and a proper person, appointed by the Commissioner, and blindfolded, shall thereupon draw from said box or wheel a number of ballots equal to the number of drafted men fixed by the Governor of such State as the proper quota of such county.

6. A printed or written notice of his enrollment and draft, and of the place of rendezvous of the drafted military force shall thereupon be served, by a person to be appointed by the Commissioner, upon each person so drafted, either by delivering the same in person, or by leaving it at his last known place of residence.

7. Any person so drafted may offer a substitute at the time of the rendezvous of the drafted militia force, and such substitute, if he shall be an able-bodied man, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, and shall consent in writing (with the consent of his parent or guardian, if a minor,) to subject himself to all the duties and obligations to which his principal would have been subject, had he personally served, shall be accepted in lieu of such principal.

8. The persons thus drafted shall assemble at the county seat of their respective counties, within five days after the time of drafting, whence transportation will be furnished them by the Governors of the several States to the place of rendezvous.

9. As soon as the draft has been made and the names marked on the enrollment lists, the Commissioner will send a copy of the draft to the commandant of the rendezvous, and another copy of the same to the Adjutant General of the State, who will immediately organize the drafted men into companies and regiments of Infantry, by assigning one hundred and one men to each company, and ten companies to each regiment, and send a copy of the organization to the commandant of the rendezvous.

10. At the expiration of the time allowed for the drafted men to reach the rendezvous, the commandant shall proceed to complete the organization of the companies and regiments by proclaiming the names of the regimental commissioned officers, which shall be designated in accordance with the laws of the respective States; the number and grade being the same as in the volunteer service, and in case the laws of any State shall provide for the election of officers, they shall be elected under the direction of the commandant of the rendezvous, and reported forthwith to the Governors of such States in order that they may be commissioned, and the non-commissioned officers may be appointed either before or after muster as the Colonel of the regiment shall decide.

11. As soon as the officers of the companies and regiments are designated, the muster roll shall be made out under the direction of the commandant of the rendezvous, and the troops inspected and mustered into the service of the United States by the mustering officer appointed for that purpose.

12. In States where enlistments have been made by municipalities and towns, instead of counties, the Governors of such States are authorized to apply the foregoing rules of draft to such municipalities and towns instead of counties.

Fifth. Provost Marshals will be appointed by the War Department in the several States, on the nomination of the Governors therof, with such assistants as may be necessary to enforce the attendance of all drafted persons who shall fail to attend at such place of rendezvous.

Sixth. In case any State shall not, by the 15th day of August, furnish its quota of the additional three hundred thousand volunteers called for by the President, on the 2d day of July, 1862, unless otherwise ordered, all incomplete regiments shall then be consolidated, under the directions of the Governors of the respective States, and an additional draft shall be made as before provided, sufficient to fill up such quota; the number to be drafted from each county of the State to be fixed by the Governor thereof.

Seventh. From and after the 15th day of August, no new regiments of volunteers will be organized, but the premium, bounty, and advanced pay will continue to be paid to those volunteering to go into the old regiments.

By order of the Secretary of War.

L. THOMAS,
Adjutant General.

Extract from General Orders, issued August 14, 1862, from the War Department.

2. Volunteers to fill up the new regiments now organizing will be received and paid the bounty and advanced pay until the 22d day of this month, and if not completed by that time will be consolidated and superfluous officers mustered out.

3. Volunteers to fill up the old regiments will be received and paid the bounty and the advanced pay until the 1st day of September.

"The draft for three hundred thousand militia, called for by the President will be made on Monday, the 4th day of September, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M., and 5 o'clock P. M., and continued from day to day, between the same hours, until completed."

Additional Special Orders Respecting Enrollment of the Militia in the State of Indiana.

In addition to former orders the following are issued for the guidance of Commissioners and Enrolling Officers:—

1. The Commissioner is instructed to have the township lists completed, in all respects, by Tuesday, the 26th day of August, instant, at which time the Commissioner and his deputies will meet at the Court House in their county and organize themselves into a Board, and will proceed to determine all claims and applications for exemption from military duty.

2. Notice of the time and place of the meeting of said Board, setting forth the object thereof, must be given immediately upon the receipt hereof, by handbills to be prepared under the direction of the Commissioner, and posted in at least three public places in each township.

3. A surgeon will be appointed in each county, to meet with the Board and carefully and impartially examine all persons who claim exemption on the ground of physical disability. The instruction contained in General Order, No. 64, respecting certificates of practicing physicians and requiring the same to be filed with the county Auditor, is superceded.

4. When a person is found by the Board to be justly entitled to exemption, a red line will be drawn through his name, so as to leave it legible on the list, and the cause of exemption will be noted in the column for remarks.

5. To enable the quota, which may be due from the county, to be correctly ascertained and apportioned among the several townships, it is important that the names of all volunteers furnished by the townships, respectively, and mustered into the army of the United States for any term of service, should be entered upon the "volunteer list." It is equally important that the name of every man who may be liable to draft, residing in the township, be enrolled on the other list. The Enrolling Officers will be particular to see that this is done.

6. Persons who have served in the army and who are now discharged, are not, for that reason, exempt from draft.

7. Should the Board be unable to hear and determine all the claims for exemption on the day fixed for their meeting, they will continue in session for a second day, and if absolutely necessary, for a third day. They are enjoined, however, to complete their investigation at the earliest moment possible.

8. As soon as the Board shall have noted all exemptions and completed the lists, the Commissioner will, without any delay, report in person and deliver the lists to the Adjutant General, who will determine the quota of drafted men required from each township, and will prepare instructions for the same.

It is expected that the Commissioners and their deputies will be active and prompt in completing the work entrusted to them. The failure af a single county will delay the whole.

By order of O. P. Morton,
Governor.

LAZ. NOBLE,
Adjutant General of Indiana.

ORDER RESPECTING VOLUNTEERS AND MILITIA.

War Department,
Washington City, D. C.,
August 14, 1861.

ORDERED:

1. That after the 15th of this month, bounty and advanced pay shall not be paid to volunteers for any new regiments, but only to volunteers for regiments now in the field, and volunteers to fill up new regiments now organizing, but not yet full.

2. Volunteers to fill up the new regiments now organizing will be received and paid the bounty and advanced pay until the 22d day of this month, and if not completed by that time, the incomplete regiments will be consolidated, and superfluous officers mustered out.

3. Volunteers to fill up the old regiments will be received and paid the bounty and advanced pay until the 1st day of September.

4. The draft for three hundred thousand militia, called for by the President, will be made on Wednesday, the 3d day of September, between the hours of 9 o'clock, A. M., and 5 o'clock, P. M., and continued from day to day, between the same hours, until completed.

5. If the old regiments should not be filled up by volunteers before the 1st day of September, a special draft will be ordered for the deficiency.

6. The exigencies of the service require that officers now in the field should remain with their commands, and no officer now in the field, in the regular or volunteer service, will, under any circumstances, be detailed to accept a new command.

By order of the PRESIDENT,

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

ADDITIONAL REGULATION FOR THE ENROLLMENT AND DRAFT OF MILITIA.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON CITY, D. C.,
August 14, 1862.

ORDERED:

Eighth. That in filling all requisitions for militia, the quotas of the several States will be apportioned, by the Governors, among the several counties, and (where practicable,) among the subdivisions of counties, so that allowance shall be made to such counties and subdivisions for all volunteers theretofore furnished by them and mustered into the service of the United States, and whose stipulated term of service shall not have expired.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 1.

STATE OF INDIANA,
GENERAL COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE,
Indianapolis, August 21, 1862.

1. The time for the completion of the enrollment lists by the Commissioners, and of the meeting of the Board to determine exemptions from draft, is hereby extended to the 1st day of September next.

2. The time for making the draft is postponed to the 15th of September, at which time it will be made as heretofore ordered.

3. Notices of the meeting of the Board must be given by the Commissioners in the manner previously ordered.

4. The Constitution of our State provides that "No person conscientiously opposed to bearing arms shall be compelled to do militia duty; but such persons shall pay an equivalent for exemption." In pursuance of this provision, all members in good standing of any religious denomination, who make opposition to bearing arms an article of faith, are exempt from militia duty, upon the payment of such sum as shall be hereafter fixed.

By order of O. P. MORTON,
Governor.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

J. J. HAYDEN,
Secretary.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 3.

STATE OF INDIANA,
GENERAL COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE,
Indianapolis, August 23, 1862.

As the Constitution provides that "No person conscientiously opposed to bearing arms shall be compelled to do militia duty," and further provides that "such persons shall pay an equivalent for exemption," the following regulations are adopted to carry out said provisions:

1. The Board to determine exemption shall treat such persons as exempt, and shall enter upon the enrollment list the cause of exemption.

2. In determining who are embraced within the provision referred to, the fact that a person is a member in good standing of any religious denomination, who make opposition to bearing arms an article of faith, may be regarded as prima facie evidence of being entitled to such exemption; but this is not to be conclusive, other evidence is admissible in such cases, as well as in those where persons are not members of such denominations. The Board is enjoined to look carefully into all such claims, and see that the exemption is not extended beyond what is contemplated by the Constitution.

3. At the time fixed for making the draft, ballots containing the names of all persons exempted by the Board under the provisions above cited, shall be placed in a separate box, and ballots shall be drawn therefrom in the manner provided in section 5, of General Orders No. 73. The name of residents of each township shall be placed in the box and drawn from separately as in other cases. The number or ratio to be drawn in each township will be furnished. The persons so drawn shall each pay to the marshal a sum to be hereafter fixed, as an equivalent for such exemption, and on failure to pay said sum, the marshal shall distrain and levy upon and sell the property and effects of such delinquent in the manner provided for sales upon executions at law, but without regard to appraisement or exemption laws.

By order of O. P. Morton,
Governor.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

General Orders, No. 4.

State of Indiana,
General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, August 28, 1862.

1. Every white male of foreign birth, of the age of twenty-one years and up to forty-five years, who shall have resided in the United States one year, and shall have resided in this State six months immediately previous to enrollment, and shall have declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States, conformably to the laws of the United States on the subject of naturalization, should be enrolled by the Commissioners.

2. All persons of foreign birth between the ages of twenty-one and forty-five years who have exercised the right of suffrage in this State, should be enrolled.

By order of O. P. Morton,
Governor.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

General Order, No. 5.

State of Indiana,
General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, September 4, 1862.

The Secretary of War directs that every minister who has pastoral charge of a church or congregation, shall be exempt from military service by draft.

Commissioners will, therefore, mark as exempt all who belong to the particular class of ministers specified above.

By order of O. P. MORTON,
Governor.

J. P. SIDDALL,
Commissioner.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 6.

GENERAL COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND,
September, 17, 1862.

The time for drafting was fixed, in a previous order, for the 15th instant. At the time that order was issued, it was not doubted that all necessary arrangements for the draft would be completed before the time mentioned. It is now ascertained that the time required for the Enrolling Commissioners of the several counties to perform their labors, were underestimated. The townships in the State number over one thousand, and the quota of each is to be assigned here, but nothing could be done toward making the necessary computations until returns from the Commissioners were all received. The returns are now all in, and the quotas of the several townships in each county will be forwarded to the Enrolling Commissioners of the several counties before the close the present week, if possible. Each township will thus be enabled to ascertain its deficiency, and if that is supplied by volunteers before the day fixed for the draft, then no draft will be made in that township; and if the deficiency is only partly supplied by volunteers, then the draft will only be made for the residue. The name, residence, and number of the regiment of each volunteer, should be promptly reported to the Enrolling Commissioner for his county, who is directed to keep a list of such volunteers, embracing all those who have enlisted from each township in his county, since his report to this office, and up to the day fixed for the draft.

According to the data furnished by the General Government, the number to be yet supplied by Indiana, to relieve her from a draft, is about six thousand.

This number, when distributed among the townships of the ninety-two counties in the State, may be readily raised by volunteers and the draft wholly avoided. Indiana has in the field and in camp over ninety thousand volunteers, and after having thus liberally and promptly responded to the calls made upon her by the General Government, it is confidently believed that no resort to a draft will be necessary to raise the small number yet required to fill the complement.

Let each township immediately devote a few days earnestly to the work of raising volunteers and the desired result will be attained. To facilitate such efforts, volunteers will be received for twelve months, instead of three years as heretofore. The draft will take place on the 6th of October next in every township in which any deficiency exists at that time.

Commissioners are enjoined to give prompt notice of this order, and also, of the quota, when furnished, in each township in their respective counties. The lists of volunteers, required to be kept by the Commissioners under this order, will be forwarded to this office when completed, so that the original enrollment lists returned here may be corrected, and thus be ready for use in case of any future call by the Government.

In addition to the six thousand volunteers required to avoid a draft, six thousand more volunteers for twelve months will be accepted from the State at large.

Passes to leave the State are no longer required, and none will hereafter be issued.

By order of the GOVERNOR.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

GENERAL COMMISSIONER'S REPORT.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 19, 1862.

The following table is based on the returns of the Enrolling Commissioners for this State. It is confined to Counties, the Townships numbering over one thousand being too numerous for general publication. The first column shows the total Militia enrolled—by deducting from it the third and fourth columns, we have the sixth column, which shows the number subject to draft. The second column contains the whole number of Volunteers from the State, whether in or out of the service; by deducting from this column those who have withdrawn from the army, we have the fifth column, which shows the number of those now in service, and also those who have died in the service.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

GENERAL ORDERS.

HEADQUARTERS GENERAL MUSTERING SERVICE,
Indianapolis, October 2, 1862.

GENERAL ORDERS,
No. 14.

Nine months' volunteers, offered immediately, will be substituted for drafted militia; if the quota be filled by the 6th instant, it will obviate the necessity of draft that day.

By order of

HENRY B. CARRINGTON,
Colonel 18th Infantry U. S. A..
Chief Mustering Officer.

GENERAL ORDERS,
No. 103.

STATE OF INDIANA,
ADJUTANT GENARAL'S OFFICE,
Indianapolis, October 6, 1862.

The Draft Commissioners of the several counties will, on arriving at camp, file a roll of the drafted men with the Commissioner General, and a copy with the commandant of the camp. They will remain in camp, take charge of the drafted men, and make requisitions on the quarter master for camp equipments, blankets, and subsistence for the men, without delay.

When substitutes are to be offered, they will be inspected, and when accepted, their names will be entered on the rolls opposite to those of the principals. When they have been mustered in, their principals will be released. Enlistment rolls for those offering as substitutes, will be furnished at headquarters by applying there, and substitutes can be sworn by any officer regularly mustered into the service. Great pains should be taken in executing the enlistment rolls. The township and county of the drafted man must be written under his name in the rolls.

There will be given to drafted men until the 22d instant to furnish substitutes.

Drafted men, relieved by substitutes, must pay their expenses until the substitution is fully perfected.

By order of the GOVERNOR.

LAZ. NOBLE,
Adjutant Generalof Indiana.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 96.

STATE OF INDIANA,
ADJTTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Indianapolis, October 7, 1862.

Owing to the diminished number of drafted men and volunteers for twelve months in the State, the orders heretofore issued establishing camps of rendezvous in the several Congressional Districts have been revoked.

All drafted men and volunteers for twelve months will rendezvous at Camp Sullivan, Indianapolis.

The time for the drafted men and volunteers aforesaid to rendezvous, has been extended till Wednesday, the 15th instant, at which time they will assemble at the county seats of their respective counties—the drafted men to report to the Commissioners, who will take control of them, provide for their transportation and accompany them to camp. Should any drafted men fail to report to the Commissioner at the time stated, they will be arrested by the Marshal forthwith and turned over to the Commissioner.

Should the companies not be supplied with railroad passes from this office, they will give certificates to conductors of railroads or captains of steamboats, and payment of transportation will be made on such certificate.

Volunteers will not be accepted for any period less than twelve months.

Drafted men will be permitted to volunteer in any of the old regiments in the field, to serve during their unexpired term, or in companies forming for the twelve months' service.

Substitutes for drafted men will be accepted at Camp Sullivan, and will be permitted to volunteer in the same manner as drafted men.

By order of the GOVERNOR.

LAZ. NOBLE,
Adjutant General of Indiana.

CONSCIENTIOUS EXEMPTS.

General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, October 10, 1862.

Oliver P. Morton, Governor of Indiana:

Some complaints have been made to this office by the class known as the "Conscientious Exempts," as to the manner in which it was ascertained who are to pay the required equivalent. As I have been unable to see the justness of the complaint, they have appealed to you. To aid you in determining the points involved, I deem it proper to state the mode adopted, and the reasons for its adoption.

Our State Constitution exempts this class of persons from military service, but provides that they shall pay an equivalent. The provision is as follows: "No person conscientiously opposed to bearing arms, shall be compelled to do militia duty; but such person shall pay an equivalent for exemption." If error has been committed in the mode adopted, it consists in not requiring every person so exempt to pay the equivalent, instead of forty per cent. of that number. It is contended, by a number of good lawyers, that the spirit and language of the Constitution requires that all persons claiming the benefit of this provision, should pay the sum fixed by the Secretary of War by virtue of an Act of Congress. I thought, however, the mode adopted more equitable, and within the spirit of the Constitution. The Constitution declares that "The militia shall consist of all able-bodied white male persons, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, except such as may be exempted by the laws of the United States or of this State." The same Constitution exempts the conscientious, they, therefore, form no part of the State militia, and were not counted as such in fixing the quota of any township. Their names can not be placed in the box among those subject to draft, because they are exempt by an express constitutional provision. Their exemption is not dependent on the payment of the equivalent, but is complete prior to such payment, leaving the equivalent to be collected subsequently.

If the payment had been made a condition precedent to the exemption, then their names would have been placed in the ballot box with others subject to draft; and on being drawn they would have been released only on payment of the sum fixed. But, as they were already exempt, this could not be done, and it was only left to mark them all as exempt on our books and provide for the payment of an equivalent.

In the absence of the constitutional provision, their names would have all been placed in the ballot box and drawn the same as others. As they were exempt, they were deducted from the militia of each township.

If the able-bodied men of a township, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, numbered twelve hundred, and four hundred of that number were conscientious exempts, the township was only charged with eight hundred militia, and its quota based on that number. If the whole twelve hundred were treated as militia, it would have to furnish four hundred and eighty soldiers, being forty per cent., but, as the four hundred conscientious exempts are deducted, the township only has to furnish three hundred and twenty men, being one hundred and sixty less than its proper proportion.

If the militia of the township, either by volunteers or draft, furnish the three hundred and twenty men, then the township has raised its quota and is released from further draft.

Is it to be claimed that this releases the township from making compensation for the remaining one hundred and sixty men? They are still due from it, and have not been furnished. They are conscientious exempts and can not be compelled to go; they are, therefore, required to pay an equivalent. It requires the three hundred and twenty drafted men or volunteers, and the payment of an equivalent by the one hundred and sixty conscientious exempts, to cover the whole proportion of the township, four hundred and eighty men.

It can not be claimed, therefore, that because a township has filled its quota of drafts or volunteers that it has performed its whole duty. The fighting men of the township have paid the charge against them and nothing more, leaving the equivalent for the four hundred conscientious able-bodied exempts wholly unpaid. For this reason two quotas were assigned to the township, one requiring three hundred and twenty men, being forty per cent. of of the militia to be furnished for the war, the other requiring one hundred and sixty men, being forty per cent. of the conscientious, to each pay an equivalent. The two united make four hundred and eighty men, or forty per cent. of the twelve hundred able-bodied men in the township. It is to be noticed that the three thousand one hundred and sixty-nine conscientious exempts are all able-bodied men between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, and would constitute a part of the militia of the State, and be subject to be called into service, were it not that they are exempt on the ground of conscience. If any one of them is not able-bodied, he would be excused from the service on the ground of physical disability, and would be placed in that list of exemptions, and have no equivalent to pay.

The conscientious exemption list is composed exclusively of those exempted on that ground alone. By the deduction of the whole number of such exempts from the total enrollment, the burden to be borne by the militia of the State would be increased unless that deduction was met by an equivalent. The general ratio of the State would be necessarily enlarged. The number raised by draft will probably fall one thousand below what was anticipated, on account of allowing credits to townships for volunteers sent previous to the enrollment, but whose names were not obtained and entered by the Commissioners. This deficit can be properly supplied by paying the two hundred dollars equivalents of the conscientious exempts to an equal number of volunteers. There are probably one thousand of such drafted exempts able to pay the equivalent. Thus the able-bodied man, who is exempt from military duty on conscientious grounds, furnishes the means by which another is induced to go, and the militia of the State is relieved of an unequal burden. As the conscientious exempt can not volunteer or induce others to volunteer—as he can not be drafted or aid any drafted man in procuring a substitute—as he can not contribute money to war purposes—as his conscience forbids him to render any active aid to any war, the Constitution requires some compensation for these exemptions. If the State is to be deprived of the active support of three thousand one hundred and sixty-nine able-bodied citizens in a great contest like this, some equivalent is required. The equivalent fixed by the War Department is two hundred dollars. In determining who shall pay this sum, the whole number of soldiers required from this State, in proportion to the whole nnmber of militia, was ascertained and found to be forty per cent. As the conscientious exempts have sent no volunteers to the war, they are not credited with any, and forty per cent. of them have been drafted and are required to pay two hundred dollars each. In case a township has furnished no volunteers, forty per cent. of the militia of that township is drafted. If volunteers have been furnished, the township is credited with them, and if the whole number has been provided there is no draft. If volunteers are furnished, they are of the militia, and are furnished by the militia. Conscientious exempts have not volunteered neither can they furnish volunteers. They have nothing to do with furnishing the military quota of a township; they are to furnish the equivalent to be paid by that township. By claiming exemption, they voluntarily place themselves out of the militia, and assume the payment of an equivalent.

We have, then, two classes recognized by the Constitution—the militia and the conscientious exempts. Each class has its own special duties to perform; the first to perform or furnish military duty; the latter to pay the equivalent. If one class performs its duty, that does not exonorate the other class. If the exempts pay their equivalents that does not release the militia from the performance of its duty, which is to raise whatever soldiers may be required; or, if the militia meets the demands of the General Government, that does not excuse the payment of compensation by exempts. Or, if the militia voluntarily contribute money to aid the Government, that does not release it from its peculiar duty of furnishing the necessary number of soldiers; or, if a conscientious exempt should contribute any thing to the war, that could not release him from his voluntary obligation to pay the equivalent. If either class does more than is required, the excess, above legal duty, must be credited to patriotism, and not claimed as an exemption from constitutional obligation.

I have tried to do justice to the three thousand one hundred and sixty-nine conscientious, without infringing on the rights of the two hundred and seventy-three thousand citizens of Indiana who are on the militia roll, and who are either in the service or liable at any time to be called on to perform military duty.

It is said that some exempts have sons in the army, if this be so, that does not affect the argument. The son is not conscientiously opposed to war, or he would not be in the army. He is a fighting man and belongs to the militia and is enrolled in it, and thus increases the number of its quota. His name is not on the conscientious list, and therefore he is not counted in assessing the quota of that class. He is simply discharging his own duty to the Government as one of the militia, and whether he has one relation or fifty relations, it makes no difference, their duties are not discharged by his enlistment. It has occurred that two, and even four persons have been drafted out of one family, yet the remaining members of that family are not relieved from militia duty. The Government regards every man able to do duty, as personally liable to do that duty, and he is not released from his obligation, because some relative has been called upon to perform his own part.

There are about one thousand two hundred and fifty drafted conscientious men in the State, who are required to pay two hundred dollars each, if able to pay it, if not able they are released from service without payment. Probably one thousand of those drafted are able to pay the sum required. I am confident I could procure the names of a larger number of those subject to draft, who have each voluntarily contributed more than two hundred dollars to war purposes, yet they are still liable to the draft. If any one thinks two hundred dollars is more than an equivalent for exemption, let him ascertain the present price of substitutes, and he will be satisfied on that point. If the Government would permit all persons to be exempted on the payment of two hundred dollars each, thousands would avail themselves of the privilege.

Having thus explained the mode adopted, and the reasons therefor, I submit the whole matter for your consideration.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

GENERAL ORDERS.

General Orders, No. 111.

State of Indiana,
Adjutant General's Office,
Indianapolis, October 28, 1862.

The time granted drafted men to enter the volunteer service will terminate on Friday evening next, and thereafter the privilege will not be granted.

Substitutes will be accepted for drafted men until the time above stated, where the service will be benefited by so doing.

Measures will be adopted for throwing the small squads of drafted men into detachments of about one hundred men each, in order to subsist them conveniently. Care must be taken to preserve the county and township of each man, so as to prevent confusion.

By order of the Governor.

LAZ. NOBLE,
Adjutant General of Indiana.

General Orders, No. 112.

State of Indiana,
Adjutant General's Office,
Indianapolis, October 31, 1862.

All recruiting officers authorized to recruit men for the one year's service, will cease recruiting after this date, and immediately transmit or bring to this office reports of their progress, and file rolls of all recruits enrolled by them, with dates and places of enrollment.

All persons who have volunteered under any of the recruiting officers above specified, will immediately assemble together, and report with them to the commanding officers at Camp Sullivan, for duty. Incomplete or fractional companies will be combined on the most advantageous terms for the interests of all parties concerned.

The drafted men and substitutes remaining in Camp Sullivan will be organized into companies, without any delay, on the following plan:

1 Captain,
1 First Lieutenant,
1 Second Lieutenant,
1 First Sergeant,
4 Sergeants,
8 Corporals,
2 Musicians,
1 Wagoner,
And 64 to 82 Privates.

The maximum preferred in all cases if attainable.

Companies may nominate suitable persons for Captains, who, if approved by the Governor, will be appointed and commissioned.

The right is reserved by the Governor to select and commission the First and Second Lieutenants of companies at his discretion.

As soon as companies can be formed, rolls will be made out, preserving the identity of the men by noting the township and county from which they were drafted, and a copy filed with the commanding officer and another with the Adjutant General.

By order of the GOVERNOR.

LAZ. NOBLE,
Adjutant General of Indiana.

THE

OR

INDIANA LEGION.

THE ACTIVE MILITIA,

OR

INDIANA LEGION.

Probably at no period in the world's history has a nation or people been found so little prepared for a war as were the people of the State of Indiana when the existing rebellion burst upon them. Her citizens, belonging almost exclusively to the agricultural class, had been devotedly engaged from the earliest settlement of the State, beginning with the close of the "War of 1812," in the peaceful pursuit of clearing away the forests, cutting roads, and in various ways developing the vast resources of her fertile soil. Thus for nearly fifty years had peace held her willing sway, until the conviction had almost escaped from the minds of men, that every able-bodied man in the nation was bound to do his country military service in times of threatened public danger. The first sounds of war broke the slumber which the people during these long years of peace had enjoyed. The awakening was none of the pleasantest, for with it came the conviction that they were not prepared for it. Old men still lived, retaining some recollection of the service and of the privations of camp life. They remembered them but as some long forgotten dream. Younger men, filled with patriotic ardor and vital force, flew to the camps, suddenly imbued with the military spirit, but scarcely conceiving a tithe of the difficulties to be surmounted, or of the obligations to be assumed. Accustomed habits and associations were to be forsaken, and new and vastly dissimilar ones were to be formed. Family ties, cherished friends and comfortable homes, were to be exchanged for the new companionship around the camp fires on the tented field.

The yet unwritten history of the part Indiana has taken in the contest for the supremacy of the Constitution, Laws and Order, will prove to the world and to the generations destined to succeed us, the patriotism and fidelity to our cherished national institutions which has actuated her citizens.

The lessons taught us in the past neglect of all military spirit and military discipline among the people, deserve our most earnest consideration. On the southern border we have along the entire line a neighboring State whose local and domestic institutions are, particularly in one respect, directly at variance with our own, and during the prevailing war, that border alone has been the only portion of the State threatened with strife or disturbed with fears, and while the strife continues, that entire section will suffer in the same way. For these reasons nearly all the efforts to create and foster a military organization under the militia laws of the State have been concentrated in that direction, while the other sections of the State, which were remote from danger, have been comparatively neglected.

At an early period after the enactment of the law for the organization of the Active Militia, or Indiana Legion, measures were adopted and put into operation, whereby they were placed in a condition to be available whenever their services should be required.

The first Division was ordered to consist of the four Brigades hereinafter enumerated, and with the brigades was organized and officered as set forth in the following pages:

Simultaneous with the organization of these companies of the Indiana Legion, calls were made by the President of the United States for volunteers to suppress the rebellion. The first steps thus taken seemed to rouse a martial spirit in the officers and men of the companies, and before the first rudiments of military discipline were acquired, some patriotic person would rally around him a majority of the company, who would volunteer for the more gallant and glorious purpose of crushing out the pending rebellion in the Southern States of the Union. In this manner company after company has been disorganized and broken up. In this way the Legion has proved invaluable as a nursery for military enthusiasm, which has carried hundreds of men into the volunteer service of the United States. Its benefits, in this respect alone, have been uncalculable and have well repaid the labors bestowed upon it.

Several times within the past eighteen months, our border along the Ohio river has been threatened with invasion, and, in one instance, a band of guerrillas crossed the river at Newburgh, in Warrick county, robbed our citizens, stole the State's arms, and plundered the Government Hospital stationed there. During these periods of danger the Legion has, at all times, answered promptly to all calls, and have shown a commendable willingness to meet any threatened danger. Scarcely a regiment along that extended border has escaped the necessity of sending at least a part of its force to some point for defense, whilst some companies have been called out repeatedly for short periods.

The First Regiment, whose headquarters were at Mount Vernon, in Posey county, has, at all times, been regarded as amply sufficient for any pressing emergency, and its officers are vigilent and attentive to the public safety.

The magnitude and importance of Evansville, the headquarters of the Second Regiment, rendered it necessary to make greater preparations for its defense than for any other point. Brigadier-General James E. Blythe and Colonel W. W. Hollingsworth, commanding the regiment, embracing all the forces in Vanderburgh county, have principally been charged with the management of all matters appertaining to its safety.

Colonel Bates, commanding the Third Regiment, at Newburgh, in Warrick county; Colonel J. W. Crooks, commanding the Fourth Regiment, at Rockport, in Spencer county; Colonel Charles Fornier, in command of the Fifth Regiment, in Perry county; Colonol Lewis Jordan, in command of the Sixth Regiment, in Harrison county have all proved themselves efficient and vigilent officers.

The Seventh Regiment, in Floyd county, as originally organized under the auspices of Colonel Benjamin F. Scribner, almost entirely volunteered under that gallant officer, in the organization of the Thirty-Eighth Regiment Indiana Volunteers. The regiment has never since been fully able to re-organize efficiently, though a sufficient number has always been ready to meet any emergency which has yet arisen.

The Eighth Regiment, in Clark and Scott counties, has suffered much in its organization, as well as all others, by the continual departure of its members to join the volunteer forces in process of organization.

The Ninth Regiment, in Jefferson county, under the command of Colonel Samuel P. Sering, has, at all times, shown promptness and efficiency when its services have been required.

The regiment in Jennings county (also numbered by error the Ninth) has at all times exhibited an excellent state of efficiency under its field officers who have promptly answered to any call for active service.

Brigadier-General J. L. Mansfield, commanding the Third Brigade, has rendered valuable service in times of threatened danger in his district.

In Switzerland county the Tenth Regiment has always shown a high degree of military efficiency and a willingness to respond to any call when they were needed for any emergency.

The Eleventh Regiment, in Ohio county, and the Twelfth Regiment, in Dearborn county, have, so far as organized, shown a very creditable state of efficiency when their services have been required. During the month of September last, when the region opposite, in Kentucky, was overrun and occupied by the rebel forces under General Kirby Smith, almost up to the south bank of the Ohio river, and fears were entertained that bands of guerrillas, or rebel cavalry, would cross the river for purposes of plunder and pillage, several companies of these regiments were ordered on duty, for a number of days, to guard the fordable places along the river. They performed the service with alacrity and diligence, and are entitled to the thanks of the authorities and the public.

For a more detailed and extended statement of the services rendered by the Legion, during the past eighteen months, reference is respectfully made to the able and interesting reports made by Major General John Love, and Brigadier Generals James E. Blythe, John L. Mansfield, and Alex. C. Downey, and the reports of the Colonels of the several regiments accompanying the same.

The threatening aspect of affairs in Kentucky, during the invasion of that State by the Confederate forces under General Bragg, in August and September last, rendered it necessary that measures should be adopted and hastily consummated for the public safety along the southern border of our State. Orders were issued to the officers commanding the Legion to hold their forces in readiness to respond to any calls that might be made upon them. Arms in considerable numbers were sent to important points, to be distributed, as the emergency required, among the citizens. At the same time the citizens of the counties bordering on the Ohio river were required to assemble at suitable places, daily, and organize into companies for military duty, under the orders of the regimental officers of the counties.

By these means a very fair state of military discipline and drill was introduced among the people of the southern sections of the State, putting them in a condition of efficiency for their own defense. For that purpose, the following orders and instructions were issued and carried out:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT OF INDIANA,
General Military Orders.

In order to be able to repel invasion and insure the public safety, it is hereby ordered:

1. That all able-bodied white male citizens, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, who reside in the counties bordering on the Ohio river, in this State, immediately upon receiving notice of this order, shall meet at their respective places of holding elections, in their respective townships, towns or wards, and form themselves into companies, for military duty, of not exceeding one hundred persons for each company. Each company will be organized by the election of one Captain, one First Lieutenant, and one Second Lieutenant; and the names of all the persons so elected, together with the names of all the members of the company, shall be reported, by proper roll, to the Colonel of the Indiana Legion, or, in his absence, to the next officer in rank, in said county, who will give written appointments to said officers. The usual non-commissioned officers will be appointed by the Captains. The members of said companies will immediately arm and equip themselves with such arms and equipments as they can procure, and will prepare themselves, by discipline and drill, for active service, with the least possible delay.

2. All places of business, except drug stores, telegraph and post offices, will be closed in the several cities and towns in said border counties at 3 o'clock, P. M., each day, and the members of the companies, organized as aforesaid, are required to meet together at that hour, and perfect themselves in military knowledge by drill, for not less than two hours daily.

3. Companies formed in townships, outside of cities and towns, are required to assemble on each Saturday, at 1 o'clock, P. M., armed and equipped as far as possible, and at such other times as the Colonel or commanding officer of the Legion in the county may direct, at the usual places of holding elections, and diligently engage in drill during the afternoon of said day.

4. The usual rules and regulations governing military companies will be observed and enforced in all companies which may be organized under the foregoing instructions.

5. All persons liable to do military duty, as above provided, will be held to a strict observance of these orders, and the Colonel, or other officer of the Legion who may be in command, in each of said border counties, is charged with their faithful execution.

6. All citizens who may be able to do military duty, over forty-five or under eighteen years of age, are earnestly requested to unite and act with the companies hereinbefore authorized.

7. The citizens of the other counties in the State, not bordering on the Ohio river, are requested to form companies, in the manner above provided, and meet regularly for drill.

8. All persons who belong, or who may hereafter belong, to organizations of the Indiana Legion, and who meet regularly for drill, will be exempted from these orders, but it is enjoined that increased energy and attention be given to their duties.

9. Should occasion require troops to be called out to repel invasion, or for other duty, the companies organized in each county will be under the command of the ranking officer of the Legion of the county, and at all other times they will be subject to his control, unless otherwise ordered by a superior officer.

10. These orders will be continued in force until suspended by this Department, of which public notice will be given.

Given at Indianapolis, this 5th day of September, A. D. 1862.

By the Governor and Commander-in-Chief,

OLIVER P. MORTON.

STATE OF INDIANA,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Indianapolis, September 19, 1862.

The second paragraph of General Military Orders, issued September 5, 1862, is modified so as to require that places of business be closed at 4 o'clock on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays of each week, and that companies meet at that hour, on those days, for drill. All persons will be governed accordingly.

By order of the GOVERNOR.

LAZ. NOBLE,
Adjutant General of Indiana.

GENERAL MILITARY ORDERS, No. 4.

STATE OF INDIANA,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Indianapolis, Oct. 23, 1862.

The exigency no longer requiring that the military companies heretofore organized in this State under General Military Orders issued September 5, 1862, should be continued, said orders are hereby suspended, and the companies so organized may be disbanded at the option of the members.

Companies desiring to continue their organization, may do so by complying with the laws of the State providing for the organization of the Indiana Legion.

Those having arms will immediately return them to the officers from whom they were received, or to the auditor of the county.

Officers who have distributed arms to all such companies, will attend to having them returned immediately.

By order of the GOVERNOR,

LAZ. NOBLE,
Adjutant General of Indiana.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE MILITIA FUND.

The law requires that the Treasurer of State shall distribute the fund for the militia among the counties having an active militia, in proportion to the number of active militia in each county, as shown by the Adjutant General.

At three different times, since the militia have been organized, to-wit: in November, 1861, April, 1862, and October, 1862, circulars were sent to all the regimental and company commanders, accompanied with blank forms, calling on them to report the strength of their respective commands, so that estimates could be made of the active militia in each county, and reported to the Treasurer of State, to enable him to make the distribution. To the first application, returns were received from less than fifty companies. To the second application, returns were received from less than seventy companies.

To the third, reports were received from but one hundred and seventeen companies. In view of the fact that three hundred and seventy-four companies had been formed in the State, and but about one-third of that number having reported, whilst several others known to be in existence had neglected to report, it was deemed improper to furnish a statement to the Treasurer which would insure an unjust and unfair distribution of the fund.

There were other questions connected with the subject deserving consideration. A number of companies, organized under the law in the early stage of the existing rebellion, had volunteered for the United States service, after having kept up their organizations some months, contracting debts and incurring expenses, which yet remain unsettled. The officers being in the service and the companies disbanded, no way can be devised under the law to distribute the companies' share of the fund, or to settle such debts or expenses. Many companies had, on occasions of danger, been ordered on duty for short periods, for which service they were entitled to pay, but for which the fund could not be applied. Now it is suggested that the question be submitted to the Legislature to decide whether the fund shall be distributed among the companies actually in a state of organization at a particular date to be named, or whether it shall include all companies organized for a time, allowing them their pro rata share for the time actually in a state of organization. It is, however, submitted for their consideration, and recommended that the law providing for the distribution be modified so as to allow the fund to be applied to pay the officers and men for any active service they may have performed, and to pay all expenses necessarily incurred in organizing, arming, and keeping up the companies. The bills to be first allowed by a proper committee appointed by the Legislature.

ENCAMPMENT OF INSTRUCTION.

For the purpose of producing uniformity in drill and discipline, and to infuse a higher degree of military spirit into the minds of the officers and men of the Legion, an Encampment of Instruction was ordered to be held near Indianapolis, and the necessary measures were adopted for its success. The following orders and instructions were promulgated for the assembling of such encampment:

General Military Order, No. 3.	Adjutant General's Office, Indiana Volunteer Militia, Indianapolis, Sept. 21, 1862.

A State Encampment of Instruction for the officers of the Indiana Legion, will be opened at Camp Morton, on Tuesday, the 30th instant, where a course of instruction will be adopted for the purpose of imparting a practical knowledge of military drill, guard-mounting, dress parade and camp and garrison discipline.

All Brigade and Regimental Officers, and at least two of the commissioned officers of each company organized, or to be hereafter organized under the militia laws, will assemble at Camp Morton, at the time stated, or as soon thereafter as convenient, and report for duty under this order.

The Camp of Instruction will be under the charge of Colonel H. B. Carrington, United States Mustering Officer, and General Superintendent of Recruiting for the State, who has kindly offered his services, with a suitable corps of assistants.

The officers will bring with them a suitable number of blankets for their comfort in camp. All other necessary equipments will be furnished them.

Their transportation, and other necessary expenses in coming to camp and returning home, will be reimbursed on the presentation of proper vouchers. Railroad passes will be furnished by applying by mail, or otherwise, at this office.

The company officers will bring with them, and file in this office, complete rolls of their respective commands. The companies will continue to meet regularly for drill, under the orders of the officers remaining at home.

As soon as the officers return from the encampment, those officers who remained at home will report for a course of instruction in like manner.

It is proposed that the officers shall spend at least two weeks in camp.

By order of the GOVERNOR,

LAZ. NOBLE,
Adjutant General of Indiana.

GENERAL MILITARY ORDER, No. 4.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, INDIANA LEGION, Indianapolis, Oct. 5, 1862.

The day ordered for assembling the officers of the Indiana Legion for military instruction, pursuant to General Order No. 3, dated September 21, 1862, has been postponed until the 16th day of the present month.

1. Barracks are in process of construction for the accommodation of the officers, and will be known as Burnside Barracks.

2. All brigade and regimental officers, and one of the commissioned company officers of each company organized, or to be hereafter organized, under the militia law, approved May 11, 1861, will assemble on the day named, and report for duty to Major-General Love.

3. Two commissioned company officers from each company organized under the militia law, may report for duty under this order, as also one company officer from each company organized under the general militia order of the Governor, dated September 5, 1862.

4. The officers will bring with them a suitable number of blankets for their comfort in camp. All other necessary equipments will be furnished them.

5. Their transportation, and other necessary expences in coming to camp and returning home, will be reimbursed on the presentation of proper vouchers. Railroad passes will be furnished by applying by mail, or otherwise, to this office.

6. The company officers will bring with them, and file in this office, complete rolls of their respective commands. The companies will continue to meet regularly for drill, under the orders of the officers remaining at home.

7. All officers ordered for duty, and such others as are embraced in this order, who desire to avail themselves of the proposed course of instruction, are required at the earliest moment to notify the Colonel of their regiment and military district, who will report the number to this office, which report must be made on or before the 14th inst.

As soon as the officers return from the encampment, those officers who remained at home will report for a course of instruction in like manner.

It is proposed that the officers shall spend at least two weeks in camp.

By order of the GOVERNOR.

LAZ. NOBLE,
Adjutant General of Indiana.

THE MILITIA LAW.

All who have been in any way connected with the Indiana Legion are aware that it has many defects, and fails to accomplish the objects for which it was intended, viz: an efficient military system. With our experience, it is to be hoped that modifications and improvements will be adopted, securing to us a good militia organization throughout the State.

The Constitution of the State provides that "the militia shall consist of able-bodied white male persons between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, except such as may be exempted by the laws of the United States, or of this State;" yet the law makes no provision whatever for the enrollment of the militia.

Without pretending to enter into the details of such modifications of the laws as the case seems to demand, a few suggestions will not be inappropriate, and the following are submitted as being worthy of consideration:

1. There should be an effective system for the enrollment of all the able-bodied men subject to do military duty under the Constitution, to be revised and corrected annually, with ample provision for military instruction and drill, at certain periods.

2. Provision for a specified force of active militia, of ten or fifteen thousand men, apportioned among the counties, according to population, in voluntarily organized companies, out of the enrolled militia. Companies to be kept up to the standard, in each county, by draft from the enrolled militia, if voluntary organizations fail. Members to be exempt from poll, road, and similar taxes, and allowed immunities to induce them to join.

3. Provision for such system as will make efficient officers, by introducing in our seminaries and schools military drill and instruction, as has been done through the South for a quarter of a century past.

4 Adequate laws for the safety, preservation, and repairs of the public arms and equipments, and to prevent their appropriation, sale, or use by individuals.

Respectfully submitted,

LAZ. NOBLE,
Adjutant General of Indiana.

OF

OF THE

STATE OF INDIANA.

2,000 COPIES ORDERED TO BE PRINTED.

JOSEPH J. BINGHAM, STATE PRINTER.

REPORT

OF THE

QUARTER-MASTER GENERAL.

To His Excellency, O. P. Morton,

Governor of Indiana:

Sir:—By appointment of your Excellency, I entered on the office of Quarter-Master General of the State of Indiana on the 29th of April, 1861, and now report the transactions of the Department to the present date.

The Department had been organized by my predecessor, Gen. Thomas A. Morris, a few weeks previous, but the urgent demand for experienced officers, and your Excellency's correct appreciation of Gen. Morris' military qualities, called him into the field before he had had time to make any important arrangements for the clothing and equipment of our troops, except to advertise for proposals for clothing, and some other supplies. The business was assumed by myself at the point where Gen. Morris left it, and carried forward without interruption. The entire transactions of the Department from the beginning, are embraced to this date in the present report, as one administration, except that Gen. Morris has rendered his own account of the moneys placed in his hands, and his disbursement of the same.

In common with most other of the loyal States, we incurred some inconvenience from the want of experience, when suddenly called upon by the emergency of a rebellion, to organize a Department of varied and extensive details, and of grave pecuniary responsibility. I venture to hope, however, that by carefully treasuring the results of experience as the transactions have progressed, and by constant and rigid scrutiny into the various branches of the business, together with steady adherence to economy in all respects, the State has suffered no serious loss from the disadvantages named.

One of the first wants it was necessary to supply was that of room for the storing of military goods, and for the manufacture of ammunition. To rent suitable premises was found to be difficult and expensive, especially for the latter purpose. To relieve this difficulty, a series of one-story buildings, inclosing a square of four hundred and thirty-four feet circumference, all of frame except one for moulding bullets, which is of brick, were erected in the month of June, 1861, on ground belonging to the State, north of the State House. In these buildings the business of the Ordnance Department was carried on comfortably and successfully, until the approach of cold weather, when it was found necessary to obtain other accommodations, the frame buildings not allowing the introduction of any heating facilities with safety. A building of suitable size and construction was fortunately obtained at a reasonable rent, to which all the business pertaining to ordnance was transferred, except moulding bullets and filling shells, which branches were capable of being carried on where first commenced. The small frame buildings have not been useless, but have served a valuable purpose for storing various kinds of materials. In the month of August, 1861, a frame building of one story, one hundred and ninety feet long and thirty feet wide, was erected for the general purposes of this Department, on ground adjoining the buildings already spoken of. A portion of this was set apart as the Armorer's Shop, and has thus relieved the State of heavy rent, securing to the Department at the same time, much better facilities for business than those pessessed before.

The cost of these structures, together with that of a brick powder magazine, erected beyond the city limits, will be found under the proper head, in the present report.

On the of , 1861, your Excellency issued your proclamation, calling upon the auditors of the several counties, to return to this Department all arms previously issued to them for the use of the militia. In addition to that call it was found necessary to send agents to several different parts of the State, to expedite that business.

The report of the Armorer, showing the quantity and kinds of arms so returned, is hereto appended, marked A.

The first six regiments (the numerical designation, for historical convenience, beginning with No. 6,) that were enlisted for three months, were clothed and equipped by this Department, as were also several of those afterward enlisted for the war; that is to say, up to No. 28, inclusive, which last is a cavalry regiment, and No. 45, also a cavalry regiment, together with the cavalry companies of Captains Bracken and Stewart, and also the artillery companies or batteries of Captains Frybarger, Rabb and Baer.

I submit herewith, marked B, an account of all purchases of clothing and blankets made by this Department, at the expense of the State, showing from whom purchased, at what prices, for what regiments or companies, and whether by public or private contract. The latter method of purchase, it will be seen, was sometimes resorted to, under the pressure of necessity for preparing troops for the field in the shortest time possible. But even in these cases, competition among the dealers and manufacturers has been invited, and the lowest offer, where the party was equally responsible, uniformly accepted. In my judgment, such purchases, though made under the pressure of exigencies, have been on terms as favorable for the interests of the State as those made by advertisement and public contract, while the time gained by the course adopted has often been of vital importance. So far as I have been able to examine, I believe our purchases will compare very favorably with those of any other State, on the score of cheapness and economy.

The account herewith submitted, marked C, shows the purchases of camp equipage, and other particulars belonging thereto.

In the month of August, 1861, the United States Quarter-Master General, in accordance with the desire of this department, and your own influence, established an Assistant United States Quarter-Master here, who, from that time, assumed the charge of clothing and equipping the remaining regiments to be raised by the State. This measure has saved the advance of large sums on the part of the State, and has secured the transaction of business in the mode prescribed by military authority. I have, at various times, turned over to that officer stores of various kinds, making such arrangements as secured to the contractors payment by him.

In the month of October, 1861, your Excellency issued a proclamation inviting the people to make and send to this Department contributions of clothing and blankets for the use of our troops in the field and in hospitals. This proclamation met with a most cordial response, and donations to the value of many thousand dollars were forwarded. The articles consisted, for the most part, of blankets, shirts, drawers, socks, and mittens, together with sheets, pillows, pads, bandages, lint, and dressing gowns for hospital use. So liberal were these contributions, that I deemed it necessary, in the latter part of the winter, to issue a circular to the effect that the supply was sufficient, except of mittens and socks. That deficiency, too, was so far supplied that all subsequent applications for the articles, with the exception of only two or three, were filled. The generesity of our citizens, in this regard, has added very greatly to the comfort of our troops in the field and camp, and very probably has saved many valuable lives.

The course pursued in the reception and distribution of this class of goods has been, that where boxes, bundles, or articles, were marked to a particular address, whether of an individual or a company, they were forwarded as so directed, unopened. When marked for distribution where most needed, at the discretion of the Quarter-Master, the packages were opened, the contents assorted, and distribution made as the wants of our soldiers could be ascertained. It is proper here to acknowledge our obligations to the three express companies, and to several railroad companies of the State, for free transportation to this point, of these donations, with the exception of charges in a few instances, by the more remote railroad companies. In forwarding these goods hence to their various destinations, I have generally sent them by express, and always at the expense of the State—the express companies taking them at less than the usual rates.

The receipts of donation goods have been as follows:

225 boxes specially marked.
101 bundles specially marked.
123 boxes for general distribution.
65 bundles for general distribution.
20 boxes hospital stores for general distribution.

The blankets and hospital goods remaining on hand, when the Sanitary Committee of the City of Indianapolis was formed, were turned over to that organization, for the use of the sick and wounded Indiana soldiers in the various hospitals. Of a small stock retained for exigencies in the military hospitals, here or elsewhere, there remain on hand:

150 pair woolen socks.
114 pair woolen drawers.
92 pair drill drawers.
100 woolen shirts.

The building known as the City Hospital has been occupied as a military hospital since the first rendezvousing of troops here, and is still used for that purpose, under the efficient superintendence of Doctors Kitchen and Jameson, hospital and camp surgeons. I leave to those gentlemen to report to you the results of their official labors.

It is understood that the Common Council of the City of Indianapolis grant the use of the building free; the expense of subsisting the sick, with the exception of the pay of the surgeons, has been defrayed by the General Government, since the location of an Assistant United States Quarter-Master here.

On assuming the charge of this Department, and subsequently, I received the following sums of money:

April 29.	Of T. A. Morris, late Quarter-Master General..	$1,662 03
April 29.	Of J. S. Harvey, Esq., Treasurer of State....	1,000 00
May 4.	Of O. P. Morton, Governor.....	6,000 00
May 4.	Of Hon. D. Kilgore, donation.....	100 00
		$8,762 03

I expended, per J. D. Irwin, Assistant in charge at Camp Morton, per vouchers Nos. 92 to 154	$1,197 29
Expended at office, per vouchers Nos. 132 to 164	7,562 87
Balance unexpended	1 87
		$8,762 00

The above mentioned vouchers are numbered consecutively after those paid by my predecessor, and have been filed with the Auditor of State, to be forwarded to Washington City for settlement.

A small fund has also been created by the sale of various articles of military goods to officers and others, by the sale of ammunition, by freights advanced for contractors—the bills being paid by the Auditor of State—and the amounts subsequently refunded by the shippers, and by donations from contractors, in view of prompt payment of their bills, or as discount thereon.

The following is a summary of the items of this account:

Sale of sundry articles	$560 58
Sale of ammunition	681 75
Freights refunded	563 08
Donations by contractors	1,239 00
Donation by J. H. Vajin, Quarter-Master General	150 00
William Wilson, refunded on settlement for advances previously made	220 00

REFUNDED OWNERS, FOR SAMPLE GOODS SOLD.

H. G. Hamlin, Cincinnati	$21 75
Peters & Benner, Newark, New Jersey	27 25
Moores & Co., Cincinnati	78 00
		126 50
		$3,287 91

In the absence of any funds advanced this Department by the State, for the payment of the smaller kind of bills constantly incurring, the fund in question has been a great convenience, and has been used many times over, saving annoyance to ourselves, and vexatious delay of payment to many other parties; the bills paid out of it having been, from time to time, presented to the Auditor of State, duly authenticated through the course prescribed by law, and the amounts repaid to this Department by the Treasurer of State. The above amount ($3,287 91,) which is now in the form of certified vouchers, will be paid into the State Treasury as soon as the condition of the Military Fund will allow of the vouchers being audited.

The following summary from the ledger shows the amounts that have been certified by this Department for payment up to the date of this report, arranged under proper heads according to the nature of the claim. Vouchers have, of course, been taken for every expenditure, for the smallest as well as the largest, and filed in the office of the Auditor of State. It would, doubtless, be desirable, on some accounts, for the present report to be accompanied with a full exhibit of all the items embraced in the summary here given. But such information, apart from its exceedingly voluminous character if readily accessible, could not be obtained without the labor of many weeks in making copies of the vouchers on file in the office of the Auditor of State. The propriety of preserving copies of every bill in the office was overlooked in the great pressure of business that crowded upon the Department at its first organization; yet, prior to the Military Auditing Committee entering upon their duties, in the month of July, 1861, no claim was paid without rigid scrutiny and proper attestation. After the date just mentioned, all claims underwent examination by that committee, and of their fidelity to the interests of the State I need not speak. For these reasons, I undertake to give items of two general accounts only, those of clothing and of camp equipage, already referred to as papers B and C.

My resignation of the office of Quarter-Master General of the State has been laid before you. In retiring from the duties of that position, I can not omit my grateful acknowledgments to your Excellency, for the aid your cordial co-operation and valuable council have furnished me. I have had occasion, as you know, to seek that aid often, and it has never been withheld.

Congratulating you upon the success that has thus far attended your administration, and in the earnest hope that a speedy return of peace may relieve you from the arduous and harrassing labors consequent upon the existence of an unnatural and treasonable rebellion,

I have the honor to remain, with much respect,

Your obedient servant,

J. H. VAJEN.

Quarter-Master General of Indiana.

JOHN C. NEW,

OF THE

STATE OF INDIANA.

2,000 COPIES ORDERED TO BE PRINTED.

INDIANAPOLIS:
JOSEPH J. BINGHAM, STATE PRINTER.

REPORT

OF THE

QUARTER-MASTER GENERAL.

To His Excellency, OLIVER P. MORTON,

Governor of the State of Indiana:

In compliance with the law, I submit the following report of my doings as Quarter-Master General of the State of Indiana, during the period I occupied that position, viz.: from May 30 to October 13, 1862.

As you are aware, during the time embraced within those dates, Captain Ekin, the United States Quarter-Master at Indianapolis, furnished all the clothing and camp equipage for the troops organized in the State, excepting a few articles of camp and garrison equipage deemed necessary for the comfort and convenience of the soldier, and which are not furnished by the Government, according to the "Army Regulations." And as, by your order, the custody and control of the arsenal, arms, and ordnance, being under the exclusive management of Captain H. Sturm, Acting Ordnance officer, the operations of the State Quarter-Master's Department were very limited.

The only contracts made by me in that capacity for articles of any character whatever, were for tin buckets, wash-pans, coffee boilers, cups, and fry pans, with D. Root & Co., of Indianapolis, and for coffee mills with J. H. Vajen, which contracts were made after proposals had been invited by notices published in newspapers of general circulation throughout the State, and in both instances at the lowest bids offered therefor, for proof of which reference is made to the notices given and bids offered, which are recorded in the books of the Department, and for that reason deemed unnecessary to be again copied into this report.

Owing to the fact that during most of the above period of time, tents could not be procured of the United States officers, nor they being authorized or willing to erect quarters for the troops called for by the President from this State, it became necessary to provide suitable necessary barracks for them, which was done under the direction of the commandants of the camps in the several Congressional Districts, where the troops were ordered to rendezvous. The bills made in the course of the work for materials and labor, it is hoped and believed will be paid by the United States officers.

In some few instances, where the troops called together were in a destitute condition for proper clothing, blankets, &c., and before they could be mustered into the service of the United States, for which reason they could not be furnished by the United States Quarter-Masters therewith; as also in the case of the troops of the "Legion," called out for the purpose of guarding prisoners of war at Camp Morton, by your order, I made requisition upon Captain Ekin for the needed goods, and delivered them to the regimental or company officers, taking their receipts therefor, which receipts are now on file in the Department.

The only money that came into my hands as Quarter-Master General was the sum of four thousand dollars, paid to me by General Vajen, my predecessor in office. Of which sum there was disbursed in the erection of barracks under your orders, for materials and labor, and for transportation and other expenses of the Department, the sum of nineteen hundred and eighty-two dollars and forty cents ($1,982 40), for all of which claims have been presented to and audited by the Military Auditing Committee, leaving a balance of two thousand and seventeen dollars and sixty cents ($2,017 60) in my hands, which I paid over to General A. Stone, my successor in office, for all of which claims and money I hereto attach his receipt.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

JOHN C. NEW.

QUARTER-MASTER GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT,
INDIANA VOLUNTEERS,
Indianapolis, Ind., November 19, 1862.

Received of John C. New, late Quarter-Master General, Indiana Volunteers, the following claims, which have been duly certified by the Military Auditing Committee for payment:

No. 3,370, in favor of John Clemm, for.....	$45 00
No. 2,970, in favor of James Greene, for.....	150 00
No. 3,466, in favor of Jnmes Greene, for.....	821 02
No. 3,335, in favor of John C. New, for.....	436 00
No. 3,373, in favor of John C. New, for.....	530 38
Total.....	$1,982 40

Which claims have been paid to the above-mentioned parties by John C. New, out of funds received by him from his predecessor in office, J. H. Vajen, but which are still claims against the State; and also received from the said John C. New the sum of two thousand and seventeen dollars and sixty cents ($2,017 60) in cash.

A. STONE,
Quarter-Master General of Indiana.

OF

J. P. SIDDALL,

DRAFT COMMISSIONER.

2,000 COPIES ORDERED TO BE PRINTED.

INDIANAPOLIS:
JOSEPH J. BINGHAM, STATE PRINTER.

REPORT

OF THE

DRAFT COMMISSIONER.

General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, December 26, 1862.

Oliver P. Morton,
Governor of Indiana:

I submit the following report as Draft Commissioner of this State:

On the 9th of August the following dispatch was received from the Secretary of War: "Your quota of the 300,000 militia is 21,250." And on the 10th, the following: "Your quota of the first call for volunteers would be the same." Thus the number required of Indiana, under the two calls, was 42,500. By the 20th of September, both of these calls had been filled by volunteers, except 6,060, for which number it became necessary to draft. In assigning the quota of each township, credit was allowed for all volunteers previously furnished. Under this arrangement 635 townships had furnished the number required of them, leaving the deficiency to be supplied by the remaining 334 townships. All the townships in the following counties had supplied their entire quota: Brown, Clay, Crawford, Daviess, Jennings, Lawrence, Newton, Parke, Perry, Scott, Spencer, Switzerland, Vermillion, Warren, and White.

The draft assignment extended to seventy-seven counties, but the deficiency in eighteen of them was supplied before the draft was made. The quota of each township was assigned on the 20th of September, and the privilege of supplying the deficit in each township extended up to the day of draft. Many townships availed themselves of this privilege, and the deficiency of 6,060 was reduced before the draft, by volunteers, to 3,003, which was the number drafted. The draft took place on the 6th of October, but, in order to allow the persons drafted the opportunity to vote at the fall election, they were not required to report themselves at their respective county seats until the day after the election. At the time fixed, the drafted men, with few exceptions, were on hand. Conceding the fact that a draft is obnoxious to the people of Indiana, this prompt submission is conclusive evidence of the strong and well fixed regard for law of the people of Indiana. The draft was attended with no disturbance, except in the county of Blackford, where a few lawless persons, by violence, prevented it taking place; but such measures were adopted that it took place in that county, without any attempt at interruption, on the third day afterward.

The enrollment of the militia was the first ever made in the State. It gives us the actual military strength, not only of the State, but of every county and township. It also shows the number of volunteers furnished by each township. The enrollment furnishes the following general results:

Total militia enrolled	209,216
Total volunteers	100,277
Total exempts from physical causes	32,869
Total exempts from conscientious opposition to bearing arms	3,169
Total volunteers in service	93,041
Total subject to draft	173,178

The total militia does not include volunteers in service, and to get the actual total of militia belonging to the State, we add the two together, making 302,257, and if we deduct from this the two classes of exempts, 36,038, we have 266,219 as the actual number belonging to the State, subject to military duty. Of this number 93,041 are already in the service, leaving 173,178 liable to draft.

I have prepared a table showing the result of the enrollment in each county, which is filed herewith and made a part of this report, and which, as a statistical table, I regard as valuable and interesting to every citizen of the State. The reports of the Enrolling Commissioners for each county I have caused to be properly arranged and bound, and they constitute a permanent and valuable addition to the statistics of our State.

It is proper that I should make a statement in regard to the conscientious exempts.

Section 6, of article 12, of our State Constitution, provides that "No person, conscientiously opposed to bearing arms, shall be compelled to do militia duty; but such person shall pay an equivalent for exemption, the amount to be prescribed by law." Our Legislature has omitted to prescribe any amount for the equivalent, or to enact any regulations for its collection. Section 1 of the Act of Congress of July 17, 1862, authorizes the Secretary of War, where there is no State law, or where the State law is deficient, to adopt such rules and regulations, in regard to calling out the militia, as he may deem best. By virtue of this Act, the Secretary of War fixed the equivalent for exemption at $200. Those who claimed the benefit of the constitutional provision, and established their claims before the Commissioners of their respective counties, numbered 3,169, as is shown by the reports of the Commissioners. Each Commissioner was "enjoined to look carefully into all such claims, and to see that the exemption was not extended beyond what was contemplated by the Constitution."

It having been thus established that they were "conscientiously opposed to bearing arms," they were exempt from the performance of militia duty, and were not subject to draft. But as this exemption is, by the Constitution, to be followed by the payment of an equivalent, and that equivalent having been fixed by the War Department at $200, I directed its collection. A portion of the religious society known as Orthodox Friends, objected to its collection on two grounds: First, that no equivalent should be required; Second, that if the equivalent were required, the mode adopted was not equitable. As I was unable to see the force of the objection, they appealed from my action in the premises to yourself, and to the War Department. In explanation of the course pursued by me toward this class, I drew up a statement of the mode adopted, and the reason for its adoption, which was submitted, with the written objections of the remonstrants, to yourself, and also to the War Department. That statement I herewith file, and make a part of this report. I have since had a consultation, at Washington, with the Assistant Adjutant General, who had the immediate charge of the draft, in relation to the enforcement of the collection of the equivalent. After a mature examination of the whole matter, he doubts the authority of the war power to enforce payment, deeming it a matter more appropriately belonging to State legislation. This conclusion of the War Department, and the absence of State legislation, make it impossible for me to act further in the premises. I had previously received, by voluntary payments, about $21,000, on equivalents, from members of the religious society known as Dunkers.

When I accepted the office of General Commissioner, the whole subject of the draft was new to me, as it was to all who have been connected with it. To make it operate equitably, and to avoid all injustice to any one, has been my constant aim. The task has been one of much labor and difficulty, but it has been discharged to the best of my ability. The officers connected with the draft, in the different counties, have generally performed their duties faithfully and well. Where any errors were committed and reported to me, either by the Commissioner or the injured party, they were promptly rectified. If any cause of complaint exists on the part of any one, where the power to remove the cause was vested in me, I have no knowledge of the fact.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

DOCUMENTS

THE DRAFT.

GENERAL ORDERS.

General Order, No. 1.

State of Indiana,
General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, August 21, 1862.

1. The time for the completion of the enrollment lists by the Commissioners, and of the meeting of the Board to determine exemptions from draft, is hereby extended to the 1st day of September next.

2. The time for making the draft is postponed to the 15th of September, at which time it will be made as heretofore ordered.

3. Notices of the meeting of the Board must be given by the Commissioners in the manner previously ordered.

4. The Constitution of our State provides that "no person conscientiously opposed to bearing arms shall be compelled to do militia duty; but such person shall pay an equivalent for exemption." In pursuance of this provision, all members in good standing, of any religious denomination, who make opposition to bearing arms an article of faith, are exempt from militia duty, upon the payment of such sum as shall be hereafter fixed.

By order of O. P. Morton,
Governor.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

J. J. Hayden,
Secretary.

General Order, No. 3.

State of Indiana,
General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, August 23, 1862.

As the Constitution provides that "no person conscientiously opposed to bearing arms shall be compelled to do militia duty," and further provides that "such person shall pay an equivalent for exemption," the following regulations are adopted to carry out said provisions:

1. The Board to determine exemption shall treat such persons as exempt, and shall enter upon the enrollment list the cause of exemption.

2. In determining who are embraced within the provision referred to, the fact that a person is a member, in good standing, of any religious denomination who make opposition to bearing arms an article of faith, may be regarded as prima facie evidence of being entitled to such exemption, but this is not to be conclusive; other evidence is admissible in such cases, as well as in those where persons are not members of such denominations. The Board is enjoined to look carefully into all such claims, and see that the exemption is not extended beyond what is contemplated by the Constitution.

3. At the time fixed for making the draft, ballots containing the names of all persons exempted by the Board, under the provisions above cited, shall be placed in a separate box, and ballots shall be drawn therefrom in the manner provided in section 5, of General Orders, No. 73. The names of residents of each township shall be placed in the box and drawn from separately, as in other cases. The number or ratio to be drawn in each township will be furnished. The persons so drawn shall each pay to the Marshal a sum to be hereafter fixed, as an equivalent for such exemption, and on failure to pay said sum, the Marshal shall distrain and levy upon and sell the property and effects of such delinquent, in the manner provided for sales upon executions at law, but without regard to appraisement or exemption laws.

By order of O. P. Morton,
Governor.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

State of Indiana,
General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, August 26, 1862.

To secure throughout the State some uniformity in the inspection of drafted men, who apply for certificates of exemption, it will be understood that while much is left, necessarily, to the good judgment of the Examining Surgeon, slight defects, which might be sufficient for the rejection of recruits for a long period of time, shall not exempt from draft. Able-bodied, effective men, such as would honestly be accepted as volunteers, after a careful inspection, shall not be exempt on account of immaterial defects.

As hints of what shall not exempt, the following are given:

1. Loss or imperfect vision of left eye.
2. Partial loss of front teeth.
3. Slight or infrequent attacks of hemorrhoids.
4. Slight deformities of limbs, with unimpaired motion.
5. Loss of last joint of one or two fingers of left hand, or of one finger of the right hand, other than the forefinger.
6 Slight varicose veins, below the knee, or slight varicocele.

The following are causes for exemption:

1. Loss or imperfect vision of right eye.
2. Loss of all the front teeth, and enough of the molars to render mastication imperfect.
3. Large or frequent attacks of hemorrhoids, or chronic diarrhea.
4. Deformities which impair free motion of limbs.
5. Loss of more than one finger of right, or more than two fingers of left hand.
6. Large varicose veins above the knee.
6. Large or irreducible hernia. Cases of reducible hernia are left to the sound discretion of the Surgeon, under the general principles herein stated.
8. All organic or functional diseases causing marked debility—heart diseases, epilepsy, or organic disease of lungs—will be causes of exemption.

It is believed that general principles of the above character should be the guides for Examining Surgeons, the aim being to secure effective men, and, at the same time, not to excuse those fitted for the service, on trivial or insufficient grounds.

By order of the Governor.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

General Order, No. 4.

State of Indiana,
General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, August 28, 1862.

1. Every white male, of foreign birth, of the age of twenty-one years and up to forty-five years, who shall have resided in the United States one year, and shall have resided in this State six months immediately previous to enrollment, and shall have declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States, conformably to the laws of the United States on the subject of naturalization, should be enrolled by the Commissioners.

2. All persons of foreign birth, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, who have exercised the right of suffrage in this State, should be enrolled.

By order of O. P. Morton,
Governor.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

General Order, No. 6.

State of Indiana,
General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, September 17, 1862.

The time for drafting was fixed, in a previous order, for the 15th instant. At the time that order was issued, it was not doubted that all necessary arrangements for the draft would be completed before the time mentioned. It is now ascertained that the time required for the Enrolling Commissioners of the several counties to perform their labors, was under-estimated. The townships in the State number over one thousand, and the quota of each is to be assigned here, but nothing could be done toward making the necessary computations until returns from the Commissioners were all received. The returns are now all in, and the quotas of the several townships in each county will be forwarded to the Enrolling Commissioners of the several counties before the close of the present week, if possible. Each township will thus be enabled to ascertain its deficiency, and if that is supplied by volunteers before the day fixed for the draft, then no draft will be made in that township; and if the deficiency is only partly supplied by volunteers, then the draft will only be made for the residue. The name, residence, and number of the regiment of each volunteer, should be promptly reported to the Enrolling Commissioner for his county, who is directed to keep a list of such volunteers, embracing all those who have enlisted from each township in his county, since his report to this office, and up to the day fixed for the draft.

According to data furnished by the General Government, the number to be yet supplied by Indiana, to relieve her from a draft, is about six thousand.

This number, when distributed among the townships of the ninety-two counties in the State, may be readily raised by volunteers, and the draft wholly avoided. Indiana has in the field and in camp over ninety thousand volunteers, and after having thus liberally and promptly responded to the calls made upon her by the General Government, it is confidently believed that no resort to a draft will be necessary to raise the small number yet required to fill the complement.

Let each township immediately devote a few days earnestly to the work of raising volunteers, and the desired result will be attained. To facilitate such efforts, volunteers will be received for twelve months, instead of three years as heretofore. The draft will take place on the 6th of October next, in every township in which any deficiency exists at that time.

Commissioners are enjoined to give prompt notice of this order, and also of the quota, when furnished, in each township in their respective counties. The lists of volunteers required to be kept by the Commissioners under this order, will be forwarded to this office when completed, so that the original enrollment lists returned here may be corrected, and thus be ready for use in case of any future call by the Government.

In addition to the six thousand volunteers required to avoid a draft, six thousand more volunteers, for twelve months, will be accepted from the State at large.

Passes to leave the State are no longer required, and none will hereafter be issued.

By order of the Governor.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

THE MILITIA OF INDIANA.

General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, September 19, 1862.

The following table is based on the returns of the Enrolling Commissioners for this State. It is confined to counties, the townships numbering over one thousand, being too numerous for general publication. The first column shows the total militia enrolled—by deducting from it the third and fourth columns, we have the sixth column, which shows the number subject to draft. The second column contains the whole number of volunteers from the State, whether in or out of the service; by deducting from this column those who have withdrawn from the army we have the fifth column, which shows the number of those now in the service, and also those who have died in the service.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

DRAFT ASSIGNMENT

TO THE

VARIOUS TOWNSHIPS OF THE STATE.

State of Indiana,
General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, September 20, 1862.

The following table shows the number to be drafted in three hundred and thirty-four townships in the State. Six hundred and thirty-five townships have furnished their full quota; these are not named in the table.

The following fifteen counties have supplied their entire quota: Brown, Clay, Crawford, Daviess, Jennings, Lawrence, Newton, Parke, Perry, Scott, Spencer, Switzerland, Vermillion, Warren, and White.

INSTRUCTIONS TO MARSHALS.

State of Indiana,
General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, October 9, 1862.

To the Marshal of ———— County:

In the order in regard to collecting the $200 of the conscientious, no time is fixed for collection. I do not now fix any time, leaving it to your reasonable discretion. While it is desirable to have the money as soon as convenient, it is not designed to oppress or distress any one. When a man is not able to pay the amount, or if the payment would strip him of his household goods, or necessary tools in his trade, or those things necessary for his support, the collection is not enjoined. The former order is modified to this extent. The word "exemption" should be omitted, so as to allow every person to hold the amount allowed by our exemption laws. If a person has not more property than is exempt by law, you will simply return his name as being unable to pay.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

CONSCIENTIOUS EXEMPTS.

General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, October 10, 1862.

Oliver P. Morton,
Governor of Indiana:

Some complaints have been made to this office by the class known as the "Conscientious Exempts," as to the manner in which it was ascertained who are to pay the required equivalent. As I have been unable to see the justness of the complaint, they have appealed to you. To aid you in determining the points involved, I deem it proper to state the mode adopted, and the reasons for its adoption.

Our State Constitution exempts this class of persons from military service, but provides that they shall pay an equivalent. The provision is as follows: "No person conscientiously opposed to bearing arms, shall be compelled to do militia duty; but such person shall pay an equivalent for exemption." If error has been committed in the mode adopted, it consists in not requiring every person so exempt to pay the equivalent, instead of forty per cent. of that number. It is contended, by a number of good lawyers, that the spirit and language of the Constitution requires that all persons claiming the benefit of this provision, should pay the sum fixed by the Secretary of War by virtue of an Act of Congress. I thought, however, the mode adopted more equitable, and within the spirit of the Constitution. The Constitution declares that "The militia shall consist of all able-bodied white male persons, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, except such as may be exempted by the laws of the United States or of this State." The same Constitution exempts the conscientious, they, therefore, form no part of the State militia, and were not counted as such in fixing the quota of any township. Their names can not be placed in the box among those subject to draft, because they are exempt by an express constitutional provision. Their exemption is not dependent on payment of the equivalent, but is complete prior to such payment, leaving the equivalent to be collected subsequently.

If the payment had been made a condition precedent to the exemption, then their names would have been placed in the ballot box with others subject to draft; and on being drawn they would have been released only on payment of the sum fixed. But, as they were already exempt, this could not be done, and it was only left to mark them all as exempt on our books and provide for the payment of an equivalent.

In the absence of the constitutional provision, their names would have been all placed in the ballot box and drawn the same as others. As they were exempt, they were deducted from the militia of each township.

If the able-bodied men of a township, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, numbered twelve hundred, and four hundred of that number were conscientious exempts, the township was only charged with eight hundred militia, and its quota based on that number. If the whole twelve hundred were treated as militia, it would have to furnish four hundred and eighty soldiers, being forty per cent., but, as the four hundred conscientious exempts are deducted, the township only has to furnish three hundred and twenty men, being one hundred and sixty less than its proper proportion.

If the militia of the township, either by volunteers or draft, furnish the three hundred and twenty men, then the township has raised its quota and is released from further draft.

Is it to be claimed that this releases the township from making compensation for the remaining one hundred and sixty men? They are still due from it, and have not been furnished. They are conscientious exempts and can not be compelled to go; they are, therefore, required to pay an equivalent. It requires the three hundred and twenty drafted men or volunteers, and the payment of an equivalent by the one hundred and sixty conscientious exempts, to cover the whole proportion of the township, four hundred and eighty men.

It can not be claimed, therefore, that because a township has filled its quota of drafts or volunteers that it has performed its whole duty. The fighting men of the township have paid the charge against them and nothing more, leaving the equivalent for the four hundred conscientious able-bodied exempts wholly unpaid. For this reason two quotas were assigned to the township, one requiring three hundred and twenty men, being forty per cent. of of the militia to be furnished for the war, the other requiring one hundred and sixty men, being forty per cent. of the conscientious, to each pay an equivalent. The two united make four hundred and eighty men, or forty per cent. of the twelve hundred able-bodied men in the township. It is to be noticed that the three thousand one hundred and sixty-nine conscientious exempts are all able-bodied men between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, and would constitute a part of the militia of the State, and be subject to be called into service, were it not that they are exempt on the ground of conscience. If any one of them is not able-bodied, he would be excused from the service on the ground of physical disability, and would be placed in that list of exemptions, and have no equivalent to pay.

The conscientious exemption list is composed exclusively of those exempted on that ground alone. By the deduction of the whole number of such exempts from the total enrollment, the burden to be borne by the militia of the State would be increased unless that deduction was met by an equivalent. The general ratio of the State would be necessarily enlarged. The number raised by draft will probably fall one thousand below what was anticipated, on account of allowing credits to townships for volunteers sent previous to the enrollment, but whose names were not obtained and entered by the Commissioners. This deficit can be properly supplied by paying the two hundred dollars equivalents of the conscientious exempts to an equal number of volunteers. There are probably one thousand of such drafted exempts able to pay the equivalent. Thus the able-bodied man, who is exempt from military duty on conscientious grounds, furnishes the means by which another is induced to go, and the militia of the State is relieved from an unequal burden. As the conscientious exempt can not volunteer, or induce others to volunteer—as he can not be drafted or aid any drafted man in procuring a substitute—as he can not contribute money to war purposes—as his conscience forbids him to render any active aid to any war—the Constitution requires some compensation for these exemptions. If the State is to be deprived of the active support of three thousand one hundred and sixty-nine able-bodied citizens in a great contest like this, some equivalent is required. The equivalent fixed by the War Department is two hundred dollars. In determining who shall pay this sum, the whole number of soldiers required from this State, in proportion to the whole number of militia, was ascertained and found to be forty per cent. As the conscientious exempts have sent no volunteers to the war, they are not credited with any, and forty per cent. of them have been drafted and are required to pay two hundred dollars each. In case a township has furnished no volunteers, forty per cent. of the militia of that township is drafted. If volunteers have been furnished, the township is credited with them, and if the whole number has been provided there is no draft. If volunteers are furnished, they are of the militia, and are furnished by the militia. Conscientious exempts have not volunteered, neither can they furnish volunteers. They have nothing to do with furnishing the military quota of a township; they are to furnish the equivalent to be paid by that township. By claiming exemption, they voluntarily place themselves out of the militia, and assume the payment of an equivalent.

We have, then, two classes recognized by the Constitution—the militia and the conscientious exempts. Each class has its own special duties to perform; the first to perform or furnish military duty; the latter to pay the equivalent. If one class performs its duty, that does not exonerate the other class. If the exempts pay their equivalents that does not release the militia from the performance of its duty, which is to raise whatever soldiers may be required; or, if the militia meets the demands of the General Government, that does not excuse the payment of compensation by exempts. Or, if the militia voluntarily contribute money to aid the Government, that does not release it from its peculiar duty of furnishing the necessary number of soldiers; or, if a conscientious exempt should contribute any thing to the war, that could not release him from his voluntary obligation to pay the equivalent. If either class does more than is required, the excess, above legal duty, must be credited to patriotism, and not claimed as an exemption from constitutional obligation.

I have tried to do justice to the three thousand one hundred and sixty-nine conscientious, without infringing on the rights of the two hundred and seventy-three thousand citizens of Indiana who are on the militia roll, and who are either in the service or liable at any time to be called on to perform military duty.

It is said that some exempts have sons in the army, if this be so, it does not affect the argument. The son is not conscientiously opposed to war, or he would not be in the army. He is a fighting man and belongs to the militia and is enrolled in it, and thus increases the number of its quota. His name is not on the conscientious list, and therefore he is not counted in assessing the quota of that class. He is simply discharging his own duty to the Government as one of the militia, and whether he has one relation or fifty relations, it makes no difference, their duties are not discharged by his enlistment. It has occurred that two, and even four persons, have been drafted out of one family, yet the remaining members of that family are not relieved from militia duty. The Government regards every man able to do duty, as personally liable to do that duty, and he is not released from his obligation, because some relative has been called upon to perform his own part.

There are about one thousand two hundred and fifty drafted conscientious men in the State, who are required to pay two hundred dollars each, if able to pay it, if not able they are released from service without payment. Probably one thousand of those drafted are able to pay the sum required. I am confident I could procure the names of a larger number of those subject to draft, who have each voluntarily contributed more than two hundred dollars to war purposes, yet they are still liable to the draft. If any one thinks two hundred dollars is more than an equivalent for exemption, let him ascertain the present price of substitutes, and he will be satisfied on that point. If the Government would permit all persons to be exempted on the payment of two hundred dollars each, thousands would avail themselves of the privilege.

Having thus explained the mode adopted, and the reasons therefor, I submit the whole matter for your consideration.

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

APPEAL TO THE GOVERNOR.

State of Indiana,
General Commissioner's Office,
Indianapolis, October 29, 1862.

A portion of the class known as Conscientious Exempts having appealed from the action of the General Commissioner in relation to them to the Governor, all further action against them, by the Marshals of the several counties, will be suspended until the appeal is disposed of. As soon as decided, further instructions will be furnished.

By order of the Governor,

J. P. SIDDALL,
General Commissioner.

INDIANA LEGION.

MAJOR-GENERAL LOVE.

HEADQUARTERS INDIANA LEGION,
Indianapolis, December 26, 1862.

His Excellency, O. P. MORTON,
Governor of Indiana:

SIR:—On the 10th day of September, 1861, by order of your Excellency, I assumed command of the Indiana Legion, organized under the act of the Legislature, approved May 11, 1861. Your order found me in command of Camp Morton, (where I had been since the three months' Western Virginia campaign,) organizing the troops preparing by the State for the service of the General Government. On being relieved from that duty, I made a personal inspection of the condition of the Legion in that part of the State more immediately demanding organization and attention, comprising the counties of Floyd, Harrison, Crawford, Perry, Spencer, Warrick, Vanderburg, Posey, Clark, Jefferson, and Switzerland. Important military duties called me to headquarters before visiting the counties of Ohio and Dearborn. In all those counties a fair supply of arms was found to have been previously furnished by your order, but the organization was not as efficient as the times demanded.

Through public meetings, and assisted by the prominent citizens of those counties, the public attention was aroused, and a more efficient organization commenced. When I first visited the border, as before stated, the citizens had become somewhat discouraged as to the practicability of keeping up a home organization, sufficient for defense.

It is due the citizens of the border counties to say, that at the commencement of the war they organized with spirit in every county, but that their military organizations in the Legion were repeatedly broken up by volunteering into the general service. In several counties entire companies of the Legion volunteered for the war. It has always been the policy of those connected with the Indiana Legion, to encourage the volunteering of all whose duties and relations were such as to enable them to enter the volunteer service. Besides the reduction of the ranks by volunteering, inconsiderate and thoughtless persons, who did not appreciate the threatened danger, in some localities, added to the embarrassment of the organization, by an invidious comparison with troops preparing for more active duties in the field.

While the law enacted by the last Legislature may have been the best that could have been made under all the circumstances, it is the experience of all connected with the Legion, that it can not be relied on for an effective militia. The law makes the organization a purely voluntary one. No better evidence of the inefficiency of this principle alone, can be adduced, than that, with few exceptions there is not a military company in any county except those on the immediate southern border, where the troubles in our neighboring State of Kentucky made an organization necessary for the protection of person and property, and thereby brought to the aid of the law another principle—that of self-defense.

Here it may be proper to call your attention to the unequal burden that the citizens of the southern counties have been called upon to bear, in comparison with those more remote from the border.

Since the inauguration of the system of guerrilla warfare in Kentucky, the Legion and citizens of the southern counties have been almost continually under arms. While the citizens of other parts of the State have been enjoying security as to person and property, the citizens of the southern border have been guarding the State, and have been, in many counties, making as many sacrifices, and enduring almost as many hardships as our soldiers in the field. The burden of the war should be distributed equally upon all citizens of the State.

The Legion on the southern border has been largely drawn upon by loyal citizens of Kentucky in times of danger from guerrillas, and has been called upon by the officers of the General Government in command in Kentucky, all of which is set forth in the reports of the colonels of regiments.

The military defense of the State has fallen upon a few, and that without other aid from the State than the arms and equipments furnished.

The military fund appropriated by the last Legislature has never been distributed. I would suggest that the attention of the Legislature be called to the subject of distributing this fund, with such addition to it as may be necessary to remunerate, in part at least, those companies of the Legion who have, at their own expense, borne this burden.

I would respectfully suggest, as an amendment to the military law, that all citizens liable to military duty, should be enrolled and organized; that from this number an active force of from ten to twenty thousand should be apportioned and organized throughout the counties of the State, in proportion to their population, and to secure this force, exemptions and bounties should be such as to make it desirable for all to enter the ranks wherever there may be a vacancy. Such a force would give to each county from one to two hundred men. This service would thus become honorable and effective, and would secure a reliable force around which all could rally in time of danger.

The able report of General A. C. Downey, commanding the Fourth Brigade, and his colonels, Williams of Ohio county, and Burkam of Dearborn, show that the Legion in the southeastern part of the State were called into active service during the threatened raid of Kirby Smith; that the Brigade under General Downey, with some companies of Colonel Spooner's regiment of United States Volunteers, succeeded in preserving good order, and doubtless by their efficiency prevented any attempt on the part of lawless men, emboldened by Kirby Smith's advance, from crossing the Ohio river, The Legion in Dearborn and Ohio counties has not been called into active service as frequently as in some of the other counties bordering on the Ohio river. Still they have done much guard duty, and have always been ready for any emergency.

I would call attention to that part of General Downey's report, touching the requirements of a good military law.

In the county of Switzerland the Legion has been as well organized, and has done as much service as any regiment in the State. The report of Lieutenant-Colonel Stepleton is inclosed, and while it gives full credit for the service performed since his connection with the regiment, (in September, 1862,) still is not as full as could be desired. Colonel Ormsby, who commanded the regiment from its organization, is absent from the county, and has made no report.

This regiment has of necessity done much guard duty, owing to the unsettled condition of the county in Kentucky immediately opposite Switzerland; has, on several occasions aided the authorities in Kentucky, on their application, in preventing acts of violence; has, on two different occasions, promptly furnished companies to guard prisoners of war at Camp Morton, in one instance at a great pecuniary sacrifice, as the call was made while in the midst of their harvest. During the last excitement in Kentucky, growing out of the advance of Kirby Smith's forces, the companies of Captains Pavey, Lancanster, and Liepenthal are particularly mentioned by Lieutenant-Colonel Stepleton as on duty for three weeks, guarding the fords of the Ohio. No compensation has been received by any of the companies of this regiment, excepting those on duty at Camp Morton, and those only while on duty there. The companies on duty at Camp Morton were mustered into the United States service for three months, and when troops were needed during the advance of Generals Bragg and Smith, volunteered for duty in Kentucky, and rendered valuable service.

Three companies of the Legion, of Jefferson county, reported to General Anderson, at Louisville, in September, 1861, during the excitement occasioned by the threatened attack of Buckner. At the same time six companies were on duty in the county during that excitement. In May, 1862, three companies responded to your order to guard prisoners of war at Camp Morton, were mustered into the United States service for three months, and during this service volunteered for duty in Kentucky. Two of these companies, under Captains Woodfill and Purcell, were in the battle of Richmond. In June following, another call was made for duty at Camp Morton, and Captains Monroe, Richardson, and Patten, reported with their companies, and served two months. Captain Monroe's company afterward guarded the exchanged prisoners to Vicksburg. In September, Captain Fowler's artillery, and Captains Richardson and Patten's companies, were called out to guard the border during the threatened danger which has been before alluded to. The Legion of this county has been well organized, and under their efficient Colonel, L. B. Sering, have done much service. The report of Colonel Sering is inclosed.

The field officers of the Legion organized in Clark county, volunteered in the United States service, and not until within the past month has this regiment had a colonel. The report of the colonel, John F. Willey, shows that the companies organized in this county were on duty during the excitement in September, guarding the fords of the Ohio. Colonel Willey reports his regiment in good condition.

The regiment of the Legion in Jennings county, commanded by Colonel R. Brown, was on duty, at Camp Morton, for six weeks, and his report states that his regiment was ordered to be in readiness to march at a moment's notice, during the excitement of September last; that in eighteen hours his regiment was in Vernon, and remained until notified that the danger was passed. This regiment is the only one that has responded entire for duty at Camp Morton.

The report of General John L. Mansfield, commanding the brigade composed of the regiments of Clark, Jennings, Jefferson, and Switzerland is inclosed, and your attention invited for a more detailed account. From General Mansfield's experience, his services have been invaluable to the State, and have been cheerfully rendered.

I would call your attention particularly to the report of Colonel E. A. Maginnis, commanding the Seventh Regiment, in the county of Floyd, The Legion in this county seems to have been largely drawn upon for the general cause. The organization was first under Colonel Scribner, afterward under Colonel W. W. Tuley, and since last September, under Colonel Maginnis. Knapp's Battery, by order of General Anderson, while he commanded in Kentucky, supported by two companies of infantry of the Legion, guarded the approach to Louisville by the Salt river route, for nearly three months. The accounts of these companies have not been satisfactorily adjusted. One company of the Legion, under Captain Brown, responded promptly to your call, last spring, to guard prisoners of war at Camp Morton, and was on this duty for three months. The Legion of Floyd has also rendered good service guarding gunboats and public property removed from Louisville to New Albany.

The regiment commanded by Colonel Lewis Jordan, in the county of Harrison, has done their full proportion of service; for a week they were in camp, during the danger threatened by the approach of Bragg's army, and from the report of Colonel Jordan, it will be seen that protection was afforded to Union families of Kentucky, by the command sent under Lieutenant-Colonel Irwin, to Brandenburg. This regiment has been well organized from the passage of the law.

In the county of Crawford, the regiment commanded by Colonel John P. Morgan was called upon for much active service during the excitement occasioned by the march of Bragg's army into Kentucky, and the consequent rising of guerrillas along our entire border. Colonel Morgan's report is referred to for a detailed statement.

By referring to the report of Colonel Charles Fournier, commanding the Fifth Regiment, you will see that the Legion of Perry county have been actively engaged, and have done good service in assisting, from time to time, the authorities of the neighboring counties of Kentucky, have kept good order within their county, and now number eight hundred and fifty effective men, well armed.

I would call especial attention to the report of Colonel J. W. Crooks, commanding the Fourth Regiment, in the county of Spencer. This report shows that the Legion of Spencer county assisted loyal Kentuckians while organizing under the late lamented Colonel Nettier, at Owensboro; that in September last, when the guerrillas attacked Owensboro, and killed Colonel Nettier, the Legion of Spencer county came promptly to the rescue; that after marching twenty miles, they took possession of the town the same day; the next morning marching out eight miles, where they learned the enemy were in force, gave them battle, and although largely outnumbered, completely routed them, killing thirty-six, and wounding and taking prisoners between seventy and eighty, besides capturing a number of arms, horses, &c., &c. When all the circumstances are considered, that the Legion of Spencer county, at a moment's notice, made a fatiguing march, without even the preparation for the scanty comforts of a soldier in the field, and without hesitation gave battle to a foe superior in number, and with the prestige of successful guerrilla warfare, too much praise can not be bestowed upon these gallant men.

The rout of this guerrilla band was the first serious disaster they had encountered since the commencement of their operations in the Green river country.

Subsequent events have shown that they never recovered from this defeat. I regret that Colonel Crooks' report calls upon us to mourn the loss of three killed and thirty-five wounded. The wounded, however, are all likely to recover, without serious permanent injury. The killed were Sampson Palmer, Isaac Varner, and Curtis Lamar; the two first leaving families, who were dependent upon them. I feel that I have only to mention their names to insure a recommendation of the Legislature that their families be placed on an equal footing with those of our volunteer soldiers in the service of the United States, who have fallen in the defense of their country.

The First Brigade of the Indiana Legion, under General James E. Blythe, has, from the exposed position of that part of our border composing Posey, Vanderburg, and Warrick counties, been called upon for more than their proportion of duty.

From the occupation of Bowling Green, by Buckner, till within a month past, that part of our border has been more or less threatened.

That portion of Kentucky between Greene and Cumberland rivers, till within a month past, has been the field of operations for guerrillas since the organization of that system of warfare.

To the detailed report of that zealous and energetic officer, Colonel Daniel F. Bates, commanding the Third Regiment, Warrick county, your attention is particularly invited. This regiment has done more duty, and the members of it made more pecuniary sacrifices, than probably any other regiment of the Legion. Some companies have been, for weeks at a time, constantly on duty guarding the border, and when called upon by the citizens of Owensboro, promptly responded.

The full and comprehensive report of Colonel Wm. E. Hollingsworth, commanding the Second Regiment, in Vanderburg county, which I inclose, shows that the Legion, in that county, number more than any county in the State, and all well armed. This regiment has been time and again called upon for duty in Kentucky, and has rendered great service to the general cause, in protecting the locks of Greene river, in going to the assistance of Owensboro and Henderson, and has manifested a readiness at all times for duty. As General Blythe reports, "the fact of being at all times armed and ready, has no doubt saved Evansville from any attempt at depredation." The officers of the Legion, in this county, have always kept on hand a large supply of ammunition, which has been drawn upon, in times of danger, by the United States forces in the vicinity. It may be said that through the officers of the State of Indiana have been furnished the troops and supplies which, at this time, have given comparative peace and order to the Greene river country of Kentucky.

The detailed condition and operations of the First Regiment, in Posey county, are set forth in the report of Colonel John A. Mann, the efficient commander of the Regiment. This regiment was among the first organized in the State, and has, since the organization, done much valuable service. Union county, in Kentucky, has been regarded as containing as many sympathizers with secession as any county in that State. The activity displayed by the guerrillas of Union county, has entailed upon this regiment a vigilance which has saved the county from invasion.

The more exposed position of the district occupied by the First Brigade, and the more threatening condition of the enemy across the Ohio, has demanded more of my personal attention than any other part of the State. From personal knowledge, then, I desire to call your attention to the services rendered by General James E. Blythe. The duties imposed on General Blythe have been arduous and responsible. He has met every emergency promptly, and has discharged his duties with ability.

One or two companies are organized, under the law, in the counties of Marion, Decatur, Madison, Parke, and Gibson, but not having been called on for active duty, I have received no reports from them.

The reports of the officers above referred to, will show that the Legion, in every border county, has been called upon to sustain unusual burdens since the commencement of the war, as compared with the counties remote from the border, as has been before stated. It is hoped that the Legislature will take such action as may be necessary to adjust all claims.

Notwithstanding the defects in the present law, the Indiana Legion has, from the necessity arising from the unsettled condition of the border, and for self-defense, been kept in a comparatively good state of organization, has rendered good service to the State, and, by their readiness to respond to the demands made by the State or General Government, added greatly to the military reputation of Indiana, which is acknowledged throughout the country. Permit me to say that the State is largely indebted to your Excellency for the reputation she has acquired, in the responsibility you assumed in organizing an arsenal, which has supplied ammunition not only to the Legion, but to United States forces in all parts of the west; in the responsibility you have assumed in purchasing a superior class of arms for our troops, in their general equipment, and in your care and watchfulness over the troops of Indiana in the field. The foresight you displayed, and the responsibility you assumed, have been justified by the emergencies which have arisen.

During the unusual excitement occasioned by the advance of Bragg's army, in September last, your Excellency issued a proclamation calling on all citizens of the counties on the border, to organize into military companies, and to drill daily. The order met the hearty approbation of all, and was cheerfully complied with, until your subsequent proclamation on the restoration of comparative peace and quiet in Kentucky.

The latter part of last summer, some lawless men, taking advantage of the unprepared condition of the town of Newburg, in Warrick county, crossed the Ohio and committed some unimportant depredations. A band, calling themselves guerrillas, under one Adam Johnson, also took possession of Henderson, Kentucky, where a United States Hospital was located, in which was some of the wounded from the field of Shiloh. Immediately on receipt of this information, your Excellency at the request of General Boyle, commanding in Kentucky, called on the Legion, and for volunteers from different parts of the State. Colonels Gavin and Wilder being at the time at their homes in Decatur county, on a short furlough, at once organized a force of six hundred volunteers, and in thirty-six hours were in Evansville. Messrs. Orth and Hough, prominent citizens of Tippecanoe county, also placed themselves at the head of two hundred men, and reported at Evansville. The Union Rifles, an independent company, of Terre Haute, splendidly armed and equipped at their own expense, tendered their services and promptly reported at Evansville, under the command of Captain Tapping, who afterward, as commander of the gallant Seventy-First Regiment, fought so bravely with his regiment at Richmond, Kentucky, and fell, lamented by the whole State. A company of mounted men from Warrick, under Captain Bethel, was promptly organized and tendered their services. Also another company from Terre Haute, under Captain Riechart.

Your Excellency also called upon Captain Pennock, commanding the naval forces at Cairo. Captain Pennock responded in person, with the armed vessels Clara Dolson and Rob Roy, accompanied by an Illinois regiment, under Colonel More, and a battery of artillery under Major Starring, detailed for this duty by General Strong.

The force just described, was, by your direction, organized and equipped by me at Evansville, and were landed in transports at Henderson, Kentucky, just sixty-four hours after the raid on Newburg. We took possession of the town, sending out in the country a large force under Colonels Gavin and Wilder, in the hope of surprising this guerrilla party before the news of our approach could reach them. The troops thus hastily collected were mustered into the United States service.

After remaining a week at Henderson, I turned over the command to Lieutenant-Colonel John W. Foster, of the Twenty-Fifth Indiana, now Colonel of the Sixty-Fifth Indiana, who has been rendering, since that time, very efficient service. In the discharge of these duties, I was greatly assisted by my Aid, Major Reginald H. Hall, and my volunteer Aid, Colonel John F. Kibby.

Your Excellency will remember that the law provides that an annual encampment of the Legion may be held, but owing to the condition of National affairs, it was thought best to omit the exercise of that provision in the year 1861, that in the present year the same reasons discouraged the successful administration of a camp on a scale so comprehensive as the statute contemplated, and that considerations of economy, combined with a desire to promote the efficiency of the Legion, induced your Excellency to modify the plan of an encampment to the limits specified in your order of the 5th day of October, 1862. In pursuance of that order, a school of instruction was formed on the 16th of October, composed of the officers of the Legion, and of the militia called out under your proclamation. These officers assembled at Burnside Barracks, a new and complete cantonment erected near the city of Indianapolis. Between three and four hundred officers were promptly placed under regimental organization, consisting of six companies, each with the requisite number of company and subordinate officers. This organization was permanent during the School of Instruction.

Hours of duty were published in general orders, prescribing the routine of the camp. The first week was employed in theoretical and practical instruction in the manual of arms and squad drill, during the second week was added the company and battalion drill, and the members of the camp were as thoroughly instructed as the short duration of the school would allow. It was to be expected that gentlemen of the position and character of those who came up to that camp, with no other inducement than the ambition of acquiring information to be by them again disseminated to their commands at home, should be distinguished by a more than ordinary zeal. I can not too highly commend the zealous application and soldierly deportment of the members of the school, and trust that the information there acquired will in future redound to the honor of the State.

It has been my object to keep in as efficient a state as possible, under the limited powers granted by the law now in force, the organized companies of the Legion, making as few calls upon their time as the condition of affairs would allow, at the same time with the least possible expense to the State. Should it meet the views of the Legislature to adjust all reasonable claims for services and expenses of those actually engaged in common defense, (some of whom it is seen have fallen on the field of battle) it is believed the amount required will be much less than is usually required for the same service performed with corresponding benefits.

To Major Reginald H. Hall I am also under obligations for his valuable services at the School of Instruction, and his duties in the office.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN LOVE,

REPORTS OF

BRIGADIER-GENERAL J. E. BLYTHE,

FIRST BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

INDIANA LEGION,
HEADQUARTERS, FIRST BRIGADE,
Evansville, December 24, 1863.

Major-General JOHN LOVE:

GENERAL:—I have the honor to submit the following report of the present organization, and the past operation of that part of the Indiana Legion which is under my command.

Only in four of the counties which are embraced in my district have companies been formed regularly under the State militia law, to-wit: Gibson, Posey, Warrick, and Vanderburg. In Gibson county only a single company has been formed and armed. This, in a great measure, is attributable to the fact that field officers for that county have not yet been appointed. The people there have, at all times, manifested the utmost willingness to render any assistance in their power to the counties bordering on the river, and I doubt not that if a demand for their services had been made, they would have promptly responded.

From the report of Colonel John A. Mann, commanding the first regiment of this brigade, it appears that the regiment was partially organized during the summer of 1861, by Colonel A. P. Hovey, and then organized completely by Colonel E. R. James. Owing to the exposed condition of Posey county, a large amount of labor and watchfulness was imposed on the officers and men composing that regiment, and it affords me great pleasure to say that in no instance was there any lack of vigilance, or any manifestation of unwillingness to meet and discharge any duty imposed upon them. During the summer of 1861, one artillery and two infantry companies were formed in that county. These all became reasonably proficient in drill; but as the scene of actual hostilities was removed from our border, their regular company and battalion drills were abandoned.

During the next summer and autumn, the presence of large guerrilla bands in the counties of Henderson and Union, in the State of Kentucky, imposed the necessity of reorganizing the militia of Posey county, and Colonel Mann, with his usual zeal and promptitude, proceeded with the work. The result was highly satisfactory. I beg leave to refer you to the report of Colonel Mann, which I herewith transmit, for a more detailed statement of the operations and present condition of his regiment.

From the report of Colonel Daniel Bates, commanding the Third Regiment of this Brigade, it appears that, from the 18th day of July last to November following, an unusual amount of vigilance and labor was devolved upon the officers and men of his command, growing out of the raid of guerrillas in the town of Newburg, in Warrick county, the proximity of that town to the mouth of Greene river, and the almost constant presence of hostile bands near that river.

The very liberal drafts which have been made upon the time and services of the men of this regiment, entitle them to the most favorable consideration in any plan which may be devised for compensation to the militia actually engaged on duty.

The promptitude with which they have responded to the several calls made upon them, entitle them to the thanks and gratitude of the State.

Colonel Bates, Lieutenant-Colonel Adams, and Major Roberts, having each been untiring and vigilant in the discharge of their respective duties; and to this fact is doubtless to be attributed the immunity of Warrick county from further hostile inroads since the unfortunate 18th of July last. To Colonel Bates' report, which is quite full, and is herewith transmitted, I beg leave to refer you for details.

The organization and operations of the Second Regiment, which is located in this county, has been more immediately under my own observation. During the summer of 1861, this regiment was organized and armed, with one artillery company attached to it.

Unfortunately, the militia law was so interpreted as to warrant the opinion that companies could be enlisted for a limited period. Hence, all the companies there formed, by their respective constitutions, which were approved by the Governor, limited their period of service to six months, at the expiration of which time all the companies, except the Union Artillery and the Vanderburg Greys, were disbanded. This regiment, under the command of Colonel William E. Hollingsworth, attained quite a respectable proficiency in company and battalion exercise; and its officers and men at all times responded most cheerfully to every call made upon them for active duty. One, the "Union Artillery," then under the command of Captain Cochran, early in the season, was sent to Lock and Dam No. 1, on Greene river, to act with a company of the Kentucky State Guards, from Henderson, in guarding that work. This duty they performed for several weeks; and their presence, doubtless, materially aided in saving the Lock from destruction. For this service the officers and men engaged have been paid. During the summer and autumn of 1861, some portion of this regiment was almost constantly engaged in picket and scout duty.

Upon the evacuation of Kentucky by the rebel forces, last year, a sense of security took possession of the people in the border counties of this part of the State, from which I found some difficulty in arousing them.

As soon as it became evident that the Kentucky border counties were infested with guerrilla bands, strenuous efforts were made to bring about a reorganization of the militia in the river counties of this brigade district; and until this was finally accomplished, I was forced to rely upon temporary expedients. These, it was true, were ordinarily successful, but involved a degree of labor, anxiety, and responsibility, which would have been wholly avoided had the militia law been of such a character as to secure, at all times, a suitable force.

On the reception of the proclamation of Governor Morton, of the 5th of September last, I immediately began an organization of companies under the militia law. In the main, I found the citizens fully aroused to the necessity of such organization; and, without difficulty, in a few days quite as many companies were regularly formed as could be furnished with arms. Within a week from the date of the proclamation, every able-bodied white citizen within the limits of the city, with the exception of some twenty-five or thirty, were sworn as members of some one of the companies of the Legion. In addition to these, companies were formed in each of the townships of the county, the whole including those of the Second Regiment, numbering twenty-eight. Of these some fifteen are fully armed and equipped. Attached to this regiment is one cavalry company, numbering fifty, armed with the French revolving pistols; and two artillery companies, each supplied with two Parrott guns.

Since the reorganization of the militia in this county, and until within some two months past, services similar to those rendered during 1861 have been constantly and cheerfully performed by all who were called on. In addition to the discharge of these home duties, aid has, from time to time, been given to our friends in Kentucky; once, under your own immediate direction, when five companies from this city, under the command of Colonel Hollingsworth, were sent to Owensboro, to aid the gallant militia of Spencer county in driving the guerrillas beyond Greene river.

For further details, I refer you to the report of Colonel Hollingsworth, which is herewith transmitted.

My thanks are due to Colonel Hollingsworth, Lieutenant-Colonel Gwathway, and Major Johnson, for the efficient aid given by each in the work of organizing the militia of this county, and the interest they have ever manifested in whatever concerned the regiment, and the public welfare.

And the State at large is much indebted to all the officers and men of the several companies in this and the adjoining counties of Posey and Warrick, for the service which they have rendered.

I am convinced that a knowledge of the fact that we were armed and prepared to defend ourselves, has saved us, in a great measure, from aggression. Once, while we were unprepared, Newburg was invaded, and our fellow-citizens of the interior promptly responded to the call of the Governor, and marched to Kentucky to find, if possible, and punish the aggressors.

With this exception, this part of the border has had the burden of its own defense. We have expended labor, time, and money, that we might be secure, and we have hitherto accomplished our work.

While the border is secure, it is impossible that the interior should be disturbed. Our burden and responsibility has been cheerfully borne.

Very respectfully,

JAS. E. BLYTHE,

Brigadier General, First Brigade, Ind. Legion.

COLONEL JOHN A. MANN,

COMMANDING FIRST REGIMENT, FIRST BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

INDIANA LEGION,
HEADQUARTERS FIRST REGIMENT,
Mt. Vernon, December 11, 1862.

Brigadier-General BLYTHE:

DEAR SIR:—In compliance with the request of Major-General John Love, I send you the following report of the operations of the First Regiment of the First Brigade of the Indiana Legion, from the time of its organization to the present. The regiment was partially organized by Colonel Hovey, in the early part of the summer of 1861, and completed by Colonel Enoch R. James, shortly after his appointment, that is to say, nine companies of infantry and one of artillery. The companies were armed originally with altered percussion muskets and Mississippi rifles, and one brass six-pounder was in time procured for the artillery. For a time the companies were very active and prompt in their drilling, and became comparatively well drilled in company drill. Several of the companies procured uniforms in accordance with the style recommended by Major-General Love. The officers, almost without exception, uniformed themselves, and on several occasions, upon battalion drill, the regiment presented a very good appearance, and performed some of the primary movements of battalion drill in very good style. We had frequent dress parades, which were as well done as in many volunteer regiments. During Colonel James' command of the regiment, we had one or two slight alarms, in consequence of threatened inroads of guerrillas, and on every occasion our companies in town were very prompt in rallying to the defense of our town.

On one occasion Colonel James received a written request from an officer sent to make some arrests in Kentucky, some ten miles above here, to send him some men to assist him, as he feared resistance. Colonel James called upon Captain Anderson, of the Independent Guards, and Captain Larkin, of the Union Rifles, for volunteers to go on this duty. In less than an hour there were fifty men ready to go; they were put in command of Captain Larkin, and proceeded to the place designated, upon a steamboat that was laying at the wharf, returning again the same night, their services not being required.

Last spring, when the call came for a company to proceed to Indianapolis to guard prisoners, Colonel James made a requisition upon each company for a detail, sufficient to form a company. The men were promptly detailed, and reported themselves in town for duty. There being no conveyance, the Colonel sent them home, with a request to report next day and go up to Evansville on the packet. They did so; but in the meantime the order was countermanded, and the men returned to their homes.

Colonel James having shortly afterward resigned, I was appointed to fill the vacancy. Since assuming command of the regiment, I have organized several companies, one of infantry and one of cavalry. Two of the original infantry companies have been disbanded. The whole of the infantry companies being constantly drawn upon by volunteering. Frequently some of the officers have gone into the regular service, which has been a great drawback to the companies, but has, no doubt, been of considerable advantage to our volunteer service—the officers and men being very well drilled. Under these circumstances, the companies were kept up with great difficulty. The cavalry company, under Captain Hinch, has been more completely organized by me, and is now a very well drilled company, armed with sabers, French revolvers, and holster pistols, are also otherwise well equipped and well officered, and has on many occasions done very good service in scouting and picket duty, and have always been prompt and willing to obey every command.

I feel fully convinced that we should have had more or less guerrilla raids into our county, had it not been for our constant vigilance and readiness for our defense. Our artillery company is well officered and equipped, and well drilled. Captain Milner would do credit to the regular volunteer service. He has two good brass six-pounders, with plenty of ammunition. The infantry companies are very well armed, and have good officers. Captain Larkin is well quailfied to command a regiment, and many others are well drilled officers. All the regimental and company officers have always worked harmoniously together, and the Legion would have been efficient, as an arm of defense, had not the late order of the Governor, dismissing the militia companies, been construed as an order for the discontinuance of the drill of all the companies, and it has since been very difficult to get the men to leave their work and turn out to drill. I am of the opinion that for once the Governor made a mistake, and unless the militia law is so changed as to make it more efficient and compulsory, and add some rules and regulations of a general nature for the government of the companies and regiments, establishing some penalties for non-compliance with the law, and for disobedience of orders, it can never hereafter be of much service.

I will take occasion, in a few days, to give my views in regard to the necessary amendments to the militia law in a more elaborate form, and will transmit the same to Major-General Love direct.

Very respectfully,

JOHN A. MANN,
Colonel First Regiment, Indiana Legion.

P. S. I neglected to state, that after the general order of the Governor, dated September 5, for the organization of the militia, I went to work, assisted by Lieutenant-Colonel John B. Weaver, to organize the militia into companies, and in three weeks had formed and officered twenty-one companies, in addition to my Legion companies. They drilled regularly, and did as well as circumstances permitted, to perform their duty, until the order of the Governor appeared disbanding them.

Very truly,

COLONEL W. E. HOLLINGSWORTH,

COMMANDING SECOND REGIMENT, FIRST BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

EVANSVILLE, December 13, 1862.

SIR:—I have the honor to submit the following report, by order of Major General Love, which I received on the 10th instant.

Not expecting to be called upon for a detailed account of the actions and services of the Second Regiment, I shall have to depend upon memory for much of the body of the report.

By your promotion to the command of the First Brigade of the Indiana Legion, I was placed in command and commissioned Colonel of the Second Regiment on the 30th of November, 1861. At that time the several companies had frequent company and battalion exercises, and had made considerable proficiency in maneuvering. During the occupation of Bowling Green and Russellville, Kentucky, by Buckner, parties from those two, and other places in Kentucky, made frequent forays in the direction of the Ohio river, and often threatening the Locks on Greene river, as well as the town of Henderson. At one time a party had advanced within thirty miles of the first Lock, with orders from Buckner to destroy it. A regiment of the Indiana volunteers was located here at that time, who applied for a cannon and a squad of men out of my command, which were furnished. They arrived in time to prevent the destruction of the Lock, and held possession of the place for several days. Many other demonstrations were made of a threatening character at various dates, rendering it necessary to prepare for attacks. Scouts were sent up and down the Ohio river, and across into Kentucky, to ascertain the position and force of those parties. At such times they were out on guard duty at the various approaches to the city, not unfrequently during the entire night. This was the case in many instances.

After the capture of forts Henry and Donaldson, by the United States army, and the evacuation of Russellville and Bowling Green, Kentucky, the alarms became less frequent, and the services of the regiment not being called into requisition so often, slackened its vigilance somewhat, until the military order of Governor Morton, which I received on the —— day of ———, 1862.

Each company was then recruited up to about ninety men, and drilled two hours daily, until the order for tri-weekly and weekly exercise was issued.

Our army meeting with some reverses in Virginia, Maryland, and in front of Washington City, the guerrillas in Kentucky became quite troublesome, and I was applied to, in several instances, for assitance to sustain a small force at Henderson, which was, in a few cases, afforded. On the occasion of a raid by these marauders on Newburg, I called for volunteer scouts, which was responded to promptly, and in a very short time twenty men were mounted and soon arrived in town, but not soon enough to capture them; they had recrossed the river and made their escape. A force of two companies was sent up by the river on a boat, but arrived too late to make any arrests of those who had taken an active part in the raids, but secured several sympathizers, who were sent to Indianapolis.

For several days and nights, every company was called to furnish details for guard duty, which was complied with.

About the 20th of September last, a band of eight hundred guerrillas, under the leadership of Rev. Scober, made an attack on Owensboro, Kentucky. They succeeded in occupying the town for a short time, and killing Colonel Netter, of the ——— Regiment, Kentucky cavalry, and six of his men. I was called on for reinforcements, but could not comply, fearing to leave the city exposed, as reports were rife that large bodies of guerrillas were pillaging Henderson county; I therefore declined rendering assistance. In a few hours after receiving the first news from Owensboro, a messenger arrived from Colonel Bates, at Newburg, informing me that the enemy had been driven back five miles, with heavy loss, and were going in the direction of Ashbysburg, pursued by two hundred and fifty of the Spencer county (Indiana) boys. From this information I was led to believe they were making for the south side of Greene river, and would have to cross the ferry at Ashbysburg. I therefore immediately dispatched a messenger to Lieutenant-Colonel Foster, of the Twenty-Fifth Indiana, in temporary command at Henderson, who, at my suggestion, sent a force of cavalry and one gun, to intercept and cut off their retreat, which was, in part, very successful; he succeeded in scattering them, and taking a few prisoners.

On the day following, Lieutenant-Colonel Wood, of the First Indiana Cavalry, then at Owensboro, sent a messenger earnestly soliciting aid, as the guerrillas had been reinforced and were returning to renew the attack. I embarked five companies of my command on the steamers J. T. McCombs and Gillium, then at the wharf, and arrived opposite the town at three o'clock. At daylight I ordered the McCombs to the landing, she having my whole force aboard which had been transferred from the Gillium, which boat grounded at Scuffletown bar. I reported to Colonel Woods for orders, who had the information returned that there was no danger of attack. Having your orders to return immediately after finishing my mission, after having been breakfasted by the good citizens of Owensboro, I re-embarked for Evansville, arriving at three o'clock, P. M.

On my return trip, a sad accident occurred, which cast a gloom over the whole command. Sergeant Mierhoff, Company A, accidentally shot himself through the head, killing instantly, and was buried the day following, with the honors due him. A purse of two hundred dollars was made up among the men, which was presented to the family.

These marauding parties of guerrillas have caused much uneasiness to our citizens, and in order to guard against a surprise at any time, I have been under the necessity of picketing the various roads and bridges leading to the city for several nights in succession, and for several nights consecutively have remained at headquarters, for the purpose of giving direction for the welfare and safety of the city.

In the foregoing report, much has been omitted for want of proper dates, but sufficient, I trust, has been said, to enable you to form some idea of the doings of the regiment. Its present status is rather inactive, there being no necessity for active operations, although retaining the organization.

I respectfully call your attention to the arms furnished by the State. They are the best, we are informed, that could be had when furnished, but are not such as would do to depend on in active service. Many of them are almost useless. They are of different caliber, which would be a very serious difficulty, if called into an engagement of a few hours duration.

I am indebted to Lieutenant-Colonel Gwathway and Major Johnson, for valuable services rendered in the management and control of the men. Adjutant Sontag has also aided me very much, and lessened the burdens of the command materially. I also commend the company officers for their zeal, efficiency and promptitude, and the men for strict obedience to orders when on duty, and feel not a little pride in saying that the Second Regiment exhibits a proficiency and accuracy in the drill seldom excelled by volunteers in the service.

The following companies compose the Second Regiment, under my immediate command. Also, subjoined are the companies formed in the county, and are not yet organized into regiments:

	NAME OF COMPANY.	OFFICERS.
Company A	Vanderburgh Greys.....	Captain Bisch.
" B	Evansville Artillery (Inft'ry)	" Cooke.
" C	Brownlow Guards.....	" Shoenlaub.

Center Rangers	" Kirkpatrick.
Perry Rangers	" Collins.
Union Guards	" Martin.
Alluvia Guards	" Williamson.
Vanderburg Cavalry Scouts	Lieutenant McJohnston.
Crescent City Light Horse	Captain Kinsey.
Darmstadt Guards	" Richert.

There are two or three other companies in the county, but only partly organized, and are not included in the above list.

I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,

WM. E. HOLLINGSWORTH,

Col. Second Indiana Reg., Indiana Legion.

To Brig.-Gen. J. E. Blythe,

First Brigade, Indiana Legion.

OF

COLONEL DANIEL F. BATES,

COMMANDING THIRD REGIMENT, FIRST BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

INDIANA LEGION,
HEADQUARTERS THIRD REGIMENT, FIRST BRIGADE,
Newburg, Ind., December 22, 1862.

Brigadier-General JAMES E. BLYTHE:

DEAR SIR:—In compliance with the request of Major-General John Love, received by me December 14, I make to you the following report of the services rendered, &c., of the Third Regiment of the First Brigade of the Indiana Legion:

The Third Regiment was organized by me in the year 1861. I organized six companies in 1861; in the summer and fall of that year, these companies became, some of them, so decimated, that in the spring three of them were disbanded, the officers and a great many of the men having gone into the volunteer service. Up to this time, Captain Union Bethell's and Captain R. R. Roberts' companies, of Newburg, had done good service, we having frequent alarms, and the men doing guard duty every night for many months.

In the spring of 1862, we had some company drills, but all the companies had been so thinned out by their volunteering, that, after consulting with you, we thought it best to call in all the arms. This I did some time in June. This having been done, the friends of Adam R. Johnson no doubt notified him of the fact, and on the 18th day of August, 1862, the soil of Indiana was invaded by the thief, Adam R. Johnson, and one hundred muskets, seventy-five sabers, and one hundred and thirty holsters and pistols stolen. These muskets were, at this time, in the hospital at Newburg; the sabers and pistols were in a wareroom, and had never been taken out of the boxes they were sent in.

I immediately notified my companies in the county, whose guns had also been returned to their captains, and as soon as time would admit, we had five companies ready with arms for duty. The rebel thief knowing that his work must be done quickly, made all the dispatch possible, and had gotten safely across the river before we arrived in town. This, as a matter of course, threw the whole county into a perfect state of excitement. I kept the companies in camp at Newburg three days, and quiet seeming to be restored, I permitted them to go to their homes in day-time, but required them to stand guard on the Ohio river every night along the whole border of Warrick county, from that time until about the 1st of November. The citizens of Warrick county became so aroused, that I organized seven new companies, two of which are parts of Bethell's and R. R. Roberts' companies. We had, on the 15th of September last, nine companies of infantry, one company of artillery, and one company of cavalry.

About this time, the country in the vicinity of Greene river, in Kentucky, was being infested by guerrillas. The thief, Adam R. Johnson, not having left that country yet, I received orders from you to go into camp at Newburg with my men. I immediately notified the different company commanders, and went into camp with eight companies, and remained four days. The excitement seeming to gradually decrease, and this also being the most busy season of the year for the most of the regiment, they nearly all being farmers, and nearly all of them raising tobacco, they were sacrificing their crops to a great extent, and, with your permission, I allowed them to go to their farms in day-time, but detailed one-third of each company for guard duty at night. These were of the companies that were from the country, and those from town did the scouting in day-time, and saw that all the water-crafts were kept on this side of the Ohio river.

Some time later than this—I do not remember the precise time —there was a requisition made on me by the colonel commanding the post at Owensboro, stating that the guerrillas had killed Colonel Netter and taken possession of the town, and that if he did not get immediate reinforcements, the rebels would certainly overpower him and capture all the Government arms and supplies at his camp. I summoned my men together, and asked for volunteers to go with me to Owensboro. Three hundred and fifty infantry and fifty cavalry volunteered at once, and we got on a Government boat and went up to Owensboro to offer them all the assistance in our power; but fortunately for Colonel Netter's regiment, Colonel Crook, with the Fourth Regiment of the Legion, came to their rescue, and the day we arrived had given the rebels a most beautiful thrashing. We remained with them one day, and, not deeming it necessary to stay any longer, returned home.

In the meantime, our town of Newburg was threatened again, and Major Roberts called on Captain Johnson and Captain Barnett to again come into camp at Newburg, which call was promptly responded to by each company, numbering about seventy-five men each. On my arrival home, I broke up the camp, and sent the men home again. Since that time up to the 1st of November, we kept vigilant guard, and were all the time on the alert, but have had no alarms to call us into camp.

The following companies have been organized since the first formation of the regiment: Captain Robert Perigo, Captain Joshua F. Roberts, and Captain Peter Taylor. Besides these there was Captain Union Bethell, Captain R. R. Roberts, and Captain Larkin Floyd, whose companies became so decimated by the men volunteering in the United States volunteer service, that they were disbanded.

Apart from these were the companies that I have organized during the past summer, as follows: Captain Squire Johnson, Captain James Barnett, Captain John Darby, Captain John R. Bell, Captain James Phillips, Captain William Bryan, Captain William T. Stone of the cavalry company, and Captain Yoost Mooga commanding the artillery company. These companies were all organized under the militia law, and are well officered. The following companies have arms, and have done good service: Captain Peter Taylor, Belgian rifles; Captain Perigo, altered muskets; Captain John Darby and Captain Bell, Belgian rifles; Captain J. F. Roberts, fifty Enfield rifles, and forty altered muskets;

Captain James Barnett, fifty altered muskets; Captain Squire Johnson, twenty altered muskets; Captain William Stone's cavalry company are armed with French revolvers, and have saddles and other equipments for the whole company. Captain Yoost Mooga's artillery has one three-inch Dahlgren gun, one six-pounder brass piece, and Russian rifles.

Captain Phillips and Captain William Bryan, have no arms. The Belgian rifle will do to drill with, but are of no account to shoot with, there being so great a difference in the caliber, and not much account generally. We have one armory in which we keep our artillery, but since the raid on Newburg, we find it best to have the small arms in the hands of the privates. We have no great amount of ammunition, but perhaps enough for the present.

Our companies have always filled the requirements of the law in drilling in the worst of weather, and in summer time, have generally drilled every week.

The proclamation of the Governor did not interfere with the Legion in my county in any way. I organized some eleven companies of militia under the proclamation; and when his Excellency thought proper to disband those companies, it did not have any effect on the companies of the Legion. We have had battalion drill and dress parade on several occasions this year, and, I must say, we did exceedingly well. The officers of companies deserve very much credit for their untiring efforts to become proficient in military discipline.

Now, a word as to the service. Captain Perigo, Captain J. F. Roberts, Captain Taylor, Captain John Darby, Captain Bell and Captain William Stone, have certainly done very valuable service to the State, and to the General Government; they have been vigilant day and night. Their companies have sent details for guard duty on the Ohio river from the 18th day of August last until the 1st of November. They have left their crops to go to waste and stood guard to prevent the rebel thief, Adam R. Johnson, from again making a raid into Indiana on our border. Those companies have sacrificed in their crops four fold what their pay would amount to if paid the regulation price, but they attached themselves to the Legion for the good of the cause and the protection of the border, and were willing even to sacrifice life itself, if necessary, to attain these ends.

And now, General, I would respectfully appeal to you to intercede in their behalf that they may receive a remuneration for their services. To Lieutenant-Colonel Adams and to Major R. R. Roberts I must tender my most sincere thanks for the valuable service rendered by those officers in the discharge of their duties. Also, to all the commissioned officers, for their energy and ability to instruct and command their companies, and would say that I think if called into action they would, by being members of the Indiana Legion, reflect great credit to the cause.

As to the efficiency of the militia law, I will at some other time write at some length. I find it deficient in almost every particular. I think any alteration would be an improvement, but of this I will not now speak, but submit the foregoing.

Yours, very respectfully,

DANIEL F. BATES,
Colonel Third Regiment, First Brigade, Ind. Legion.

COLONEL JOHN W. CROOKS,

COMMANDING FOURTH REGIMENT, SECOND BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

INDIANA LEGION,
HEADQUARTERS FOURTH REGIMENT,
Rockport, December 2, 1862.

Major-General LOVE, Commanding Indiana Legion,
Indianapolis, Indiana:

GENERAL:—In obedience to orders, I have the honor to report the following as pertaining to my command:

Owing to the excitement between Evansville and Cannelton during the past summer, the duties of my command were very heavy. During the months of July, August, September, and until the 6th of October, we had not less than a score of alarms. You will see by the accompanying papers, the state of excitement in and about the town of Owensboro, Ky., how urgently they appealed for assistance, and how much they relied upon the Fourth Regiment of the Legion for protection. I was called to their relief not less than six times, taking my entire command, with many citizens besides. In fact I can say that the Legion of Spencer literally defended the town of Owensboro, and the camp of troops under Colonel Netter, for the space of ninety days. He told me but for our assistance in time of need, he would have to burn his stores and abandon the place. That the Indianians with their muskets and artillery were his only salvation. With my assurance that the entire fighting population of our county would fly to their relief, if needed, the loyal portion of Davies county, Ky., took a high Union stand, and have finally succeeded in establishing a tolerably, and only a tolerably, healthy sentiment. They had much to contend with, for I am quite certain it was not excelled in disloyalty by any county in the State of Kentucky.

Thus things went on until the morning of the 19th of September, 1862, when the town of Owensboro was attacked and taken by the rebels, the Colonel in command killed, and his forces rendered useless for good. Upon receiving notice of this disaster, and a call for assistance, I immediately threw across the river, below the city, under the protection of our ordinance and their camp, from five to six hundred of my command, driving the rebels from the place, and taking possession of the town.

Learning that night that the rebels were encamped about eight miles out, we organized a force for the purpose of giving them battle. Most of my men were much fatigued, many of them having marched over twenty miles, yet they set out with an alacrity and eagerness unexampled. We arrived in front of the enemy between sunrise and daylight next morning. My command consisted of three hundred and fifty of the Spencer Legion, some five or eight citizens of Davies county, and sixty of Netter's mounted men. The enemy's forces consisted of a battalion of five hundred under command of Lieutenant-Colonel Martin of the rebel army. We had with us one 6-pounder cannon; they had a 4-pounder piece.

They opened the ball by dispersing our cavalry, who had incautiously gone beyond supporting distance, and who were lost to your service the balance of the day. Hearing the engagement of the cavalry, we hastened forward, put our cannon in position, and at the third round dismounted it by bursting up the trunnion caps, which resulted in sending it to the rear. We now saw no alternative but to close in with the infantry, which was done in a style that would have been commendable to veterans. The engagement lasted one hour and a half, the enemy playing upon us his small cannon, charged with sacks of small Minie balls, all the while. The deadly aim of our backwoodsmen, however, proved too hot; observing their wavering lines, we made a charge, scattering them in the wildest confusion.

Our casualties were three killed and thirty-five wounded. The cavalry had two wounded and eight of the men taken prisoners, who were paroled the same evening. The enemy's loss was thirty-six killed, between seventy and eighty wounded, and sixteen taken prisoners. We also captured twelve or fifteen horses, one hundred and thirty-five or forty small arms, and a great many blankets, sabers, &c.

It is needless to say that all did well; both officers and men seemed to vie with each other in deeds of daring. Thus terminated the battle of Panther creek.

Subsequent to this, you will observe, by accompanying papers, another very urgent request to return to Owensboro with my command. The rebels had threatened to return with reinforcements, and visit the place with retribution for their Panther creek discomfiture, which kept the public mind, and especially the troops at that point, in the wildest state of excitement.

On the morning of the 6th of October, I again had between four and five hundred men opposite Owensboro, on this side of the river. By this time my men began to complain; "the citizens would not defend themselves; more than half of the town were rebel sympathizers; they had lost their friends at Panther creek in defending a people who would not fight for themselves; their crops were suffering, tobacco in particular, the only thing they expected to realize a remunerative price for." Although the last man would have crossed the river if I had said so, I was charitable enough to heed their murmerings. I put two pieces of artillery in position; sent Major Holman, who was then in command, a note declining to cross the river; that I proposed to defend his camp and town from this side of the river; "that he should give the citizens of Owensboro notice that just as soon as the women and children could escape, after the attack was made upon him, or the town taken possession of by the rebels, I should commence shelling it from this side, a thing I was amply prepared to peform." His answer to this you will see in the closing paragraph of his note of the 6th of October. No attack was made, at that time, either upon the camp or city, nor have they had any trouble on the border of Davies county, Kentucky, since.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN W. CROOKS,

Colonel Fourth Regiment Indiana Legion.

P. S.—I have been in command of all the troops in this county since their organization. J. W. C.

COLONEL CHARLES FOURNIER,

COMMANDING FIFTH REGIMENT, SECOND BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

INDIANA LEGION,
HEADQUARTERS FIFTH REGIMENT,
Perry County, December 5, 1862.

Major-General LOVE,
Commanding Indiana Legion, Indianapolis:

GENERAL:—In obedience to orders received, I beg leave to submit the following report concerning the service rendered by my command since its organization. As early as August, 1861, troubles began on the border, in the counties in Kentucky opposite to ours. Several bands of guerrillas formed themselves in the back parts of Hancock and Davies counties, who threatened to attack this side of the river. This regiment of the Legion, at that time, consisted of eight companies, under the command of Colonel Charles Mason, a force of about 450 men, who were not all armed then, but were shortly after provided with arms by the Quarter-Master General.

About the 25th of August, a band of guerrillas entered the opposite town of Hawesville at night, and, with the help of the secesh citizens of that place, drove the Union men out of the town, who crossed over to find protection on our side. The company, Deutsche Sayer, which I commanded at that time, comprising the Newcomb Guards, Emmett Guards, and Cannelton Artillery, were immediately called out, and the guerrillas left the town before day-break, without doing much damage, and fell back on Yelvington, in the back part of Hancock county. The alarm once created, almost every company volunteered to keep a night guard in the towns and along the border. This was done for several successive weeks, until we were assured that the robber band had gone to join the Southern enemy. In October a new appeal was made for help, by Captain Ritchie, commanding the Clay Guards, at Hawesville. Guerrillas had again invaded the town in the night, and succeeded in capturing several of the company, arms, and ammunition. I crossed immediately to Hawesville, with a small force, such as could be collected in a hurry, but, as always, the birds had fled.

The principal citizens of Hawesville were then notified that I should hold them and their town responsible for all outrages committed upon Union men. From his Excellency, Governor Boyle, of Kentucky, I received full authority to act in any emergency. Nothing occurred of further notice until in June, 1862, when large forces collected in Davies, Hancock, and Breckinridge counties. Troops were sent from Louisville to Henderson and Greensboro, and a Provost Marshal appointed in each county. Two days after the appointment of Major Stout as Provost Marshal of Hancock county, he called on me again for help against a company who were forming on the Hartford road. With a company from Cannelton, I crossed the river, and with the aid of Captain Ritchie's company and Captain Lightfoot's company of mounted infantry, we succeeded in dispersing the rebels, taking thirteen prisoners, who were sent to Colonel Dent, at Louisville. Afterward, six more were taken who were in the neighborhood, and also sent to Louisville. This checked them up a little, but on the 17th of September they commenced the same game. Bands had actually formed on a larger scale than ever, and they succeeded in taking Owensboro on the 10th of September, from where they were driven by the Spencer County Legion, a portion of which I commanded that day under Colonel Crooks. After being routed the next day by Colonel Crooks at Panther Creek, they fell back into Hancock and Breckinridge counties, and prepared to attack Colonel Shanks at Cloverport. As soon as I received a messenger from him, I repaired there with two companies, the Tobin Guards and the Rome Legion, about one hundred and forty men. We stayed in camp until Sunday morning, when, receiving positive news that the guerrillas had gone south again and crossed Greene river, we crossed the river, leaving to Colonel Shanks a piece of artillery with ammunition, which he kept there until his regiment was consolidated with that of the unfortunate Colonel Miller. Since then we have had but little trouble. Floating rumors, and the attack on Newburg, raised sometimes an excitement, but nothing happened of any consequence. My command has always been ready and willing to go and fight wherever their services were needed, and will do so in future, for which we are (thanks to your efforts, General,) well prepared.

The regiment was commanded in the first by Colonel Charles Mason, who resigned in November, 1861, when the command was given to me by his Excellency, Governor Morton. The regiment now consists of sixteen regularly organized companies, all provided with arms and ammunition, and numbering about eight hundred and fifty experienced men, most of whom are tolerably well drilled.

Hoping that this report is according to order,

I remain, General, respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

CHARLES FOURNIER,
Colonel Fifth Regiment, Indiana Legion.

COLONEL JOHN P. MORGAN,

COMMANDING SIXTH REGIMENT, (Divided,) SECOND BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

Indiana Legion,
Headquarters, Sixth Regiment,
Leavenworth, Crawford County.

Major-General Love:

Sir:—In compliance with your order, I make the following report of the operations of the Legion in Crawford county.

On the 8th day of September, 1862, I was commissioned Colonel of the Sixth Regiment, Indiana Legion. On the 23d September last, the excitement on the border was intense; the people in the town of Leavenworth and vicinity believed that an invasion upon the town was probable, and they demanded that I would call a sufficient number of companies to picket the place.

I therefore ordered Captain Girdner and Captain Vandevers to report their commands at the town of Leavenworth on the 24th of September. They, with their companies, reported as ordered, and remained in camp three days.

The danger being past, the companies were discharged, and they returned home.

On the 25th of September you visited our county, and placed in the hands of the auditor one three-inch rifled cannon and two hundred muskets. The cannon was placed in the hands of Captain G. W. Lyon's company. A portion of the muskets were distributed to the companies of the Legion, the balance is in the hands of the auditor.

There are five organized companies of the Legion in this county; for three of which the officers are commissioned, in the other two elections were held, returns made, but no commissions came to the officers.

There are one hundred stands of arms, sent by our representative, the late Captain Sloan, without any fixtures, &c.; one hundred stands of arms placed in the hands of Captain G. W. Lyon by General Love; two hundred Austrian rifle muskets placed in the hands of the auditor by General Love on the 25th day of September, 1862, and also one three-inch rifled cannon. These being the total amount of arms in the county.

I have no means by which to determine the amount of ammunition that has been left to the county.

General, hoping that the above may prove satisfactory,

I am, with great respect,

Yours truly,

JOHN P. MORGAN,

Colonel.

E. C. Caldwell, Adjutant.

COLONEL LEWIS JORDAN,

COMMANDING SIXTH REGIMENT, (PROPER,) SECOND BRIGADE.

INDIANA LEGION,
HEADQUARTERS SIXTH REGIMENT,
Corydon, January 1, 1863.

To Major-General LOVE:

The undersigned, Colonel of the Sixth Regiment, Second Brigade, of the Indiana Legion, would respectfully report the operations and condition of the regiment from its organization to the present time.

From the passage of the Legion Act to November 1, 1861, there were ten companies organized, numbering at that time 535 members. Since that date to November 1, 1862, there have been two companies organized, one of which is a cavalry company. The Sannia Guards have disbanded within the last year, all but seventeen having volunteered in the United States service, and those seventeen having been transferred to other companies of the Legion. For the first eight months after the first organization of the companies of the Legion, they drilled regularly two or three times a week, since that time they have regularly drilled, with but few exceptions, once a week, until within the last month. Some are drilling semi-monthly and some monthly, at the present time, with the exception of the Rosewood Guards, from whom I have no information for some time past. At least 600 have volunteered from the ranks of the Legion in the United States service. The number of the members of the Legion in this regiment on the 1st day of November, 1862, was 721. We have had four regimental drills the past year. On the approach of danger on our border, on the 20th of September last, I called out the regiment and encamped at Mauckport, in our county, on the Ohio river, for seven days. The rebels, or at least a guerrilla band, having previously occupied Brandenburg, Ky., some thirty or forty Union refugees having escaped to our side of the river. The rebels having just previously stormed Munfordsville, and occupying Elizabethtown, Ky., some twenty-five or thirty miles distant, and there being very great danger of a raid through our county, the river being fordable in several places bordering our county. The refugees wishing to return to their families at Brandenburg, I sent 250 men, under command of Lieutenant-Colonel Irwin and Adjutant Hith, who crossed about one o'clock on the morning of the 25th of September, took possession of the town, and planted the flag on the Court House; having taken twelve prisoners, who took the oath and were released. A company of Webb's cavalry coming in, Lieutenant-Colonel Irvin, with his command, returned to this side of the river. The town has ever since remained in Union hands, and quiet seems to be restored on our border. The quarter-master, under my direction, furnished provisions, provender, and other necessary articles for the regiment, cavalry company, &c., while encamped. His bill, amounting to $426 82, is less than his outlay, as he deducted such articles as were left on hand, believing that the bill would be promptly paid, without unnecessary delay, as has been caused. He has visited Indianapolis, and was then promised the money immediately on my certifying the facts, which was done. He paid the greater portion of the bills, believing that his money would be immediately forwarded to him, as the Adjutant-General informed him that this would be done. But such has not proved to be the case. Payment, I understand, has been suspended. The delay and suspension is rather severe, and is more than he should individually lose. Why the Adjutant could not properly inform him of the facts as they have transpired, is a mystery. His expenses have been no small item, besides his loss of time in trying to get his just dues. Your attention to this matter I will take as a great favor.

Two companies were called upon and sent to the Fort at Salt river, Ky., to aid the United States forces, when there seemed to be danger, and remained while it was necessary. Previous to this time four companies, under my order, went to Mauckport, Ky., where they remained two days, there being seemingly great danger, at least sufficient to warrant me in such a course. The companies immediately on the river have been watchful and have taken such time as was necessary to prevent any threatened danger, which has been no small matter to them in the way of time. The law under which the Legion organizes requires the Treasurer of State to set apart annually for 1861 and 1862 $70,000, to be drawn by counties in proportion to the numbers in each, &c., which is to be paid to the County Treasurers. Our County Treasurer has demanded the money and failed to procure any part thereof. In November, 1861, a list of the number of members in each company, was sworn to by each company commander, and returned to the Adjutant-General by me and under his direction. Therefore, our companies have found themselves every way and never received a cent from the State. Why it is I am unable to tell. I have understood from Lieutenant-Colonel Irvin, that an arrangement was made at Camp Burnside for the money due the regiments, to be sent to their respective colonels. I have since had no information on the subject. Your careful attention to this matter is earnestly requested and will be thankfully received.

The condition of the regiment is good. The companies are all armed, with the exception of the Rosewood Guards, and the new company lately organized, the Scott Rifles, their officers not being commissioned. The arms are in good condition. We have on hand a sufficiency of ammunition for ordinary purposes. A supply of blank cartridges has just been received.

In reference to an efficient military law, the Legion law should be amended so as to require those who fail to attend and drill to be placed under arrest, and such a mode adopted as to compel a full attendance at all drills. Also a law should be enacted requiring the sedentary militia to drill at regular stated times, under such penalties as would insure their attendance. If this is done, it would fill up the ranks of the Legion, as most persons would prefer to drill with officers of experience. If the Governor's order requiring all to drill had continued to the present time, this regiment of the Legion would now number one thousand members; of this I have no doubt. For this reason, if a proper law is enacted you can foresee its effects.

Respectfully reported,

LEWIS JORDAN, Sr.,

Colonel Sixth Regt., Second Brigade, Ind. Legion.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL JOHN L. MANSFIELD,

THIRD BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

INDIANA LEGION,
HEADQUARTERS THIRD BRIGADE,
Madison, December 25, 1862.

Major-General JOHN LOVE:

SIR:—I have the honor to transmit to you, in accordance with your order, the reports of Colonels Sering, Brown, and Willey, whose regiments constitute parts of the Third Brigade, Indiana Legion. The report of Lieutenant-Colonel Templeton (Tenth Regiment), belonging to the same brigade, has already been forwarded to you. You will observe that some of these reports fail to give an exact statement of the numerical forces of their regiments. This is owing to the fact that removals from the county and enlistments in the United States service, exonerate our members from service in the Legion, while, at the same time, drills and musters, in ordinary times, can be held only at proper intervals with troops who receive no compensation, unless when called into active service.

It will appear from these reports that the Third Brigade, since its organization, has rendered important services to the State, and that it has been a great saving, financially, by superseding the necessity of keeping a regular force for the protection of our border. As early as the middle of September, 1861, when General Buckner threatened Louisville, companies of infantry and artillery of the Ninth Regiment reported themselves to General Anderson, at Louisville, at his request; and an artillery company of the Eighth, jointly with one of the Seventh Regiment, were permanently stationed on the Indiana shore, opposite the mouth of Salt river. About the same time, or soon after, when rebel camps had been established in Owen county, Kentucky, the troops of the Ninth and Tenth, together with our loyal citizens under the command of officers of the Legion, performed serious guard duty along our border.

Again, during the latter part of May, 1862, troops of the Third Brigade were ordered to Camp Morton to relieve the United States troops who were guarding some 4,000 rebel prisoners there, and finally they entered the three months' service of the United States.

On the 10th of June, 1862, another part of the Third Brigade was called into active service for sixty days, for the same purpose of guarding prisoners at Indianapolis.

But the most important service was rendered by that Brigade during the month of September of the present year. Cincinnati, and the border counties of Indiana were threatened by General Kirby Smith, while General Bragg was marching on Louisville. All the regular forces which could be spared from Indiana were sent to Louisville. The Ohio river, between Cincinnati and Louisville, was in many places fordable for horse and foot, and bands of guerrillas and recruiting parties could be seen from our side moving on the Kentucky shore. The citizens of Indiana obeyed, promptly and cheerfully, the proclamation of our Governor, but it could not be expected of them that they should, by day and by night, guard the fords and repel with military discipline any attempt at invasion. It was on this occasion (September 12th), that I called, with the consent of his Excellency, Governor Morton, two companies of infantry and one of artillery, of the Ninth Regiment, into active service, to guard some of the most exposed fording places of the Ohio river. The infantry were discharged after two weeks service, on the arrival of Colonel J. O. Gray, with two companies of cavalry and four companies of infantry. After that time, the Eighth, Ninth and Tenth Regiments of the Legion, in conjunction with Colonel Gray's forces, formed a nucleus for our armed citizens to offer a systematic resistence to any invasion across the Ohio river; and I am convinced that these defensive preparations have prevented any attempt being made to invade our State in this section of country.

In conclusion, I beg leave to state that the citizens, officers, and soldiers of the Third Brigade, have shown on all occasions, a highly patriotic spirit, ready to serve their country whenever they are called on, and displaying the order and discipline of true soldiers.

Your obedient servant,

JOHN L. MANSFIELD,
Brig. Gen. Com. Third Brigade, Ind. Legion.

COLONEL E. A. MAGINNESS,

COMMANDING SEVENTH REGIMENT, THIRD BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

INDIANA LEGION,
HEADQUARTERS SEVENTH REGIMENT,
New Albany, December 11, 1862.

Major-General JOHN LOVE, Indianapolis:

GENERAL:—I have the honor to report that I came into command of the Legion for this county on the 6th of September, 1862. At this time our border was threatened by the rapid approach of the rebels toward Louisville, and the people were consequently greatly alarmed and excited. The Governor of the State had called out the militia of the border counties, to organize as directed by his proclamation.

The Legion in this county formed a nucleus for a rapid and tolerably effective organization; and during the time when the danger seemed imminent, the companies performed good service in guarding the gunboat building here, and the Government property which had been removed from Louisville for safety.

On entering upon the command, I found the Legion very much disorganized; the alarm consequent upon the invasion of Kentucky, gave it a temporary vitality, but the danger having passed, it sank into a condition of lethargy from which I think nothing less than some impending calamity can arouse it. To account for this condition, and at the same time to render justice to the Legion, it will be necessary to review briefly its progress from its organization.

I am without data, and can only approximate in statements of time and numbers.

The Legion in this county was organized under the command of Colonel B. F. Scribner, during the spring of 1861, and consisted of some eighteen companies, and numbered about 900 men. Almost all of these were uniformed, but not over one-third were armed. For the first four months the companies made great progress in drilling and discipline; but after that time the delay in arming them caused great dissatisfaction, and the formation of the Twenty-Third and Thirty-Eighth Regiments absorbed a great many of the officers and men of the Legion who had taken the most active interest in its organization. In fact, there was not a company that had not lost some, and several of them had lost all, of their officers. The result was that the greater number of the companies were disorganized and all of them demoralized. But if the Legion had done nothing else, it had so far served a noble purpose in educating many young men for service in the field, and in infusing a martial enthusiasm into the people, fraught with the happiest results, in assisting to build up our national army.

From Colonel Scribner the command passed to Colonel W. W. Tuley. When General Anderson was called to duty in Kentucky, he desired Colonel Tuley to send Knapp's Artillery to a point opposite the mouth of Salt river, and keep it supported by at least one company of infantry. The artillery was accordingly sent and kept there about three months. During that time three infantry companies of the Legion were at different times on service at that point. Two of these companies have been partially paid, but two of them have received no pay whatever.

During Colonel Tuley's administration, one company of infantry was sent to Indianapolis to guard prisoners, and continued in that service some months. But, with the exception of these companies, the Legion was utterly broken up, and when I came into command I found even these companies very much shattered, nor have I the pleasure at this time to report evidences of a more restored condition.

I have stated above the causes which first injuriously affected the Legion in this county; the neglect to distribute the appropriation, by withholding from it material aid, to which it was justly entitled, and reasonably expected, also conspired to assist its downfall. But these causes only hastened its decay. I am satisfied that under the most favorable auspices the Legion could not have enjoyed a continued prosperity under the law that gave it birth. This law is utterly and fatally defective, insomuch as it discovers no inducements to allure, nor penalties to compel, men to join the organization. I will not, however, enumerate its defects. The entire law is a conglomeration of folly and absurdity, and worthy only of condemnation. Amendments can not clothe it even with respectability; it should be repealed, and a new law enacted that will enable the State to rely at all times upon an efficient military force of at least 20,000 men.

You have done me the honor, General, to request suggestions as to the requirements for a more efficient military law. I regret that the nature of my engagements have been such as to prevent me from giving the subject the thought which it demands, but I will state a few suggestions that occur to me at the present moment.

The law should be compulsory, so far as to insure the organization of at least 20,000 men; this might be done by compelling all between certain ages, (say between 21 and 30) to belong to the organization.

The entire force should be governed by a uniform military law; and attendance to company meetings, and in fact, obedience to all orders of officers, should be enforced by the most stringent penalties.

Provision should be made in regard to the removal or punishment of officers who may be inattentive, or incompetent to discharge their duties.

The State should uniform the entire force, excepting commissioned officers, whose uniform should be prescribed, and should hold the men responsible for the care and preservation of the uniform.

Battalion drills should occupy one-half day every two weeks.

The companies should not consist of over sixty, nor less than fifty men, and six companies should comprise a regiment. This arrangement would be the best adapted for the convenience of neighborhoods.

The regiments would be small, but as they would not be subjected to the diseases of active service, they would always remain of the same strength, and be kept under stricter discipline.

I submit these crude thoughts to you, General, for whatever they may be worth. I am fully satisfied that the committee of which you are chairman, will be able to draft a law worthy of the times and of the State, whether the Legislature will pass it, is a different thing.

I submit herewith a report in regard to the arms, &c., furnished the county.

In conclusion allow me to respectfully urge upon you the necessity and justice of a speedy distribution of the military fund. The Legion here has incurred many expenses for armory rent, gas, music, &c., which should be paid; the honor of the State requires that these debts should be paid without further delay, and the future prosperity of the Legion depends in a great measure upon the assistance it will receive from the fund appropriated for its benefit.

I remain, General, very truly yours,

EDMUND A. MAGINNESS,

Colonel, Indiana Legion.

OF

COLONEL JOHN F. WILLEY,

COMMANDING EIGHTH REGIMENT, THIRD BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

INDIANA LEGION,
JEFFERSONVILLE, INDIANA,
December 4, 1842.

General JOHN F. MANSFIELD,
Commanding Eighth Regiment, Indiana Legion.

GENERAL:—Inclosed I send you a full report of the strength and condition of the Eighth Regiment, Indiana Legion.

I have but recently taken command, and you must pardon me for any errors I may commit in my report, as it is the first. Our condition would immediately brighten if we had an efficient militia law. The Legion has been of great service during the fall, in guarding the shoals on the Ohio, such as the Grassy flats, guarded by company A, Captain B. S. Henderson, and others.

We are a terror to those in our midst, who would sympathize with rebellion. I hope you will use your influence to secure that law.

We will not call the battalion together, unless ordered to do so, until April next, when we would be happy to see you, and will give you notice of the time and place.

I am, General, yours respectfully,

JOHN F. WILLEY,
Colonel, Com'd. Eighth Regt., Ind. Legion

COLONEL SAMUEL B. SERING,

COMMANDING NINTH REGIMENT, THIRD BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

INDIANA LEGION,
HEADQUARTERS NINTH REGIMENT,
Madison, December 24, 1862.

To General JOHN L. MANSFIELD,
Commanding Third Brigade, Indiana Legion:

SIR:—In compliance with your order, I have the honor to submit the following imperfect report of the operations of the Ninth Regiment, Indiana Legion, since its organization:

This regiment was partially organized in the spring of 1861, under the command of the late Colonel John A. Hendricks, who was actively engaged in the discharge of this duty, when he was called to a more useful position in the Twenty-Second Regiment, Indiana Volunteers.

On the 30th day of August, 1861, I received authority from his Excellency, Governor Morton, to take command of this regiment, and at once entered upon the discharge of this duty. At that time the regiment was composed of ten companies of infantry and one of artillery. But one company of infantry had received arms, and the "Western Artillery Company," Captain Israel Fowler, had in their possession one regular 6-pounder smooth-bore gun, and two irregular sized brass guns, without the ordinary equipments and accoutrements necessary for an artillery company. Previous to this time, some five hundred United States muskets had been distributed to independent companies in the county.

On the 19th of September, 1861, a message was received requesting that the artillery company, and as many of the infantry as were willing to go, should report at once to General Anderson, at Louisville, (that city being threatened by the advance of rebel troops under General Buckner.) The artillery company, under the command of Lieutenant Z. M. Crawford, and the "Madison Zouaves," Captain Purcell, responded to the call, (there being no other companies of the regiment armed;) also, a portion of the independent companies of the city. This small force proceeded to Louisville, and reported as directed. The danger having passed, and their services not being needed at Louisville, they returned home. About this time, a considerable force of rebel troops were encamped in Owen county, Kentucky, some twenty miles from this city, and recruiting for the Southern army was progressing in the county opposite. It was deemed necessary to guard closely this portion of the border, and to hold in readiness all the military force at our command, to meet any emergency. Six companies of this regiment, having been furnished with arms, rendered valuable assistance in furnishing guards, and held themselves in readiness to march to any point where their services might be required.

From this period to the 26th day of May, 1862, but little service was required of this regiment, except their regular drills and parades. On the 26th of May, 1862, an order was received to furnish three companies of infantry, from this regiment, to guard prisoners at Camp Morton, Indianapolis. The "Madison Zouaves," Captain Purcell, the "Washington Grays," Captain Comley, and the "Shelby Grays," Captain Woodfill, responded to this call, and proceeded at once to Indianapolis, where they were mustered into the service of the United States for three months. After remaining at Camp Morton some two weeks, they were ordered into Kentucky. Captain Comley's company was detailed for duty on the line of the Louisville and Nashville railroad; Captain Woodfill's and Captain Purcell's companies were part of the Fifty-Fourth Regiment, Indiana Volunteers, and were engaged in the battle of Richmond, where they acquitted themselves with credit. Captain Comley's company did valuable service on the line of the Nashville railroad, until the expiration of their term of service.

About the 10th of June, 1862, this regiment was again called upon to furnish three more companies of infantry to guard prisoners at Camp Morton, Indianapolis. The "Saluda Guards," Captain Monroe, the "Bee Camp Guards," Captain Richardson, and the "Middle-Fork Guards," Captain Patten, responded to this call, and at once proceeded to Camp Morton, where they served some sixty days, when the prisoners were exchanged, and their services no longer required. Captain Monroe's company was sent, with a portion of the prisoners, to Vicksburg, Mississippi, and was absent on this duty about one month.

About the 1st of September, 1862, our border was again threatened by the advance of rebel troops under the command of Generals Kirby Smith, Bragg, and others; and there being rebel camps in our immediate vicinity, in Kentucky, it was deemed necessary to call into active service a portion of the regiment.

On the 12th of September, 1862, by your order, the Western Artillery Company, Captain Fowler, the Bee Camp Guards, Captain Richardson, and the Middle-Fork Guards, Captain Patten, were called into active service for a period of two weeks, unless sooner discharged. This force was posted at points along the river, in this county, and served the time required. The Western Artillery company was retained in service one month, when they were discharged. Since that time this regiment has not been required to do any active duty. But I take pleasure in stating that they hold themselves in readiness to obey your orders, and to go to any point where their services may be required.

Not knowing that I would be required to furnish a report of the unimportant military operations of this regiment, I have not taken the trouble to keep a memorandum that I could refer to, to enable me to make a more acceptable report.

I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,

SAMUEL B. SERING,
Colonel Commanding.

COLONEL KENNEDY BROWN,

COMMANDING NINTH REGIMENT, (NUMBERED IMPROPERLY,)
THIRD BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

INDIANA LEGION,
VERNON, IND., December 19, 1862.

General MANSFIELD:

SIR:—I herewith present a report of the operations and condition of the Ninth Regiment, Indiana Legion, since July 13, 1862. At that time I was Major of the Regiment, but was shortly after promoted to Colonel. At that time it was called upon to go to Indianapolis to guard prisoners, then in Camp Morton. On or about the 15th or 16th, I took to Indianapolis six hundred and fifty rank and file. My command was called upon for one month, but owing to the emergency of the times, was kept six weeks, giving, I think, full satisfaction by the services rendered.

We were mustered out of the United States service on the 31st of August. Since that time nothing of importance has been done, excepting drills, unless it was on one occasion, when I was ordered to hold my command in readiness to march at a moment's warning. In less than eighteen hours after I received the order, my command was massed at Vernon, ready to go wherever called or needed.

Some six or seven companies now have arms, all of which are in good order.

The Ninth Regiment now numbers over seven hundred men and officers.

One company of the regiment offered their services to the Government to go down the Mississippi river with the exchanged prisoners. They were gone some four weeks, lost but few men, and those by sickness, except one, who, it was thought, was shoved overboard by some of the prisoners.

Hoping that this very imperfect report may be satisfactorily received, as it is, under the circumstances, as correct as I can possibly make it.

I remain,

K. BROWN,

Colonel Com'd. Ninth Regiment, Indiana Legion.

LIEUT.-COLONEL JESSE J. STEPLETON,

COMMANDING TENTH REGIMENT, THIRD BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

INDIANA LEGION,
VEVAY, IND., December 12, 1862.

Major-General LOVE, Indiana Legion:

SIR:—The Tenth Regiment, Indiana Legion, was organized in the year 1861, and has drilled according to orders since that time.

It was called upon to do duty at Indianapolis to guard rebel prisoners, to which it responded to, and has always been ready since its organization, when called upon by the Governor of the State, to do duty.

At the time of invasion in Kentucky by the rebel generals, Bragg and Kirby Smith, it was called upon by Governor Morton to hold itself in readiness to go to Louisville, Kentucky, which call it also responded to. We had a force of eight hundred men belonging to the Tenth Regiment, Indiana Legion, ready to go, commanded by the Lieutenant-Colonel of the regiment (J. J. Stepleton), the Colonel being absent at that time on military duty at Covington, Kentucky.

The Tenth Regiment, Indiana Legion, was called on at one time to go to Warsaw, Ky., for the protection of that place, and our border counties, which it did, and did good service in keeping back a large force of rebel guerrillas in 1861.

We have eight companies belonging regularly to the Tenth Regiment Indiana Legion. There have been quite a number, since its organization, gone into the three years' service. The three companies in the county belonging to Craig township, have done, I think, more service than any other companies in the regiment; especially at the time of the rebel raid in Kentucky. Captains Samuel Pavey, John Lancaster, and Lemuel Liepenthall, deserve credit for the promptness which they and their companies, manifested at the time of the late troubles in Kentucky. They laid upon the banks of the Ohio river every night for three weeks, and I can truly say that those times demanded that such a watch should be kept; it was so kept until Bragg's army retreated some distance through Kentucky. Therefore, we would most sincerely ask the Legislature to see that the Tenth Regiment, Indiana Legion, be paid for the services they have rendered to the Government and the State of Indiana, on its borders.

The regiment is still under very good organization, but we ask that there be some change in the law governing the Indiana Legion, so that it will give us power to act with more promptness.

And we ask, "Why we are not entitled to pay for our services rendered as aforesaid?" As we think, that if any Legion Regiment has done its portion of duty, the Tenth has done its share, if not more.

JESSE J. STEPLETON,
Lieut.-Col. Com'd. Tenth Regiment, Indiana Legion.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL A. C. DOWNEY,

BRIGADIER-GENERAL FOURTH BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

INDIANA LEGION,
HEADQUARTERS FOURTH BRIGADE,
Rising Sun, December 15, 1862.

Major-General JOHN LOVE,
Commanding Indiana Legion.

Agreeably to your order, I submit the following report of the operations of the Legion under my command. I received a commission from the Governor, dated the 1st day of November, 1861, was sworn into office and assumed command, my Brigade embracing, as I was informed, the counties of Ohio, Dearborn, Franklin, Ripley, Decatur and Shelby. Though I have recommended it, I believe there have never been any field officers appointed in any counties except Ohio and Dearborn, and there is now only a Colonel in each of them. Nor have the few companies in the other counties rendered any service, with the exception of the company of Captain Hill, of Milan, in Ripley county, which was in service for a short time at Aurora.

At first there was no Colonel in Dearborn county, the gentleman appointed having refused to accept and the Lieutenant-Colonel taking little interest in the Legion, shortly afterward resigned. In consequence of this, I appointed Colonel Pattison, at Aurora, to command the forces at that point, and by consent, of Colonel Burkam, (afterward appointed Colonel in Dearborn county,) Colonel Pattison continued in command for a short time after Colonel Burkam's appointment.

In the absence of Colonel Pattison, with my approbation Dr. R. C. Bond was in command at that point.

I spent considerable time in efforts to organize additional companies in the Legion in the border counties; and to promote the efficiency of those already formed, but the constant reduction of the members in the companies by volunteering, and the absence of any inducement in the militia law to go into such companies, were serious obstacles in the way.

On the 11th of July, 1862, I was ordered by the Governor to call upon the officers in my Brigade, and have all companies in readiness at their earliest moment, and to report what could be done. In obedience to this order, I called upon the officers named, and procured from them a statement, showing, 1st. The number of men mustered and sworn into each company; 2d. The number absent in the service, and otherwise unavoidable; 3d. The number ready for duty.

This information I furnished the Governor. At the same time I urged upon the officers the necessity of filling up the companies and the formation of new ones.

About the 19th of July, 1862, there appeared to be so much danger of lawless incursions, that it was deemed advisable to keep out guards along the river, and particularly at the cities. I accordingly issued an order to Colonel H. T. Williams, of Ohio county, to take command of the companies of the Legion, as well as other volunteer companies, and make such disposition as might be necessary in his county, for defense and protection. About the same time, I placed Colonel Pattison in command of the forces at Aurora, leaving Lieutenant-Colonel Roberts to command at Lawrenceburg.

On the 24th of July, 1862, application was made to me by the Provost Marshal at Burlington, Kentucky, for forces to guard him, his house, and the town against an anticipated attack by rebels in force in his county. Not considering that my power extended to sending my forces out of the State, I telegraphed Governor

Morton, then at Lawrenceburg, and he directed me to send the guard.

I accordingly authorized Colonel Williams to send the necessary number of men, which he did, but he sent only such as volunteered to go. On the next day, learning from Burlington that additional forces were necessary, I made a request that some men be sent from Lawrenceburg and Aurora. I failed to get any from Aurora, for the reason that there was no officer there to take command. From Lawrenceburg about one hundred men volunteered, and were in readiness in a few minutes, and under command of Colonel Spooner and Captain Farquhar, very promptly reported to the Provost Marshal at Burlington, where they remained till next day, when the threatened danger being passed, they, and the forces from Ohio, returned home.

On the 6th of September, 1862, in obedience to your order of that date, I caused to be secured on the Indiana shore all water crafts which could be made available for crossing the troops over the river, collecting them at points along the river, and placing guards over them. Under this order the ferry boats were allowed to run during the day, but were required to lie at this side of the river at night.

On the 11th of September, 1862, the danger of the improper use being made of the ferry boats was so great, that I gave orders to commanders at Rising Sun, Aurora, and Lawrenceburg, to take possession of the ferry boats and put them under guard on this side, and allow no crossing of the river except by persons known to be loyal, and for proper purposes.

On the 8th of September, 1862, I received a dispatch from the Governor, dated at Cincinnati, directing me to call out my forces and watch every point where the river could be forded between Lawrenceburg and Vevay. I immediately ordered out all companies in this and Dearborn counties, my authority not extending to Switzerland, and by your directions in a dispatch of the 9th, they were furnished subsistence, &c., by their respective regimental quarter-masters.

On the 15th of September, 1862, by order of the Governor, four companies of the Eighty-Third Regiment, Indiana Volunteers, then at Lawrenceburg, were sent to this place, and placed under my command; the rebel army being then on the Lexington and Covington turnpike. The night before the rebels had a small force of infantry, cavalry, and artillery at Hamilton, on the river, eight miles below Rising Sun.

These companies were placed under command of Colonel Williams, and were assigned to duty according to my directions. The expense of their subsistence was paid in part by their own officers, and in part they were provided by Colonel Williams, regimental quarter-master.

About this date, I received from Captain Grisard, of Vevay, a single piece of artillery, which you had ordered him to send to me. I organized a squad of volunteers to take charge of it, of which Lieutenant M. K. Haines, formerly of the Second Indiana Battery, took command, and to whom I am much obliged.

On the 15th, I ordered Captain Craig, of Lawrenceburg, to this point with his two pieces of artillery, preferring this to calling on the artillery at Aurora, which was nearer to this point, because Lawrenceburg did not appear so much exposed as Aurora. Captain Craig and his men, then in camp at Lawrenceburg, responded promptly to my call, and performed cheerfully the duties assigned them.

On the 19th of September, 1862, you communicated to me the Governor's order that I should use my discretion as to the discharge of the companies; and the rebel forces in the adjacent parts of Kentucky having retired, and there seeming to be no longer any necessity to retain the companies in camp, I discharged the companies of the Legion, and on the 21st I returned the four companies of the Eighty-Third Regiment to Lawrenceburg.

On the 22d of September, 1862, when the rebel General Bragg was approaching Louisville, I was again ordered to hold my command in readiness to march at a moment's warning, which order I obeyed, and though the men had nothing as an outfit but their guns and accoutrements, they were held in readiness to march till the 25th of September, when I was advised by the Governor that the crisis had passed. Since the last named date, there has been entire quiet along the border in front of my command.

I wish to bear testimony to the ability and efficiency of the officers in my command, and to the prompt and cheerful manner in which the members of the companies, and many citizens who were not members of any company, when our border was threatened, engaged, and while the danger lasted continued in the service.

I appointed Joseph B. Pepper my Aid-de-Camp, with the rank of Captain. He has shown ability and willingness to perform the duties of the position.

Much may be done to increase the efficiency of the Legion by proper amendments of the law. There must be some inducements to go into the companies, either by way of exemption from other burdens, or by bounty, or by both. Whatever the inducement may be, it must be a continuing one, so that it will have the effect not only to impel men to join the companies, but to continue in them, and discharge the duties which result from membership. It can not be expected that men will long give up their other employments, and spend their money to get up and maintain military organizations, without some inducement. When it is remembered that there has been no distribution of the military fund, expressly appropriated to defray the expenses of the Legion, when they have, on the contrary, had to defray these expenses out of their own means, and when it is known what a large per cent. of the men of the Legion have gone as volunteers in the three years' service, it is wonderful that the organization has kept up as well as it has.

The law should provide a short and efficient means of compelling attendance of members at drill, &c. Its provisions on this subject are circuitous and inefficient. The law provides for swearing the members of companies after the election, and it is said, in many instances, that those who have signed the articles of association, not getting an office, have refused to take the oath. It is suggested to me that the oath should be administered first, and the election held afterward. Other amendments might be suggested in regard to the organization of companies. The process ought to be greatly simplified.

I send you herewith the reports of Colonel Williams, of Ohio county, and Colonel Burkam, of Dearborn county.

I am, General, very respectfully yours,

A. C. DOWNEY,
General Fourth Brigade, Indiana Legion.

COLONEL H. T. WILLIAMS,

COMMANDING ELEVENTH REGIMENT, FOURTH BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

To Brigadier-General A. C. Downey,
Commanding Fourth Brigade, Indiana Legion:

Sir:—I respectfully submit the following report of the condition of the Eleventh Regiment, amount of service rendered by the several companies belonging to it, and other forces temporarily under my command:

I assumed command of the regiment about the 15th of September, 1861, and proceeded at once to organize the regiment by appointing the commissioned and non-commissioned officers of my staff, and designating a time and place for battalion drill. I found the three companies then organized in a good state of discipline, considering the short time they had been organized. Nor were they called upon to perform any service, save that of company and battalion drill, during that fall and winter.

On the 24th of July, 1862, I was ordered to send one company of my command to Burlington, Kentucky, to assist the Provost Marshal in making some arrests, and to repel an expected attack upon the place that night, and to have another company ready to move to their support at the earliest possible moment in the morning. I ordered Lieutenant Culbert, of the Union Rifles, to collect his command and proceed to Burlington as soon as possible, which was promptly obeyed; and, at the same time, dispatched a messenger directing Captain Barcellow, of the Rough and Ready Rifles, to have his company in town, and ready to move at any moment. At or about daylight he reported, with his company, for orders; but from information received during the night, it was thought unnecessary to send other forces there. Lieutenant Culbert remained two days, made several arrests, and returned without meeting with any serious difficulty.

On the 28th of July, 1862, there were two companies, of eighty men each, organized under the provisions of our ordinance, passed by the council of the city of Rising Sun, and attached to my command for a home guard, the first under Captain R. G. Young, the second under command of Captain Mark Breadbury, both of which, as well as the Union Rifles, performed a great amount of hard and laborious service prior to the ordering of the other companies into camp, rendered necessary, as I conceived, by the close proximity of a company of guerrillas, whose headquarters were within twelve miles of us, in Kentucky, and the disloyal feeling of a large majority of the people immediately opposite us; and an exhibit is herewith filed, marked A, taken from the morning reports of the several companies, the immediate command of which, for police purposes, had been assigned to Adjutant Whitlock.

On the 8th of September, 1862, I was directed to provide suitable quarters for the three companies of my command, belonging to the Legion, so that Regimental Quarter-Masters could furnish subsistence, and order them into camp at the earliest period. Two of them, the Union Rifles and the Hartford Rifles, went into camp the next day; the Rough and Ready Rifles on the day following. In the meantime, Quarter-Master Scoggin had made complete provision for their accommodation. Captains Young's and Breadbury's companies were not required to go into camp, but contiued to furnish their share of men for guard duty at night; the residue of the company sleeping in the armory. For the number of men, and length of time in camp, you are referred to the regimental report herewith filed, marked B.

On the same day, I was ordered to take prompt measures to secure, upon this side of the Ohio river, all water crafts which could be made available for crossing troops to this side of the river, and to keep them under guard; which was promptly obeyed, and every thing in the shape of a boat brought to this point, destroying such as were not willingly given up.

On the 9th of September, 1862, I was ordered to place a strong guard at every point opposite my county, where the enemy could ford the river, as it was as yet uncertain where they would strike; but that a crossing must be prevented. I immediately detailed Captain Joseph Thompson, with a squad of men, to make an accurate sounding of the several shoal places in the river, opposite Ohio county, which developed the fact that there were three points with less than three feet of water, two of which could be forded with perfect safety. At each of these I posted a strong guard during the day; at night a full company, with pickets on the other side, to signal us on the approach of the enemy On the same day, in accordance with notice previously given, I organized two companies of militia in Randolph township, in obedience to an order issued by the Governor on the 5th of September. The first, under the command of Captain George Brown, with instructions to establish his headquarters at some point on the Ohio river, between this city and the line dividing Ohio and Dearborn counties. To keep a strong guard posted on the river bank, and so distributed as to form a continuous line, connecting the forces stationed here with those of Dearborn county. The second company was placed under the command of Captain A. Williams, stationed at Millersburg, with instructions to extend his line of pickets so as to connect with the forces of Switzerland county. Both of these companies rendered valuable and efficient service, in guarding remote parts of our line.

The forces then in camp, under my command, consisted of the following:

1st, Company A, Captain J. C. Wells, Union Rifles.
2d, Company E, Captain J. R. Cole, Hartford Rifles.
3d, Company C, Captain J. A. Baricklow, Rough and Ready Guards.
4th, Company B, Captain R. G. Young, First Cavalry Guards.
5th, Company D, Captain B. M. Enock, Second Cavalry Guards.
With Lieutenant Harris' section of artillery.

For the number of men in the respective camps, and the length of time they were in camp, you are referred to regimental reports herewith filed and marked, although we specified in our details for the day, an hour for squad, company, and battalion drill. There was but little drilling aside from battalion drill, dress parade, and guard mounting, owing to the large proportion of men detailed for guard duty at the same time, and the distance of the points where they were required from each other. On the 11th I was ordered to take possession of the ferry boat plying across the river at this point, (which had been permitted to run under certain restrictions,) and allow no persons to cross the river, unless they were known to be loyal, and for proper purposes; the large number of loyal persons fleeing from the enemy, and those depending upon us for their daily supplies, rendered it a most delicate and perplexing duty. In taking possession of the boat, I was compelled to take into my custody two horses, the motive power of the boat. On the 15th, from demonstrations made by the enemy at Humboldt, Ky., for the supposed purpose of taking the mail boat or of effecting a crossing at a shoal place known to us as Gunpowder bar, there were four companies of the Eighty-Third Indiana Regiment, then stationed at Lawrenceburg, sent to this point and attached to my command. One company, Captain Eggleston's, was ordered, and immediately proceeded to a point opposite Gunpowder bar, to guard that crossing. One company, Captain Morris' and Lieutenant Humyer's section of artillery was ordered to Millersburg, so as to be in a position to support the force either at this place or Gunpowder bar, and at the same time two pieces of artillery, under the command of Captain Craig, of Lawrenceburg, were ordered to this place.

On the morning of the 16th, from telegraphic reports received from the patriots, I was induced to believe that the enemy had or were planting a battery on the hights about Humbolton, I ordered Captain Craig, with his two pieces of artillery, to a point opposite to that place, and accompanied him myself, leaving J. C. Wells in command of the forces here. I also ordered Lieutenant Haines back to this place. On my arrival opposite Humbolton, I made a careful examination of the hills overlooking the place, but could not see any thing that even looked suspicious, we remained on the ground during the night, saw a few signal rockets thrown up from a point back of the town, but saw nothing indicating the presence of the enemy; at an early hour in the morning we returned. Believing it unnecessary to keep Captain Craig's Artillery Company any longer he was ordered back to Lawrenceburg, on the 17th.

It was believed by military gentlemen whose position would enable them to form a more accurate opinion than I could, that the enemy had planted a battery in the immediate vicinity of Humbolton, and masked it so effectually as to escape observation. After consultation with Captains Williams and Ross, of the gunboats Cottage and Heely, I determined to proceed to that point, and make a careful reconnoissance of the country around that place, those gentlemen promptly offering to act in concert with their boats, and transport any force I wanted to convey to that point.

On the morning of the 18th, I ordered Captain Calvert to detail twenty-five men from his company, and Lieutenant Bridges, then in command of Captain Layard's company, to detail a like number from his company, and had him provide for the fifty men, who proceeded by land to Humbolton, where they were met by the gunboats Cottage and Heely, with Captains Eggleston's and Morris' companies on board, who had been ordered to that point per boat. After the infantry had been landed, the gunboats took positions so as to command the only two approaches to the river. The two companies belonging to the boats were thrown out so as to make a critical reconnoissance of the hights overlooking the town and river. Captains Morris' and Eggleston's companies remained on the ground in order that they might act as emergency should require, while Captain Calvert proceeded with his force down the river to Bigboone creek, then up said creek to a point three miles beyond Bigboone spring. After obtaining the most reliable information in relation to the position, purposes, and movements of the enemy, he returned. The infantry, having satisfied themselves that there was not any of the enemy about, also returned. Having accomplished some of the objects of the expedition, we returned about nine o'clock.

On the 19th, having learned, from the most reliable information, that the enemy was retiring back in Kentucky, the several companies were relieved in a great measure from guard duty. On the 20th, Captain Cole's and Captain Baricklow's companies were discharged from camp. On the 21st, the four companies of the Eighty-Third Regiment were ordered back to Lawrenceburg; and on the 22d, Captain Wells' company was relieved from duty.

I sincerely regret that other duties have prevented me from giving as full an account of our operations as I would like to have done.

In conclusion, allow me to say that both officers and men discharged every duty imposed upon them so promptly and cheerfully, that I have no special comments to make.

H. T. WILLIAMS,
Commanding.

OF

COLONEL J. H. BURKAM,

COMMANDING TWELFTH REGIMENT, FOURTH BRIGADE, INDIANA LEGION.

INDIANA LEGION,
HEADQUARTERS TWELFTH REGIMENT,
Lawrenceburg, December 6, 1862.

Brigadier-General A. C. DOWNEY,
Commanding Fourth Brigade, Indiana Legion:

DEAR SIR:—On the 6th of September I was placed in command of this regiment, and on the 8th my command was ordered into active service. I had then but seven companies, two of artillery and five of infantry, as follows: Captain Miller, artillery, 64 men; Captain Phalon, 92; Captain Geigolt, 101; and Captain Webber, 64, at Aurora. Captain Craig, artillery, 64 men; Captain Howard, 87 men; and Captain Thompson, 78 men, at Lawrenceburg.

These companies were at once placed on duty at their respective stations, and kept a strong picket by night along the whole of our county bordering on the Ohio river, and by day a vigilant guard at the shallow places in the river, and at the towns of Aurora and Lawrenceburg.

I was greatly aided by Colonel Patterson, at Aurora, and afterward by R. C. Bond, Esq., as also by Captain Howard, and A.

Brookwalter, Esq., of Lawrenceburg, the latter of whom acted as my aid, and greatly facilitated the execution of my orders.

The companies, for the most part, subsisted themselves, for which, with the pay for their services, pay-rolls have been filed at Adjutant-General Noble's office, at Indianapolis.

The immediate danger of our border having passed away, I find it very difficult to keep up sufficient interest in the organized companies to continue their drill and efficiency. Their entire dependence upon their own donations to keep up armories, music, and other expenses, seriously check their military enthusiasm; and to retain them in organized companies, some direct appropriations must be made to meet these expenses. The law under which these companies are organized is very deficient, and I would suggest its material change. The election of company officers, for example, should precede their being mustered in as a company; and in view of the fact that so few of those of our State, who are liable to do military duty, are required for border defense, those who do not connect themselves with the Legion should pay a specific tax to the State for a military fund, out of which the Legion could be uniformed, and all armory expenses paid.

By legislative co-operation, the companies now formed could not only be made more efficient, but new companies would be formed, and a general desire would be manifested to be enrolled in the Legion.

I am, General, yours most respectfully,

J. H. BURKAM,
Colonel Twelfth Regiment, Indiana Legion.

It is believed that no State has fed her troops better, or as cheaply, as we have ours. My entire study was, to look after the welfare and comfort of our volunteers, as was evidenced from the fact that I furnished them articles of food and necessaries unknown to the "Army Regulations." And the universal expression among the men, when they were transferred from State authority to that of the General Government, and ruled down to the "Army Regulations," was, that they did not fare near as well, or as comfortably, as when under State control. At the same time I studied ecomony in my expenditures, and endeavored to impress it upon all the officers and men under my control. The usual method of determining the cost per ration is by simply taking the cost of the articles of subsistence. But in my statement I have included every thing, my salary, and those of all the men in my employ, together with all the expenditures, of every kind, in my department.

On or about the 1st of September, 1861, an arrangement was effected with the General Government, by which the General Government took the entire charge and control of feeding the troops during their organization into regiments. Since that time the State has fed but few troops, and those only in small squads or detachments, no account of which appears in this report.

Since the 1st of September, 1861, I have traveled under your direction, looking after the wants and interests of our troops, more than five thousand four hundred miles by rail, and over one thousand miles on horseback, having seen and visited nearly all the Indiana regiments in the field, west of Cheat Mountain, in Virginia. I think a vast amount of good was thus accomplished, in getting clothing, and other necessary articles, to our soldiers, some of whom were almost destitute, and in visiting the sick and disabled in hospitals, and other places, and aiding them in obtaining discharges and furloughs home; reports of which, in detail, have been made to you from time to time. From careful observation, I have no doubt that hundreds of valuable lives have been saved to their country and families, by your energy and exertions in their behalf.

While visiting the regiments I have brought home, for the families of our soldiers, over one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, not one cent of which, to the best of my knowledge or belief, has failed to reach its proper destination.

On the 28th day of June, 1862, you established an additional department to systematize more fully the plan of caring for our sick and disabled soldiers in the field and hospitals, and placed me at the head of that department. I immediately opened a set of books, and furnished blank reports to all our Regimental Surgeons, and also gave instructions to agents appointed by yourself, to visit camps and hospitals wherever there were sick or wounded Indiana soldiers. By means of the reports of these surgeons and agents, I have been able to answer hundreds of inquiries relative to husbands, sons and friends, as to their condition and location. I was also, under your direction, placed in charge of the "Soldier's Home," an institution created to take care of convalescent soldiers, and to feed and provide for soldiers awaiting discharges, medical examinations, or military orders; and also to provide meals for regiments or squads of soldiers in transit. The buildings were erected, but not furnished, by the General Government. We can comfortably lodge from two hundred to two hundred and fifty, and can get a good meal for one thousand men—so complete are all our cooking arrangements—in thirty minutes, and feed them all at the same time, in our large dining room.

This building was formally opened August 1, 1862. During the month of August, there were prepared and furnished to the inmates, twenty thousand nine hundred and thirty-one meals; during September, fifty-eight thousand one hundred and forty meals; during October, forty-eight thousand seven hundred and forty-four meals; during November, forty-one thousand four hundred and twenty-seven meals. The General Government furnishes the provisions; but by means of a system of rigid economy, the "Soldier's Home" has made for the Government in the way of savings,—for the month of August, ninety-nine dollars and seventy-seven cents; for September, one thousand six hundred and sixty-six dollars and thirty-seven cents; for October, nine hundred and forty-five dollars and sixty-six cents; for November, one thousand one hundred and fifty-eight dollars and fifteen cents. I think I shall be able to get enough of these savings from the proper Government officer, to meet the current expenses of the institution, and to pay the sum of about twelve hundred dollars expended in furnishing the interior of the buildings. This we are entitled to have, and then the Government will have made a large amount of money by these savings.

On the 1st day of September, 1862, at your instance and request, I took charge of the Post Bakery, at Camp Morton. Those ovens, three in number, were built by the profits of the "Prisoner's Fund," and are of capacity to bake from six to seven thousand loaves daily. I immediately increased the capacity of the bakery to such an extent that we can now bake from eleven to twelve thousand loaves daily. This was done by building an additional oven, and adding new buildings, with increased facilities, at an expense of five hundred and seventy-three dollars and seventy-four cents, which has all been paid out of the profits. This enlargement was necessary from the fact that we have been frequently called upon to furnish over eleven thousand loaves daily.

The profits of the bakery, after paying all the expenses of hands, wood, &c., have been, for the month of September, one thousand two hundred and eighty-eight dollars and eighty-three cents; for October, one thousand four hundred and ninety-three dollars and seventy cents; for November, three thousand three hundred and fifty-eight dollars and eighty seven cents.

These profits have been expended by me in furnishing stoves and other conveniences and comforts for soldiers' quarters and regimental hospitals, which could not be procured from Government officers, or by any other means, except by the State or private contributions.

Vouchers for all moneys expended by me, from this fund, are in my hands, subject to such disposition as you or the Legislature may deem fit to make.

Respectfully,

A. STONE,

Quarter-Master General and Acting Com'y General.
